HOOVER TALKS WITH CABINET ON DEBT ISSUE

Lengthy Session Takes Up Budget Balancing Problem Also.

CONGRESS LEADERS ACCEPT INVITATION

(Associated Press.)

With the urgent problems of war debts and budget balancing almost constantly before him, President Hoover yesterday summoned the first full meeting of his Cabinet in more than two months for an extraordinary session lasting nearly two hours.

Although the White House itself maintained a silence upon these questions, authoritative sources indicated that both subjects received official attention.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders, both Democratic and Republican, accepted Mr. Hoover's invitation to discuss the debt situation with him on Wednesday, the day following the Chief Executive's conference on that subject with President-elect Roosevelt. In addition, reiterated opposition to debt revision was voiced at both ends of the Capitol.

As members of the official family filed into the Executive Offices yesterday for their first meeting since the Democratic victory at the polls, they were informed of plans for Mr. Hoover's parley with Gov. Roosevelt next Tuesday afternoon.

Budget Considered.

Since midsummer at least one and sometimes four or five of the Cabinet officers have been absent from the regular semiweekly meeting—away on campaign or other business. But all answered the call yesterday.

Secretary Stimson, carrying a bulging brief case as he left this longest Cabinet meeting in six months, smilingly told newspapermen that the gathering had considered domestic budget matters.

Secretary Hyde added a few moments later that the members gave most of their attention "to financial affairs—further than that the deponent sayeth not."

Other Cabinet officers were equally noncommittal, but it was intimated that both national and international matters came within the session's scope, with most emphasis being placed upon scaling down the Government's expenditures to equal its collections.

Secretary Mills, who will sit with the Chief Executive during his conference with Mr. Roosevelt, as will Prof. Raymond Moley, of Columbia, with the President-elect, remained behind after the general Cabinet session had ended.

Leaders Accept Invitation.

Definite acceptances were received by the Chief Executive from all six members of the House ways and means committee invited to Wednesday's White House debt parley. Senators Harrison, of Mississippi, and George, of Georgia, Democratic members of the Senate finance committee, also accepted, while Senator King, of

Investment House Head Is Sentenced

5 to 10 Years Hard Labor Given Daniel O'Connell After Failure.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Daniel O'Connell, former president of the bankrupt investment house of O'Connell & Co., Inc., was sentenced to from five to ten years at hard labor today by a judge who said he had conducted his business "in mad speculation, in forgery and thievery the like of which I have never heard before."

O'Connell had previously pleaded guilty to grand larceny indictments. Judge John J. Freshchi, in general sessions court, imposed the sentence, saying O'Connell had left in his wake "financial and, in some cases, social ruin."

The judge said "humble people, some of whom were domestics, some illiterate, lost all of their savings." Liabilities of the bankrupt investment company have been estimated as high as $4,000,000 and a probation report said the heaviest losses had been suffered by members of the clergy in both their individual and clerical capacities.

Voted Best

Helen Hayes and Fredric March Are Honored for Acting by Academy.

Hollywood, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Helen Hayes and Fredric March were voted the best actress and actor of 1932 by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at the annual banquet here tonight for the award of filmdom's highest honors.

Helen Hayes

Miss Hayes, nominated for her part in "The Sin of Madelon Claudet," received more votes on secret ballot by which each academy member votes than Marie Dressler, winner of the award last year and a nominee again this year, and Lynn Fontaine, the third selection.

The veteran March received the honor for his work in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," winning over the other two nominees, Wallace Beery and Alfred Lunt, husband of Miss Fontaine.

Fredric March

More than a thousand actors and actresses applauded as Lionel Barrymore, winner of the award for actor last year, called Miss Hayes and March to a platform where he presented them with trophies, symbolic of the honor bestowed upon them.

To Frank Borzage, veteran director, went the honor of the best work in direction for the picture "Bad Girl." The work on this pic-

ROOSEVELT TALKS WITH 3 MARCHERS

Answers Police "Terrorism" Charge by Curt Reminder of Former Disorders.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—President-elect Roosevelt today talked with three representatives of "hunger marchers" who demanded he urge President Hoover to withdraw his request to governors to discourage a march on Washington when Congress meets next month.

The three men who sat with the New York governor in his study at the executive mansion for more than an hour also called upon him to summon the legislature to appropriate $100,000,000 to feed the jobless; provide transportation for the Washington invasion and guarantee the demonstrators immunity from "police terrors" in crossing New York.

"Every person," said Mr Roosevelt, "has a perfect right to travel, and naturally the governor hopes the police throughout New York will exercise humane methods and give fair treatment."

"Yes," ironically replied Milton Stone, of New York, one of the delegates, "we got fair treatment here on March 2, two years ago."

"But you were guilty of a very serious offense against the State," the governor cut in. "You attempted to break up a session of the legislature and nothing happened until you tried."

State police on the occasion referred to ejected a delegation of Communists who demanded an unem-

U. S. REBUKES ARGENTINA ON CHACO STAND

Foreign Minister's Acts to Thwart Neutrals' Peace Work Hit.

NOTE OF SOUTHERN NATION ANSWERED

Differences Over Arbitration Prompted by Attitude Toward This Country.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Efforts of Argentine Foreign Minister Saavedra Lamas to thwart the peace-making moves of the United States and the other neutral nations who are trying to end the war between Bolivia and Paraguay in the Chaco were sharply criticized in a note forwarded to the Argentine government a fortnight ago by the neutral commission. The note was drafted by Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin-American affairs, who is acting as chairman of the commission of neutrals.

The neutral note is in reply to a previous one from the Argentine government dated October 18. At that time the Buenos Aires foreign office characterized the moves now being made to bring Paraguay and Bolivia together in peaceful settlement of their Chaco differences as "coercive" and an "intervention."

Note to Argentina.

The neutral note reminded the Argentine foreign minister that "American nations would not be fulfilling their duties as members of the family of American States if they did not exert unmistakably and unequivocally their full efforts on behalf of peace."

The origin of the present incident, however, dates back to the traditional attitude of Argentina with regard to the United States. The lack of cooperation which Argentina has studiously manifested toward Pan-American moves where the United States was a participant kept Argentina away from the Conference of Conciliation and Arbitration in 1928, where the Chaco problem first arose.

Before the commission of inquiry went into action at that time, formal steps were taken to assure that such action would not be embarrassing to the Argentine government, which was then, as now, working for peace along her own lines and in accordance with her own interests. President Irigoyen warmly assured the commission that Argentina would drop out of the discussions and that the good offices of the commission were cordially received by his government.

Argentina's Peace Work.

When the latest incident arose in the Chaco, Argentina ignored the polite courtesy of the commission of inquiry and started out on a policy of peace that has run counter at all times to the efforts of the Commission of Neutrals here in Washington.

The member nations of the com-

Brooklyn Painter's Claim To Wendel Fortune Fails

Court Criticizes "Indecent" Presentation of False Claims of Relationship by Worker in Effort to Get Huge Estate.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The claim of Thomas Patrick Morris, Brooklyn house painter, that he is the son of the late John Gottlieb Wendel and thus heir to the great fortune left by Wendel's sister, Ella Von E. Wendel, was denied today by Surrogate James A. Foley.

The surrogate also criticized Morris for what he termed the "indecent" presentation of false claims and said he was going to ask the district attorney to investigate the Morris claims with a view of criminal prosecution.

Morris claimed kinship through the purported marriage of Wendel and one Mary Ellen Devine, of Scotland, and offered into evidence a certificate of this marriage.

After handwriting experts for the Wendel estate testified this was spurious, the counsel for Morris, Raymond Wise, in court today, said he was convinced the certificate was a false document.

Surrogate Foley termed the certificate a "fraud and a deceit" and expressed "sorrow" that Morris' claim could have been made in a court of law.

$1,378,300 Remains Unpledged to Chest

$221,332 Is Donated in Day as More Firms Reach Quotas.

Five and one-half days to raise $1,378,300.50.

That was the task which yesterday afternoon confronted the 5,000 workers in the Community Chest campaign if the Chest goal of $2,419,787 is to be raised by next Wednesday night. Reports made yesterday brought the total to date past the million mark for the first time in the campaign.

The $221,332.78 reported yesterday blocked out 33 dark days on the calendar at the rate of the $6,629 per day which is required to meet the needs of the Chest organizations. There are still 209 days yet to be blocked out on the calendar if the goal is to be reached.

In announcing the amount yet to be raised, Campaign Chairman Newbold Noyes admonished the workers present that they would have to redouble their efforts if the needs of the 63 organizations in the Chest are to be met. He said that at the present ratio of contributions reported, the Chest would fall far short of its goal, a condition which he declared must not be permitted to occur.

The workers were greatly heartened by a telegram from President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt and a radiogram from Gen. John J. Pershing, former chairman of the Government Unit, who is en route back to the United States.

One of the most remarkable increases in gifts reported this year was made by the Group Solicitation Unit in regard to the joint gift of the employes of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the Georgetown Gas Light Co. Last year about 35 per cent of the employes of these organizaltions gave for a total slightly in excess of $3,000. This year, Marcy L. Sperry, new president of the Washington Gas Light Co., took a personal interest in the organization

CHARGES DROPPED IN F. H. SMITH CASE

U. S. Declines to Prosecute on 7 Indictments; 2 in Jail Can Seek Paroles.

Seven indictments, all of them against former officers and employes of the defunct F. H. Smith Co., were dropped in the District Supreme Court yesterday when Neil Burkinshaw, a Special Assistant United States Attorney, went before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat and notified him that the Government did not wish to carry on the prosecution.

Included in the list of those who were named in the indictments are Frederick N. Zihlman, former representative from Maryland; Samuel J. Henry, a former president of the Smith Co.; C. Elbert Anadale and John H. Edwards, jr., both former vice presidents; Miss Helen L. Schneider, former private secretary to G. Bryan Pitts, who was at one time head of the Smith Co.; H. O. Hart, an accountant, and Pitts.

Three of them are serving jail terms. They are Edwards and Anadale, and Pitts, who is serving fourteen years. The dropping of the indictments means that both Edwards and Anadale now can apply for parole, their sentences being shorter than Pitts'.

Zihlman was indicted for mail fraud in 1929. Others in the same indictment were Daniel R. Crissinger, Henry, Anadale and Edwards. The Government dropped charges against Crissinger two months ago.

Indictments charging perjury, mail fraud, embezzlement and conspiracy against Pitts were dropped. Hart and Miss Schneider were named in an indictment charging conspiracy to commit perjury. They also were given "nolle prosses."

Pitts, Edwards and Anadale were convicted of conspiring to embezzle $5,000,000 of the funds of the Smith company in December, 1930.

Border Air Patrol Catches Rum Ace

War Flier Captured With Alcohol Cargo After Texas Race.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—An air race from the Mexican border ended 30 miles east of here today when a United States Customs Aerial Patrol forced down a 300-horsepower plane with a rifle, seized 80 gallons of alcohol and took into custody W. T. Ponder, American World War flier, who said he had 11 enemy planes to his credit.

D. S. Conner, chief patrol agent, said the pursuit started when R. P. Deuel, pilot, and T. B. Oden, mounted inspector, saw Ponder's plane speed north across the Rio Grande between Eagle Pass and [illegible]edo, Tex.

The customs officers, flying a small but speedy biplane, immediately gave chase. Just before reaching San Antonio the Government plane closed up. Oden, armed with a repeating rifle, pointed the weapon at the pilot and signaled him to land. The pilot chose an abandoned field.

EARLY BEER ACTION TALK GROWS DAILY

Vandenberg Says Vote Was "Undeniable Mandate" to Change Law.

(Associated Press.)

Talk of early action on beer legislation is growing as Senate and House members gather to prepare for the December session.

Because of what he termed a just regard for the rights of majorities, Senator Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, said he favors liberalization of the Volstead act and immediate submission of a prohibition repeal amendment.

Vandenberg said the vote in Michigan repealing the prohibition clause in the Constitution demonstrated that two out of three voters "demand a change" and characterized the election results as "an undeniable mandate."

Last spring Vandenberg voted against legalizing beer, but supported the Glass resolution to repeal the eighteenth amendment and provide a new ban against the saloon.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the Senate finance committee, expressed the view that beer and light wines should be legalized in the short session if the Treasury could not obtain needed revenue elsewhere.

"If the Treasury deficit continues to mount," Harrison said, "I see no reason why beer should not be legalized." He forecast there would not be sufficient votes to pass a beer bill over a presidential veto, but added he was not informed on what action

Kin of U. S. Grant Surviving Injuries

Prince Michael Fell While Riding Horse Near Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Prince Michael Cantacuzene was reported recovering today at Alice Home Hospital in suburban Lake Forest from bruises and strains suffered yesterday in a fall from a horse.

X-ray showed Prince Michael, the great-grandson of former President U. S. Grant, suffered no internal injuries or broken bones. He was expected to be able to leave the hospital within a day or two.

Prince Michael is the son of the Russian prince, Michael Cantacuzene. His mother, the former Julia Dent Grant, was the granddaughter of Gen. Grant. He is the husband of the former Clarissa P. Curtis, of Boston.

SAVINGS DRIVE SET TO AVERT ADDED TAXES

Balanced Budget Is Held Vital With Economy Favored Route.

A. F. OF L. SUPPORT ADDED TO CHAMBER'S

Sales Levy Is Urged Only as Last Resort; Congress to Press Expense Cut.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Last session's battle cry, "balance the budget," and the recurring echo, "Federal economy," yesterday loomed as the dominant watchwords, aside from beer, at the approaching short session of Congress. Government retrenchment versus new forms of taxation will be the questions at issue.

Opposition to a new program of taxation at the coming short session yesterday crystalized in two widely divergent statements from the United States Chamber of Commerce and the American Federation of Labor.

Chamber Statement.

The chamber statement, drafted by its committee on Federal taxation, laid emphasis on the prior need for Federal retrenchment. Consideration of a manufacturers' sales tax was favored only "when it is clear that additional revenues must be provided."

At the same time, President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, pledged his organization to unalterable opposition to enactment of a sales tax of any kind at the December session.

Meantime the administration was battling a mounting deficit, already in excess of $700,000,000. President Hoover discussed ways and means of cutting costs at a Cabinet meeting yesterday. The demand for economy again was voiced on both sides of the Capitol, where returning Democratic members predicted a deficit for the year of $2,000,000,000.

Party Parleys Awaited.

Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, likely next chairman of the Senate finance committee, said the Democratic policy on increased taxation will have to wait on party conferences. He laid stress on the need for paring expenses as Congress takes up the huge departmental supply bills.

His views were reflected in the Senate by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, and in the House by Representative George Huddleston (Democrat), Alabama, both of whom placed economy first on the Congress calendar.

The chamber statement was issued by Chairman Redfield Proctor, of the chamber's committee on Federal taxation, and took the form of a report

Colorado Republican Seems Sure of Election

Denver, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Election of Karl C. Schuyler, Republican, to the unexpired term of the late Senator Charles W. Waterman in the United States Senate appeared assured tonight.

Tabulations by the Associated Press, including official figures from 29 of the State's 63 counties and the absentee vote count from 38 counties, give Schuyler a lead of 856 over his Democrat opponent, Walter Walker, Grand Junction publisher. Totals tonight gave Schuyler, 206,242; Walker, 205,386.

FOUND ALIVE

COL. RAYMOND ROBINS.

HONDURAN ENVOY'S DEATH IS MYSTERY

Panamanian Consul General Ill in San Francisco; Blames Liquor.

San Francisco, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Dr. Jose A. Membreno, consul general of Honduras, was found dead, and Adolfo Aleman, consul general of Panama, was discovered unconscious in the former's hotel apartment here today. Aleman, reviving, said both had become ill after drinking liquor.

Officers said Membreno, whose body was found on the floor, had been dead several hours. Aleman was discovered lying on the bed. Aleman was taken to a hospital, where he again lapsed into unconsciousness. His condition was reported critical.

The two had attended a dinner of the San Francisco consular corps last night, having left the gathering about 1:30 o'clock this morning. Others who attended the dinner said they saw nothing unusual about them as they departed.

Col. George M. Seaver, assistant Federal prohibition administrator, ordered an investigation immediately.

Subsequently the police found in the room a bottle containing liquor, and ordered it analyzed.

Dr. Membreno was 53 years old. He came to San Francisco nearly four years ago with a son, who entered school here. His wife did not come to the United States.

Friends said today the Honduran's health had not been good, and that his physician had warned him to abstain from alcoholic beverages. They added Consul General Aleman had been ill recently with influenza. The latter's wife and three children are here. Senora Aleman has been seriously ill several weeks.

Officials of the consular corps insisted nothing was served at last night's dinner dance that could have been injurious to anybody.

Deputy Coroner Mike Brown, after investigation, announced his belief Dr. Membreno had died of natural causes, of an ailment from which he had suffered several years.

Dr. A. C. Reed, of Mary's Help Hospital, said Consul Aleman would recover. He said Aleman was suffering from overindulgence in food and liquor.

Canada Delays Hearing On Insull's Extradition

Orillia, Ontario, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Martin J. Insull, former Chicago utilities operator who is under indictment in Cook County, Illinois, on charges of embezzlement and larceny, returned here tonight following upon a two weeks' postponement of the extradition case against him.

LONG MISSING DRY CRUSADER IS IN CAROLINA

WIFE, IN FLORIDA, OFF TO ASHEVILLE

Friend of Hoover Identified by Nephew; Conflicting Clews Marked Hunt.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Col. Raymond Robins, dry leader and close friend of President Hoover, who disappeared September 3, was discovered yesterday in an obscure mountain village of western North Carolina, a victim of amnesia, it was announced here tonight.

Col. Robins was identified today by his nephew, John Dreier, of New York, who said his uncle is suffering from amnesia and has been spending the past two months in the mountains near here.

"Col. Robins is in sound physical condition and is in perfect control of his ordinary mental faculties," a statement issued by the nephew said. He did not qualify this apparent discrepancy with the statement his uncle suffers amnesia.

Found by Dry Agents.

The Associated Press learned that for the past two months the philanthropist has been living in the village of Whittier, deep in the mountains, at a boarding-house, under the name of "Rogers."

His finding, after a nation-wide search, resulted from the work of two agents of the Federal prohibition department, who were in the vicinity of Whittier on other business.

The agents, Charles Dranton and Ray Bigges, noticed a picture of Robins in an Atlanta newspaper and suspected that "Rogers" was Robins. They communicated with J. Ed Kanipe, deputy prohibition administrator, who sent to Washington for an authenticated picture.

Kanipe went to Whittier yesterday for Col. Robins and the identification was completed today by Dreier.

Conflicting Rumors in Hunt.

The finding of Col. Robins exploded widespread reports that he was the victim of bootleggers or Russian Imperialists. He disappeared presumably while on his way to the White House, where he had an appointment with President Hoover.

Dreier issued the following statement:

"Col. Raymond Robins was located in the mountains of western North Carolina through the agency of the Federal prohibition authorities yesterday. He was identified by his nephew, who came from New York for that purpose, today.

"Col. Robins is suffering from amnesia and has been spending the past two months in the mountains near here. He is being taken into the care of his family, and is receiving the proper medical attention."

How to Outguess Narcotics Sellers Revealed by U. S.

Terse But Thrilling Treasury Report Tells of Morphine Sale Under Muzzle of Machine Gun and Discovery of Heroin in Olive Oil.

(Associated Press.)

In the terse and business-like language of the Government a strange tale was told yesterday—the inside story of the war on narcotics.

A matter-of-fact little publication of the Treasury Department described the finding of hundreds of contraband packages hidden in outlandish places on glamorous ships from foreign ports.

Seventy-three ounces of morphine were carried off a Japanese ship at Seattle in the cotton quilted jacket of a dapper quartermaster—and into the arms of vigilant officers.

Forty-seven tins of heroin were discovered in twelve innocent-looking barrels of olive oil on a Greek boat docked at Brooklyn.

HOME LOAN CHANGE URGED BY COCHRAN

Missourian to Seek Revision of Banking Law to Liberate Cash.

(Associated Press.)

Extensive revision of the Home Loan Banking law will be asked at the coming session by Representative Cochran, Missouri Democrat.

The reason, he said yesterday, is that the act establishing the system "did nothing but extend false hopes to the people." He added the system's "failure" was attested by the fact that it had not yet made a loan.

Cochran, chairman of the House expenditures committee, said he expected to get banking committee members, who voted against the bill last session, to join his move for revision.

He recalled that Democratic and Republican House leaders had been somewhat apathetic toward the original bill, passing it only upon the continued insistence of the administration.

Scores of his constituents since the bill became law, Cochran said, have complained to him that the provision limiting loans to 40 per cent of assessed valuation restricts benefits to too narrow a field. Contracted values makes it necessary, he asserted, to increase that minimum. "I'm going to try to have it raised to 75 or 80 per cent," he said. "It's got to be that high to do any good at all."

REPORT DESCRIBES WAR ON NARCOTICS

hollow mast, under the floor of a pantry locker, in a pillow slip and a laundry bag, in egg crates in the steward's icebox, behind the paneling of a stateroom, in coal bunkers under a mountain of fuel.

From the Far East through Pacific ports comes most of the smoking opium in characteristic packages bearing the imprint of a rooster, a picture of a fat little man on a queer, horned animal, and numerous Chinese characters.

But Turkey, the Government reported, seems to have replaced France as the principal source of narcotics, the bulk of which enter through New York.

One agent in New York contracted to buy 75 ounces of morphine from Charles Liggio and John Brunelli for $3,525.

"In order to receive delivery," said the report, "the officer and an employe were compelled to ride in an automobile with Liggio to a dark street, followed by another car in which Brunelli and two of his other associates were riding.

"Both cars stopped and while the actual delivery to the officer was being made, Brunelli was backed against a building wall and was covering the agent and employe with a machine gun to guard against possible arrest."

Sequel to this is a sentence a little farther on recording that these and two other "peddlers" were arrested shortly after.

With evident relief, the Federal authorities reported that the career of the schooner Marabella now seems definitely at an end, thanks to the cooperation of the Chinese, Canadian, Panamanian and Mexican governments.

Flying the flag of Panama, this audicious craft in the summer of 1931 sailed from China with a big cargo of aliens and opium and despite a careful watch along the Pacific Coast sneaked into a secluded Mexican port, and landed its contraband with the aid of aeroplanes.

Aroused at what it described as "one of the largest smuggling operations ever attempted in the United States," the American Government this year succeeded in having the ship confiscated by the Chinese government, its registry canceled by Panama and its skipper banished by Hongkong authorities.

HOOVER AND CABINET STUDY DEBTS ISSUE

Utah, has indicated he will accept with the three ranking Republican members of the committee.

Mr. Harrison, who will be chairman of the committee in the new Congress, yesterday reiterated his opposition to debt revision. He asserted that a revival of the foreign debt commission would carry with it a suggestion "that we are now willing to cancel the debts, in whole or in part."

"One very telling fact can not be overlooked in the consideration of this question," he said, "and that is that France, for the year 1931, expended for military purposes, as revealed by the League of Nations' year book, $575,000,000; the United Kingdom, $460,000,000, and Italy, $262,000,000. Even Germany expended $170,000,000."

Senator George likewise spoke against revival of the debt commission, as did Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, shortly after he returned yesterday to the Capital.

"If the Congress should grant another moratorium," Mr. McKellar said, "or appoint a commission to look into making a further reduction of these debts, the next step will be a request for American home owners and farm owners to cancel their indebtedness to the Government.

"Let's reduce our tariff walls and let them trade with us. That is the best we could, or should, do for them and for us."

Meanwhile, Senator Norris, Nebraska Independent Republican, who supported Mr. Roosevelt, told newspapermen in McCook, Nebr., he was against any further moratorium, adding that "there isn't anything for us to do if they want to repudiate their war debts."

Senator George said that "throwing the debt problem into the lap of this Congress is futile." He added:

"It is regrettable because it prevents the consideration of vital domestic problems. With the information now in hand I would not support a resolution to re-create the debt-funding commission at the short session. Information that I do not possess might change my views on that matter, however."

Secretaries Stimson, Mills and J. Clawson Roop, director of the budget, conferred with the Chief Executive at length during the afternoon.

The Secretaries of State and Treasury talked with Mr. Hoover together, and Mills intimated later that their conversation had centered upon the requests of foreign debtors for a reopening of debt negotiations and a suspension of payments.

After Stimson had left, Mills and Roop talked with the Chief Executive together. The budget director said smilingly as he left that "the budget is budging satisfactorily," but declined to give definite figures.

1492 Most Unlucky Year For Indians, Hrdlicka Says

Article Enumerates Diseases Unknown to Aborigines Before Coming of White Man; Proficiency at Surgery and Treatment Described.

(Associated Press.)

America before the days of the white man was a decidedly more healthful place than after he arrived, it now appears.

Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, noted anthropologist of the Smithsonian Institution, says in an article published in the Journal of the American Medical Association that the American Indian before the coming of the whites was exceptionally healthy and almost free of deformities.

"Before America was discovered by Columbus it was one of the—if not the—most healthful continents," he asserts. "Many diseases were brought in by the white man. From this point of view, the discovery of the continent by Columbus was the direst misfortune that ever happened to a race of people."

Studying thousands of skeletons of pre-Columbian Indians and thousands of other modern full-blooded Indians of the two Americas, Dr. Hrdlicka has found that the original Indians had no rickets, tuberculosis, smallpox, plague, typhus, cholera, or measles. Cancer was very rare.

It is doubtful, he says, whether there were any epidemic diseases that originated in America. Our epidemics were brought from abroad by white settlers. Even broken bones were infrequent, and there were no foot troubles such as fallen arches.

Deaths in childbirth were frequent among young women, the old skeletons show, though no more so than in Europe at the same period. Indian children in the more densely populated regions suffered from a mysterious nutritional ailment that was sometimes fatal.

Medicine and surgery among the pre-Columbian Indians were at about the same atage as in Europe before the advent of Christianity, Dr. Hrdlicka says.

Although the medicine men used "magic" in treating disease, they also had much practical medical knowledge and were masters of the power of suggestion, which they used successfully in treating many cases of illness, he finds.

The Indians had antiseptics, he has found, and knew how to stop bleeding by coagulating the blood with scrapings from tanned skins. They had knowledge of emetics, cathartics, narcotics and tonics.

The "sweat lodge," a custom believed to have been brought from Asia, was used by the Indians as a general health measure and was especially effective for fatigue, arthritis and rheumatism.

Indians in the Andes region of South America were skillful in "trepanning," a skull operation to relieve pressure on the brain. Such head injuries were common because of the use of clubs, maces and slingshots in warfare.

There is even reason to believe the Indians of Peru were able on rare occasions to amputate limbs successfully, Dr. Hrdlicka says, for they left some artificial wooden stumps.

ROBINS FOUND IN CAROLINA SUFFERING FROM AMNESIA

gold in the mountains of western North Carolina, is at the home of Bob McHan at Whittier, near here, and "in tol'able good health." S. R. Paterson, sheriff of Swain County, said tonight.

Campaigned for Hoover.

"He told us he came from up Kentucky way," said Patterson. "He gave the name of Raymond Rogers. He said he knew President Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt and that he also knew Teddy Roosevelt.

"He made several political speeches up here. He was for Hoover for President. All his speeches were national. He didn't take part in the State races. He also made speeches upholding prohibition."

Robins' true identity began to be suspected a few days ago, Patterson said, when the story was published from Boston that a man arrested there told police that Robins had been drowned by a rum runner. An Atlanta paper carried Robins' picture. One of the residents at Whittier saw the picture and discovered the resemblance it bore to "Rogers."

"And then we found it was him," said Patterson.

Defended Prohibition.

Asked if Robins seemed to show any indication of suffering from amnesia, Patterson said, "No. He looked tol'able healthy. He was a pretty shrewd feller. He was friendly but he always went out in the mountains. A lot of people are looking for gold up here. I don't know that he ever found any but he seemed to always have enough money.

"He had a pretty good spiel when he was making speeches. He defended prohibition a lot and he certainly is for it. There are not many Republicans up here but he made a lot of speeches for Hoover.

"No, he never did say anything about having a wife. He didn't talk much about where he had come from and we understood that he came from up Kentucky way."

The area in which Col. Robins was prospecting lies partly within the newly created Great Smoky Mountains National Park. It includes the part of the Southern Appalachian chain that forms a dividing line between North Carolina and Tennessee. The area is plentiful in minerals and there have been many prospecting parties through here recently.

For that reason, Col. Robins' activities caused no comment.

Says Robins Acted "Queer."

"He acted a little queer sometimes," said Patterson. Asked what he meant by that, Patterson replied:

"Well, he kept to himself a lot and never did say much. He roomed up at Bob McHan's. Bob runs a rooming house up there at Whittier. He would go out in the morning and scramble around through the mountains and come back at night. He seemed to know what he was doing."

Brookesville, Fla., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Bearing up well under the strain of weeks of waiting and hoping that her husband would be found alive, Mrs. Raymond Robins left here tonight for Asheville immediately after receiving word that the missing prohibition leader had been found in a mountain village near there.

Accompanied only by her secretary, Miss Lina Von Borowsky, she departed by automobile, planning, it was said, to take a train or plane at Jacksonville and reach Asheville late tomorrow. Miss Von Borowsky told Col. P. B. Cogler, sr., manager here for Col. Robins, that Mrs. Robins was "bearing up well."

(Associated Press.)

Authoritative word that Col. Raymond Robins, prominent prohibitionist, has been located after being missing for many weeks, was received last night in Washington.

Howard T. Jones, assistant director of the Prohibition Bureau, said information to that effect had reached him and he was attempting to obtain details.

In the absence of Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, who was en route to his home in Salisbury, Md., he declined to comment further. Agents of the bureau have been active in the search for him since Robins' disappearance September 3, on the theory that he was the victim of bootleggers seeking reprisals for his activities against them.

The White House displayed a keen interest in the development as Col. Robins is a close friend of President Hoover and presumably was on his way to keep an engagement with the Chief Executive when he disappeared.

With the award of the eight-cylinder sedan, which has been on display since the opening of the exposition, November 9, the Food Show in the Washington Auditorium will close its 1932 session tonight. The final contest was won last night by Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stephenson, of Clinton, Md., with a dignified type of fox trot. The prize of a $5 gold piece to each member of the winning team was presented. Mrs. A. J. Donohue, of 1436 R street, won the cabinet radio.

Dairy Bootleggers Get D. C. Warning

Health Office to War on Cream Vendors Who Avoid Inspection.

The District Health Department is attempting to break up the bootlegging of cream into Washington, Health Officer William C. Fowler revealed yesterday, and several prosecutions are expected to be made in Police Court.

Cream bootlegging is made possible, Dr. Fowler explained, by a provision in the inspection act which allows the entry of cream intended for use in the manufacture of ice cream upon certification of health departments in other States, many of which are far less rigid in their standards.

As a consequence cream is brought into the District without local inspection and is then sold to restaurants, bakeries and other establishments at a cheap rate. There is a difference of $8 on a 10-gallon can between the prices of cream for ice cream and the table variety.

ture also brought another award, the only double honor to be given, and it went to Edwin Burke for his adaptation of the film

"Grand Hotel," the sensational film starring Lionel and John Barrymore, Greta Garbo, Wallace Beery and Joan Crawford, was voted the best picture of 1932.

Other awards were "Shanghai Express," which starred Marlene Dietrich, for best photography, the work being done by Leo Carmes; "Transatlantic," for the best art direction, by Gordon Wiles, and "The Champ," which starred Wallace Beery and for which he was nominated for best actor, as the best original motion picture story, written by Frances Marion. It was the second consecutive year that a story by Miss Marion has won highest recognition, her work on "The Big House" last year bringing her the same distinction.

Paramount Studio was awarded the honor for best work in sound reproduction.

Chicago Pupil Asks Data on D. C. Rates

P. U. C. Official Learns of Methods in Modern Geography.

Vice Chairman Riley E. Elgen of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday learned something about the modern methods of teaching geography in the public schools, and a seventh-grade Chicago school pupil soon will learn something about Washington electric and gas rates.

A letter from one Arthur Holtz, pupil in 7B at the Clissold School, Chicago, addressed to the commission a request that material be sent on lighting and heating for a geography course. Only by inquiring about a bit did Mr. Elgen learn that modern geography now covers such topics.

Not knowing what else to send in response to such a general inquiry, the commissioner dispatched copies of the rates of the Potomac Electric Power Co., and the Washington Gas Light Co.

McCarl Gives Decision On Furlough Deductions

Legislative furlough deductions of 8 1-3 per cent in the pay of Federal employes is appliable only to the time the employe is on duty status rather than to his basic salary, Comptroller General McCarl held in a decision made public yesterday.

For example, if any employe is placed on administrative furlough for a month, the legislative furlough is made on his salary for eleven months instead of on the amount he should have received on the twelve-month basis. The ruling was obtained by the Civil Service Commission.

Senator's Condition Takes Serious Turn in Seattle.

SENATOR WESLEY L. JONES.

Seattle, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Senator Wesley L. Jones' condition took a "serious turn" here today, members of the family said, necessitating a hasty consultation of his attending physicians. He has been in a sanitarium since the election, when he was defeated by Homer T. Bone, Tacoma Democrat.

"Senator Jones unexpectedly took a turn for the worse and his condition for the first time is causing alarm," said an announcement by the senator's son, Harry B. Jones, an attorney.

The chairman of the Senate appropriations committee was exhausted from his activities in the long congressional session and the fall political campaign. He entered the sanitarium November 9 for a "complete rest" and expected to remain there two weeks.

SHANNON TRADE QUIZ CLOSES AT CHICAGO

Chairman Declares Fear of Boycott Kept Many Witnesses Away.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Rep. Joseph B. Shannon, of Missouri, and his congressional committee today came to the end of their long investigation of Government competition with private business.

A surgeon, a coal dealer, an editor and a financier were their final witnesses. The hearings, begun last summer, recessed until the committeemen return to Washington, December 5, for the short session of Congress.

"There's just one other thing," Shannon said. "I probably will take some testimony next week in Kansas City from postal employes on their benefitting financially from installation of food vending machines in the postoffice there by outside merchants, free of taxes, rent or any other charge."

Shannon said he was particularly anxious to halt "club buying by Government employes of retail commodities, especially from office rooms in Government buildings."

Publicity Seen as Cure.

"Three-fourths of Government competition with industry can be stopped without legislation," he said. "Publicity would stop it. Executive orders would do the whole job. President Hoover never found out about it. He was too busy governing by a yardstick, by figures."

Abolition of appropriations for interfering Government bureaus and departments would take care of the other 25 per cent, Shannon said. His committee will confer in Washington on its recommendations.

Asked as to the committee's possible attitude toward continued operation of the Farm Board, Shannon said they "seemed to be against it, from what they have said here," but that no decision has been reached.

Shannon said his hearings at Kansas City, Washington, South Bend, Ind., and Chicago had brought out "only one-fifth of the evidence we might have obtained if Government employes' threats of boycott had not kept other witnesses away."

"A banker in Kansas City was afraid to testify in protest to the Federal Reserve Bank there renting rooms in its building," he said. "The banker owns a building himself. Washington merchants were afraid to testify for the same reason—boycott."

Phil S. Hanna, editor of the Chicago Journal of Commerce, denied before the committee a charge made by a previous witness that his newspaper was an "organ of railroad propaganda."

"That's a bit of looniness," he said.

Hanna criticized "slow publication" of Government bulletins, saying he was dropped from the mailing list for objecting to receiving in 1931 a Department of Labor bulletin on condensed milk in 1929.

In response to a committee request for suggestions to reducing Government costs and competition with business, Hanna said he would put a cost accountant in every Government bureau, sell bulletins only at cost of publication, and require members of Congress to pay for printed matter mailed to their constituents.

Farmers in Dark.

"That would cure 95 per cent of the ills of bureaucracy," he said. "Anyway, private firms would underbid the Government every time. Farmers should know they are paying indirect taxes to make up the cost of their agricultural bulletins."

Milton E. Robinson, jr., of Chicago, representing the National Retail Coal Merchants Association, protested against operation of the Government fuel yard in Washington, against cooperative buying by Federal employes and against Government-subsidized farm cooperatives handling retail coal.

He said Government trucks delivered to Federal buildings coal smoking from spontaneous combustion engendered in the fuel yard, but "private firms could not get away with that." Private firms could deliver it cheaper, he said, by 75 cents a ton.

PHILADELPHIA G. O. P. VICTORS FACE FIGHT

Contests to Be Filed for All House Seats in District, Probers Told.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Contests for the seat of every Republican representative elected last week in Philadelphia and in the three districts surrounding Philadelphia will be filed, the House committee investigating the election in Pennsylvania was told today.

S. Davis Wilson, chairman of the Roosevelt independent State committee, made the announcement as the committee adjourned to meet in Wilmington, Del., tomorrow.

Statements that former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy "bought" the election in Bucks County for Representative Henry W. Watson were made by George MacReynolds, of Doylestown, chairman of the Democratic committee of Bucks County. Watson (Republican) defeated N. L. Litchtenwalner (Democrat) in the Bucks-Lehigh County District.

Irregularities Charged.

Wilson's announcement was made after witnesses, testifying previously before the committee, said among other things that fake Ku Klux Klan cards were used by a Philadelphia Republican ward leader to swing votes away from Gov. Roosevelt; that 60 nonresident girl students at Beaver College in Montgomery County were voted illegally in that county, and that 100,000 voters in Philadelphia had been given illegal assistance.

The representatives elected in Philadelphia who face a possible contest are H. C. Ransley, James M. Beck, A. M. Waldron, George W. Edmonds, J. J. Connolly, E. L. Stokes and G. P. Darrow.

In Delaware County, James Wolfenden was reelected to Congress, and in Montgomery the successful candidate was J. William Ditter. They also face possible contests.

Says Grundy Bought Votes.

Chairman Heartsill Ragon (Democrat), Arkansas, allowed complaints to be filed against the representatives and announced that the complainants could submit additional specifications of alleged irregularities in writing.

The committee will consider them, Chairman Ragon said, and decide on the advisability of returning here to reopen the investigation.

MacReynolds told the committee he had information that two days before the election Grundy used large sums of money in Bucks County, and especially in Bristol, Pa.

Voters repeated, ballots were thrown out and other offenses were committed, he testified.

Intimidation Alleged.

Samuel Kerns, associate counsel for the Democratic advisory committee in Bucks County, said employes of the Pennsylvania Power & Light Co., Allentown, Pa., were told that "unless they voted the Republican ticket their jobs wouldn't be worth 40 cents."

Before the wholesale contests were announced, John J. Shanahan, defeated candidate on the face of the original returns in the Second District, told the committee he would file a contest against Beck.

The district from which Beck was elected is controlled by William S. Vare, Republican leader of Philadelphia. His seat in the House was contested at a former election on the ground that he was not a legal resident of the city.

Shrinkage Is Cited In Sheetz Estate

Candy Manufacturer's Son Says Value Is Not Now $1,000,000.

Because of the greatly depreciated worth of real estate holdings in six cities, the estate left by Elie Sheetz, candy manufacturer, will not reach a million-dollar valuation, Jet D. Sheetz, son of the founder of the Martha Washington Candy Stores, informed the District Supreme Court yesterday in a preliminary estimation of the estate.

Jet Sheetz is named as sole beneficiary of the estate, which was valued at $2,000,000 in early estimates. The son explained that his father's large donations to charities, together with depreciated values in securities, had added to the shrinkage of the estate.

The real estate is valued at $400,000 and the personal property at $415,000. Included in the real property are the premises at 517 Twelfth street and 1726 Fifth street northwest. Other holdings are stores and manufacturing plants in Fort Worth, Tex.; Kansas City, Baltimore, Chicago and Landover, Md. Attorneys John Lewis Smith and Alfred L. Bennett acted for the son. Mr. Sheetz died two weeks ago.

ployment appropriation. When hecklers resisted removal a general melee developed and several persons were injured.

Mr. Roosevelt explained to the three men, Stone, Sam Weissman, head of the unemployed council of New York City, and Richard Sullivan, that he was governor, but had no Federal authority and could not ask Mr. Hoover to rescind his request to governors.

George Cardinal Mundelein, of the Chicago Archdiocese of the Catholic Church, was a visitor at the mansion. He stopped off, en route through Albany, to call on Mr. Roosevelt. George Creel, civilian chairman of the Bureau of Public Information during the Wilson administration, also was a visitor today. Both visits were social, it was announced.

The governor was at the capitol a short time today, the first visit he has made to the Statehouse since his election to the Presidency. He cut short his stay to keep the appointment with Cardinal Mundelein.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt, accompanied by his wife, who arrived today from New York, will motor to Hyde Park for the week-end. He will go on to New York Monday afternoon, and the following day will meet President Hoover in Washington to discuss the international debt situation. After the White House conference Mr. Roosevelt will go to Warm Springs, Ga., for a two weeks' visit.

Garbage Grease Bids Increase.

mission are Uruguay, Colombia, Mexico, Cuba and the United States. Argentina was originally offered a place on this commission, and even though they had declined to participate in the conference where the commission was developed, the invitation to name a member to it was transmitted to the Buenos Aires government. The invitation was declined.

The effect of this Argentine peace policy has been to confuse the efforts of the commission of neutrals. Far from helping in the solution of the Chaco conflict, Argentina's attitude has been frequently regarded in diplomatic circles as highly disturbing. Bolivian sources have frequently charged Argentina with actively supporting Paraguay in the Chaco war by providing facilities of transport and other means.

Seeks to Rejoin League.

The same Argentine foreign minister is actively prosecuting a policy of bringing Argentina back to the League of Nations, on the theory that Argentina will lead other Latin American nations away from the influence of the United States by bringing them to Geneva.

The exchange of notes was revealed in a morning newspaper in Buenos Aires yesterday. The newspaper announced that the notes had been cabled from Washington, where their authenticity was verified by the Department of State. The revelation of the strongly worded neutral note proved a sensation in Buenos Aires, it was reported, and may have the effect of causing the resignation of the foreign minister.

The cooperation of the Argentine government was again requested in the note revealed yesterday. The position taken by the Argentine foreign minister was that no diplomatic action could be taken in the case of the Chaco which was not already contained in a legal instrument signed and ratified by the two countries to which it would apply.

The neutral note pointed out that such an attitude would be tantamount to a state of stagnation. The procedure of international law, the Argentine government was reminded, is alive, vascular and constantly advancing.

Balance of Message.

The note then declared:

"This proposal was not a threat expressed or implied because for the action mentioned to be taken the proposal would first have to be accepted by the two countries in dispute and they would accept it knowing in advance what action the neutral commission would take should either party violate its engagement regarding the termination of hostilities. While the acceptance of this proposal would not constitute an instrument signed and ratified by the countries to which it is intended to apply, it would nevertheless be an agreement equally effective for those two countries. The neutral commission feels that the interests of peace and the broader concepts of humanity do not require them to withhold proposals looking to the cessation of fighting until an instrument to which the two contending countries are parties has been ratified by them.

"In this general connection, however, the commission of neutrals considers that it should frankly state that it feels that the American nations would not be fulfilling fully their duties as members of the family of American States if they did not exert unmistakably and unequivocally their full efforts on behalf of peace. The limitation of their action in international controversies to instruments signed and ratified by the parties in dispute would seriously hamper efforts for peace in this hemisphere and would open wider the doors for settlement of differences by war or by force of arms."

The Argentine note was as follows in its salient paragraph:

"The Argentine Chancellery will not go along with the commission of neutrals in any act which, extending beyond the limits of good offices and the moral influence of the opinion of all the continent, might approximate an intervention, even though it should be merely a diplomatic one, inasmuch as such an attitude would be contrary to Argentine traditions and doctrines and even if it were a collective intervention of all the countries of America, it would be wanting in any legal instrument which alone, signed and ratified by the countries to which it is intended to apply, could justify a participation of a coercive character in harmony with the basic principles of international law, and its own attitudes of the past, which it would not forget in any case."

Note From Washington Answered by Argentina

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Replying to a note from the Washington Neutrals Chaco Commission, the chancellory today expressed satisfaction that the neutrals' proposals to withdraw diplomatic representatives from the belligerent countries, Paraguay and Bolivia, does not involve a "threat" to force those countries to settle their dispute.

The Argentine reply said any proposal to settle the controversy must be previously accepted by the "interested sides," Bolivia and Paraguay.

The note added "Argentina will not lose an opportunity to contribute to American peace and it coincides with the neutrals' opinion to save no efforts" to bring a cessation of hostilities. It said when moral suasion was insufficient, it was necessary to create a legal body which can reinforce peaceful action on a legal basis.

The chancellory pointed out that the League of Nations has called attention of both belligerents to the fact that they are signatories of the League covenant and that under it they had obligations.

ECONOMY VERSUS TAXES DUE TO BE MAIN CONGRESS FIGHT

to the board of directors now meeting in New Orleans.

"The members of the committee," it read, "stress first and foremost the reduction of Federal expenditures. Retrenchment in the cost of government is a necessary foundation for a sound fiscal program. Any new revenue program should be constructed only upon this foundation."

Chairman Proctor argued that proposals of new taxes should not be permitted to divert attention from the need to reduce expenditures, adding:

"There must, however, be clear evidence that the budget will be balanced in the near future."

The committee further stated:

"Unless it appears that there will be a deficit in the current year so great as to threaten national credit, it may be desirable that legislation providing new taxes, aside from the possible beer tax, be not attempted in the short session."

Warning on Sales Tax.

Cautious approach of sales tax proposals was advised, and a warning given that such a tax might encourage increases in expenditures, result in a rise in income taxes and endanger revival of confidence through prolonged controversy.

President Green said a strong declaration against the sales tax will be drafted at the Federation of Labor convention in Cincinnati next week.

"Labor views with feelings of deep apprehension the attempt of advocates of sales tax legislation to transfer the burden of taxation from the wealth of the Nation to the masses of the people," he said.

He said it is "inconceivable that Congress would add to the suffering which labor has endured by imposing upon it the additional burden which it would be called upon to bear in case Congress passes sales tax legislation."

The chamber statements referred to "burdens" it said the present revenue act places upon business, notably through high personal income taxes, corporate income taxes, estate taxes and excise taxes. If the need justifies, the committee indicated it will recommend instead a form of sales tax "with a number of safeguards."

At the Capitol yesterday Senator McKellar, author of last year's 10 per cent slashes in appropriation bills, said he had not altered his stand for rigid retrenchment, but will withhold any proposals until the Senate economy committee has held its initial meeting.

"I am a thousand times more interested in reducing expenditures than in putting any more taxes on the people," he said.

Representative Huddleston said he viewed as the three chief sources of savings payments to veterans, War and Navy Department appropriations and salaries generally. Obviously, he said, there can be no saving on the public debt.

Meanwhile the Postoffice-Treasury subcommittee of the House appropriations committee prepared to open hearings on Treasury supplies today. Postoffice hearings have been virtually concluded. The Secretary of the Treasury and other Treasury officials have been asked to appear before the subcommittee. Chairman Joseph W. Byrns has reiterated his intention to cut the outlay down to actual needs.

TWO TEXAS HUNTERS DIE FROM EXPOSURE

Mississippi Delta Reports Freezing With Snow in South General.

New Orleans, Nov. 8 (A.P.).—Snow fell in the deep South again today as winter renewed a cold-wave assault which was temporarily frustrated yesterday by relatively warm rains. Texas reported two deaths of hunters from exposure.

The snow was reported at Memphis, Monroe, La.; Greenwood and Greenville, Miss., and other sections of the Mississippi Delta with temperatures ranging from 32 to 35. Elsewhere, the South experienced muddy slush as low-hanging clouds dripped stinging winter rains.

Forecasts for tonight promised freezing temperatures almost to the coasts of Louisiana and Mississippi and in the interior of Alabama. Rains and cold weather were in order for Tennessee, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Kentucky over the week-end. Moderating weather was promised Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas, although Little Rock's thermometer touched freezing again this morning and Fort Smith reported 30 degrees.

Deaths from exposure in southeast Texas were brought to two this afternoon when searchers found the body of M. W. Hargrove, hunting guide, missing three days in the marshes near High Island, south of Port Arthur. Yesterday the body of Hargrove's companion, L. H. Bond, jr., was found in the same vicinity. Willie Segura, a hunter missing more than 24 hours, was the object of another search in the same section late today.

San Francisco, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Los Angeles, with a temperature of 87 at noon, was the hot spot on the Pacific seaboard today, but warm weather prevailed over the entire territory, San Diego reporting 85, its high mark of the year.

Dean Blake, Weather Bureau meteorologist at San Diego, reported today's temperature was higher than any experienced there since October 1, 1931, when 93 degrees was recorded.

CONSOLATION.

To want you, to need you.
To wait for you in vain;
Half I find it pleasure,
Despite its stinging pain.
To have known you, to have prized you,
To have learned of you the need,
To have loved you, even waiting,
Even loss is sweet, indeed.
Not an anguish of self pity,
But in pity for the sad,
Who have never known the glory
That a little time I had.
Not in sorrow without solace,
Not in tears that ever flow,
I have counted blessings greater
Than the world can ever know.
To want you, to need you.
These are not all in vain.
For in my happy memories
I have you back again.

OVER QUOTA IN CHEST DRIVE

Post Staff Photo.

Mrs. Verne Simmons, captain of team 323, reporting to Division Chairman Louis B. Arnold that she is 250 per cent over her quota in the Community Chest drive, leading all teams in the Metropolitan area unit.

of these firms and made a personal appeal to the employes to support the Chest.

The result as announced yesterday was a contribution of $11,700 from approximately 98 per cent of the personnel of the two companies, or an average of about $9.67 per employe. This, added to the $10,000 contributed by the Gaslight Co. as a corporation, brings the total gifts from these organizations up to $21,700.

Awarding of Banners.

Following the invocation by the Rev. E. O. Clark, of the Chevy Chase Baptist Church, Chairman Noyes announced the awarding of honor banners for the day as follows:

George Hewitt Myers, for the highest percentage of dollar quota of any team in the special gifts unit; Mrs. B. Janet Best, of the Civil Service Commission, for the highest percentage of quota of any Government department of 100 to 1,000 personnel; Frank A. Birgfeld, of the Treasury Department, for the largest per cent of quota over previous reports; Mrs. Verne P. Simmons, for the highest percentage of quota of any team in the Metropolitan unit; Mrs. J. V. Brownell, for the highest percentage of quota of any division in the Metropolitan unit; George Vass, for the highest percentage of 100 per cent firms of any area in the group solicitation unit, and Carl Kurtz, for the highest per cent of 100 per cent firms of any section in the group solicitation unit.

Many Sacrifice Gifts.

Gov. Thomas E. Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission and chairman of the governmental unit, who was the principal speaker of the day, declared that "the matter of taking an interest in the welfare of the needy has been rather inborn in me, because in the part of the country where I was born, giving a helping hand to our neighbors in need is the usual thing. I am heartened to be still called one of the Community Chest workers in my home town in Arizona."

Heartening stories of increased gifts and sacrifices were reported by Chest workers yesterday. One private branch telephone operator on a small salary who is keeping her mother and two sisters, making her lunch on a package of crackers and a soft drink and walking to work 3 miles several times a week to save carfare, still felt that she must give $5 to the Chest and made that contribution.

Two young women who had been unemployed for some time, obtained domestic positions through the Y. W. C. A. They appeared at the Y Thursday evening, each with $2 to contribute to the Chest.

Taxi Tickets Given.

The Street twins, Sarah and Sybil, who reached their twelfth birthday and an increase to 25 cents a week for allowance, each on November 13, decided that they could spare 1 cent a day or almost one-third of their allowance for children who have nothing and pledged accordingly to the Chest.

The City Cab Co. decided that the campaign could be speeded up if the workers would ride instead of walking and presented to Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith tickets calling for $50 worth of rides, to be used during the campaign, with the assurance that this would not be deducted from the contribution which they expect to make.

The Associated Retail Credit Bureau of Washington yesterday reported 113 per cent of its quota, with more to follow, and with the promise that it will report 100 per cent enrollment by Saturday.

100 Per Cent Firms.

Mrs. Casey, at 2122 California street, is 90 years young. She has not been out of her apartment for more than two years, but this did not prevent her of learning of the need in Washington, for the relief of which she gladly contributed $50.

The four children of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald S. Huidekoper, Henry, Ann, Elizabeth and Peter, 1707 New Hampshire avenue northwest, sold jam last year and obtained $7, which was saved for the Chest. The children promised that if the jam business continues good, they will increase the amount next year.

Among the firms contributing 100 per cent yesterday were:

Auchincloss, Parker & Redpath, Alexander Brown & Sons, Community Chest, Continental Life Insurance Co., District National Bank, Ferris, Lewis & Woodrop, D. H. McKnew & Co., Second National Bank, the Washington Home for Foundlings, Jewish Community Center, Service Pharmacy, Goldheim's, G. B. Mullen Co., Globe Furniture Co., Walker Thomas Furniture Co., Equitable Cooperative Building Association, Kaplowitz Bros., Max Goldberg, Max Gottlieb, Nancy Carter Shop and Gabriel.

Gifts $100 and Over.

WOMAN IS SUICIDE AFTER MAN IS SHOT

Fury of Scorned Love Seen; "Couldn't Stand Gossip," Note Declares.

Denver, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A woman was dead and a prominent Wyoming oil man was near death tonight as a result of what police said was the final burst of fury of a woman scorned.

Mrs. Margaret Loftus, of Casper, Wyo., was shot to death and Mark O. Danford was wounded in a hotel room today.

"I can't go on," Mrs. Loftus said in a note, "with people gossiping and taking my happiness and upsetting by peace of mind."

Police called by the landlady found Danford shot in the head and chest, and the woman dead on a bed. Police said Danford at first said he killed the woman, then turned the pistol on himself. Later Danford stated Mrs. Loftus did the shooting.

Mrs. Loftus declared her intention to kill the oil man, police said, in notes found in the room. One note said she intended to kill Danford because he "lied and lied." Another denounced a Dr. Halsey, of Milwaukee, "for causing me disturbance" and begged her mother to "remember me as a little baby in arms." The mother's name was not mentioned, the note being entrusted to a "Miss Mills," of Malwaukee, for delivery.

Wales Declares Irish Likeable and Humorous

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—"Every one who knows Irishmen likes them," the Prince of Wales said in a farewell speech to Ireland tonight just before he boarded a special train to catch a channel boat back to England.

The prince said he liked Irishmen, "for we have many tastes in common. They like a joke and are always ready for a bit of fun. Your attachment to the throne," he continued, "is proverbial and I am delighted to have had this opportunity of seeing it for my own self on your own soil."

Naval Balloonists Soared 961 Miles

Basel, Switzerland, Nov. 18 (A.P.). The official classification of last month's James Gordon Bennett Cup balloon race issued today credited a distance of 1,550 kilometers (961 miles) to the winning U. S. Novy bag piloted by Lieut. Thomas G. W. Settle and Wilfred Bushnell.

The United States Navy balloon landed close to the town of Wasjule, near Vilna, in the Polish-Latvian frontier, 41 hours and 20 minutes after the start from Basel on September 25.

A flight of 1,356 kilometers was made by the second-place winners, W. T. Van Orman and R. J. Blair, also Americans, who were aloft for 28 hours 45 minutes in the Goodyear 8. They came down near Kaunas, Lithuania. The French balloon Petit Mousse was given third place with 1,233 kilometers and elapsed time of 19 hours 58 minutes. Georges Ravaine and Rene de Grain were the pilots.

New French Airplane Models Are Warlike

Paris, Nov. 18 (U.P.).—The aerial hitch-hiker and the war bird are uppermost in the minds of airplane designers, it was indicated today when President Albert Lebrun opened the eighteenth French aeronautic salon.

Ninety per cent of the exhibits either were military airplanes loaded with machine guns or commercial planes which could be changed quickly into bombers or fighting ships. Most of the other models were light-powered "pony" planes for cheap sky travel. Most had rumble seats for guests or hitch-hikers.

EARLY BEER ACTION SENTIMENT GROWS

President Hoover would take on such legislation.

Joining other Democratic House leaders, Chairman Pou of the rules committee said he would help to clear the way for quick action on beer legislation and expressed the "hope that we can get modification of the Volstead act behind us at the short session."

"I realize the difficulty of getting important measures through Congress during a short session," Pou said. "I will be glad to cooperate in carrying out the pledges of the Democratic platform."

Pou voted against both the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead acts, on the ground that liquor control was a State matter and predicted the Federal Government would be unable to enforce prohibition.

"I feel as if my prediction has come true," he said yesterday.

Another Southern Democrat who voted against the eighteenth amendment, Representative Huddleston, of Alabama, said that until the eighteenth amendment is repealed he can not vote toward legalizing the sale of any liquor which I may honestly believe to be intoxicating." He added, however, "there is nothing sacred about the Volstead act and no reason why I should not vote to amend it in any proper way." He said he "would vote for repeal" of the eighteenth amendment.

Meanwhile Representative Rainey, of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, said he was consulting members of the ways and means committee to determine whether they wish to open hearings on a beer bill before Congress convenes.

BOUNDARY WRANGLE CAUSED BY HUNTERS

Tennessee Threatens Arrest of Arkansas Nimrods on Mississippi River.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A second boundary dispute within a year between Arkansas and a sister State over the rights of duck hunters loomed today.

Residents of eastern Arkansas, angry at some arrests and threats of more by Tennessee game wardens, appealed to the attorney general to ascertain if they have the right to hunt on the west bank of the Mississippi River without procuring Tennessee hunting licenses.

At the beginning of the hunting season last year a dispute between Texas and Arkansas arose over sovereignty of land adjacent to the Red River, near Texarkana. Attorney General Hal L. Norwood, after conferences with the Texas attorney general, finally "ceded" the land to Texas as "not worth the trouble of a legal fight."

The question between Arkansas and Tennessee involves reciprocity statutes, giving each State jurisdiction over criminal acts that occur on the Mississippi—the State making the arrest to try the lawbreaker.

As Assistant Attorney General Pat Mehaffey was informed, the Tennessee wardens claim to have jurisdiction over the west bank of the Mississippi and by notices in some west Tennessee newspapers the game wardens indicated they will attempt to make wholesale arrests unless the Arkansans procure Tennessee licenses when they hunt on the river.

The complaint of J. K. Childs, cashier of the Bank of Geiser, in Mississippi County, to the attorney general was referred to Mr. Mahaffey for answer, and he delved into the law books with particular attention to the twenty-year-old litigation between Tennessee and Arkansas over the boundary line which the United States Supreme Court finally decided in 1925.

Plan to Quit Gold By U. S. Is Denied

Thomas W. Lamont Says Democrats Will Uphold Sound Money.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Thomas W. Lamont said in an address tonight that this country has "never been near the point of abandoning the gold standard," and expressed confidence that the new administration "will continue to uphold the complete integrity of it."

The well-known banker, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., spoke at the annual dinner of the Academy of Political Science, at which Viscount Astor was the guest of honor.

"Remember this, my friends," he concluded. "Among all the alarums and excursions of the last twelvemonth we have never been near the point of abandoning the gold standard. A Democratic administration, just like the steadfast Republican one before it, will continue to uphold the complete integrity of it."

British Autos Placed On Canadian Free List

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Free importation into Canada of automobiles and motorcycles from the United Kingdom was approved today by the House of Commons. This action was in conformity with the Anglo-Canadian trade treaty drawn up at last summer's imperial economic conference.

Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, told the party's Ontario convention today that the present Conservative government is going to extremes in the tariff. Indications all over Canada, Mr. King said, point toward victory for the Liberal party in the future.

Tear Gas Device Foils Indiana Bank Robbery

Westville, Ind., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Tear gas sent two of five gunmen crying from the State Bank of Westville today and an attempted robbery failed. The thugs headed for Chicago in a sedan.

The gas was released when L. R. Cass, president of the bank, pressed a button as he and J. R. Recktenwall, cashier, were ordered to lie on the floor. Three shots were fired by the gunmen, but they missed the bankers. Two of the shots whizzed close to Cass.

U. S. Legation in Canada Is Formally Dedicated

Ottawa, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The new American legation building, a four-story structure of classic architecture facing the Parliament buildings, was officially opened today.

Col. Hanford MacNider, the retiring minister, and Pierre Boal, charge d'affaires, received numerous Canadian officials and other visitors.

GIRL FLIER IS SORRY SHE BEAT HUSBAND

Cape Town, Union of South Africa, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Amy Johnson, 23-year-old British flier, took the England-to-the-Cape speed record away from her husband, Capt. J. A. Mollison, by bringing down her tiny monoplane Desert Cloud, at the Cape Town Airport this afternoon, 4 days 6 hours and 55 minutes after her take-off in Britain.

She was dog-tired—but not too tired to dab some powder on her nose that she might make a proper appearance.

"Three cheers for our British Amy!" shouted a woman spectator, as Miss Johnson climbed out of her plane.

A crowd of 2,000 persons cheered the daring flier, and there was a great din of motor horns.

Miss Johnson's first thought was to communicate with her husband back in England. As she pressed through the throng toward the airport office and a telephone, she was informed that she had cut 10 hours and 24 minutes from her husband's record for the Cape Town flight.

Sorry She Beat Mate.

"As much as that?" she asked. "I thought it was only by about an hour. I am sorry in a way that I beat him, but it was awfully sporting of him to inspire me to undertake the attempt."

Tonight she slept soundly at the home of a friend—the name of the friend was not divulged in order that she might not be disturbed—and meanwhile government officials made plans for celebrating her feat.

"I had just five hours' sleep coming down," she explained before she was taken by motor to the friend's house. "It was in naps of two hours, two hours, and one hour. I may not show it, because when I was coming over the Manhattan I powdered my face and fixed up a bit. But believe me I am tired."

Ran Out of Gasoline.

There were two delays in the flight. The first one came after she had crossed the Sahara and had put out from Gao, on the upper Niger. She had not noticed that her gasoline was running low and two hours out of Gao she was forced to turn back to refuel. The second delay was at Benguela.

"I landed in a most terrible place," she said in recounting what had happened in Benguela. "It was pouring rain and I found the oil filter was faulty. It was a very hard job to fix it because the men there had no tools. I had to improvise them. I thought I would have to abandon the flight, but the fault was finally rectified and I carried on, and was very glad to get out of the rain belt."

Defeated Republican To Ask Vote Recount

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Charles Bowles (Republican), defeated by John N. Dingell (Democrat), for representative in Congress from the Fifteenth Michigan District, completed plans today to seek a recount of the vote cast in approximately 50 of the 227 precincts in that Detroit district.

Shortly before Bowles' plans became known the chariman of the Wayne County (Detroit) board of canvassers, announced discovery of numerous "major errors" in the counting by district election inspectors of the vote cast for various offices in last week's election. The errors were described as "honest mistakes" with no indication of fraud, but of such consequence as to possibly affect the outcome of close contests.

Atlanta Citizens Form Guard to End Holdups

Atlanta, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Police, county commissioners and plain citizens joined forces in Atlanta today for warfare on bandits and bombers in the wake of a prolonged series of murders, robberies and explosions that wrecked transmission lines of the Georgia Power Co.

The police committee of the municipal council plans to deputize 1,500 business men to operate somewhat like the vigilantes who brought law and order to the West during frontier days. Meanwhile, scores of policemen who have volunteered to work overtime are patrolling the streets to guard against further holdups.

Methodist Board Raises $16,500 for Missions

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Faced with the alternative of raising $200,000 or withdrawing 56 missionary families from the field, the board of foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church today decided to try to raise the amount.

Pledges totaling $16,500 had been received when the board recessed today until Monday, when a committee will recommend means of getting the residue. After E. M. McBrier, of Montclair, N. J., a lay member of the board, offered to be one of 200 laymen to contribute $1,000, anonymous pledges of $5,000, $500 and of 5 per cent of any amount given up to $200,000 were announced.

Green Renews Plea For Five-Day Week

Either Split Jobs or Face Permanent Army of Jobless, He Says.

Cincinnati, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today the Nation must choose between two alternatives, "either divide the available work among all by cutting the work week and work day, or feed and care for a permanent army of millions of unemployed." The Nation, Green said, can not go back to the 48-hour week, "for there is not enough work for that."

Instead, he suggested that "if the five-day work week, with a work day reduced to about six hours, were established simultaneously and universally all over the country, it would be a good start toward giving all men and women a chance to work again."

The difficulty, he said, is that "since 1929 there has been such a great improvement in machinery and labor-saving devices, that even if we had the busy times of 1929 back, it has been estimated that we could only put 55 per cent of our people back to work on the old six-day basis."

Medina Returning To Bolivian Home

Former Washington Envoy Has Finished Work as Chaco Mediator.

(Associated Press.)

Eduardo Diez de Medina, former Bolivian minister here and member of the Bolivian Chaco delegation, arranged to sail last night from New York for his home country.

Diez de Medina came to Washington as Minister in 1928 and was replaced last year by Luis Abelli. Until a few months ago he served with Dr. Enrique Pinot as a delegate seeking a settlement of the Bolivian-Paraguayan controversy over the Chaco.

His association with the negotiations ended last month when neutral efforts were turned to direct efforts to conciliate the disputants.

Depositors Face $3,100,000 Loss

Interests of Stockholders Also Wiped Out in 12 Nevada Banks.

Reno, Nev., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—George B. Thatcher, attorney, representing the twelve closed George Wingfield banks in Nevada, announced today depositors faced a loss of $3,100,000, or approximately one-fifth of the combined total deposits.

In a statement to a committee of depositors he said all property interests and rights of the stockholders have been wiped out. Thatcher blamed inability of ranchers to repay approximately $3,500,000 in live stock loans this year for conditions which made necessary the closing of the banks under a twelve-day banking holiday proclaimed November 1 and recently extended for another two weeks by Gov. Fred B. Balzar.

Any plan for reopening of the Wingfield banks, he added, will involve the refinancing of these live stock loans. Much of this burden, he said, now can be assumed by the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, which recently opened an office in Reno. The credit corporation, he stated, will refinance loans direct.

13 Seized in California In Series of Robberies

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Eleven men and two women were arrested in a "round-up" today by detectives working on a series of sensational robberies in Los Angeles, Hollywood, Beverly Hills and beach cities recently.

Detective Lieut. B. G Anderson said one of the men, James Lanne, alias De Lucia, alias Lucas, is believed to be a former member of the Vincent Coll gang, of New York City.

Among the unsolved robberies are a $50,000 hold-up a month ago at the home of Helene Costello, actress, and the Wednesday hold-up of a Hollywood brid

FRENCH AND GERMAN TEACHERS TO SPEAK

European Lecturers to Urge World Good Will at Mt. Pleasant Church.

A French university professor who worked in this country for two years as a farm hand and lumberjack, and a member of the faculty of the University of Berlin, who resigned the pastorate of the Court Church at Potsdam because "the church showed no sympathy with the proletariat," will discuss the problem of world understanding and good will at the morning service in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church tomorrow. They will explain the points of view of their respective countries on world peace and disarmament, in the light of Christian ideals.

The Frenchman is Dr. Andre Philip, of the University of Lyons, and the German professor is Dr. F. Siegmund-Schultze, two of the most distinguished religious leaders in Europe. Speaking to religious organizations in two score large cities in the United States, they are touring the country under the auspices of the World Alliance for International Friendship Through the Churches. They will be in Washington three days, and make their first public addresses here at the Mount Pleasant Church tomorrow.

Dr. Philip is professor of economics and finance at the University of Lyons, and from 1924 to 1926 worked as a farm hand in harvest fields and in lumber camps in the United States. In 1910 Dr. Siegmund-Schultze was pastor of the Court Church in Potsdam and resigned his pastorate a year later, going to live and conduct a social settlement among the working people in East Berlin. Since 1926 he has been a member of the faculty of the University of Berlin.

In the eighth of a series of discussions on current subjects of general interest, the Adult Forum of Mount Pleasant Church tommorrow morning will hear Dr. A. W. Hummel, chief of the Chinese division of the Library of Congress. He will speak on "The Significance of Chinese Literature."

The Mount Pleasant Congregational Church chorus and quartet will present their first fall program of sacred music at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening, when they will sing Maunder's "The Song of Thanksgiving."

The solo parts will be sung by members of the quartet, Miss Elsie Schultze, soprano; Miss Mary Apple, contralto; William P. Shanahan, tenor, and Herman Fakler, bass. The cantata will be directed by Claude Robeson, organist and director, with Norton M. Little, conducting.

Home Missions Subject At Central Presbyterian

The annual praise service in the interest of home missions will be held at the Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow night. The address will be made by Dr. William T. Ellis, noted religious journalist and traveler. Dr. Ellis will have as his theme, "A Fresh Look at America." The public is cordially invited to this service.

In the morning the Huguenot Society of the District of Columbia will attend the Central Presbyterian Church, at which time the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, will preach.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 19 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:30 a. m. to 7:45 a. m., from 4:30 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m.

Influences operating on November 19 will be conducive to great business activity. Business agreements that will prove worth while financially can be made. Actions will be motivated on this day largely with an idea to attract attention rather than to secure any immediate material gain. Guard against those who would seek to use your name for purposes of publicity.

The child born on this November 19 will appear to have more than the usual childish difficulty in distinguishing between right and wrong. It will not be a malicious or dishonest little one, but more often than not it will fail to use good judgment. It must be led to develop a better sense of values. Direct it with loving and kind advice.

Born on November 19, you no doubt have great artistic aspirations. You would probably succeed as a writer or in any capacity where you could exercise freely your imagination. Your ability to use words and to blend them and phrase them nicely would stand you in good stead also. Your constructive mind and shrewd powers of analysis would seem to point to a better than average career in the legal profession. Whatever your work, it must be of vital import and of great interest to you in order that you really apply to it your best efforts.

Those born on November 19 are fundamentally honest. Sometimes, though due to their great desire to line their pockets with gold, they are prone to disregard the dictates of conscience. Fortunately, they seldom wander far from the straight and narrow. They are often highly religious and usually spiritually minded. Often the women born on this date allow conflicting emotions to stir up petty warfares within themselves. They must learn to figure out their own problems by themselves and to be guided by their own ideals rather than by the advice of others.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

IF every homebuilder realized how much beauty exercise every detail of housecleaning offers, I am sure she would go about these tasks much more cheerfully. Far from drudgery, they would become pleasure.

Dusting.

Take the very commonplace matter of dusting, for instance. There's training for chest development and good posture in it, as you move arms back and forth. You have to bend trunk forward and bend knees when dusting the lower parts of furniture and that's fine for waist, thighs and calves. Whenever you rise to an erect position after knees have been bent, use your leg muscles to pull up, don't take hold of a nearby chair and pull up with your arms.

Woodwork.

Treating the woodwork to a bath should be a treat to every woman who prides herself on the spotlessness of her home. A double treat when she realizes that in reaching high over a door or wall she is raised on her toes with arms stretched upward. Splendid exercise for the whole body. Then, as she works near the floor she is in the famous squatting position, one of the finest exercises any gymnasium ever offered. Do the whole length of a door at once, stretch up, squat down. The combination is grace-giving, keeps the body lithe and young, the arches strong, ankles trim, &c. Use the muscles of your legs and feet to push your body upward and extend your ankles when you rise on toes to reach high places. Here's a trick to practice. See if you can rise to erect position from squat without aid of arms, simply by pushing hard with toes, stretching out knees and finally straightening at the hips. Take a deep breath as you come up. By the way, instead of bending over, squat whenever you have to lower your body; when picking up after Junior, gathering the dust in the dustpan, &c.

Vacuum Cleaning.

Let's have a rhythmic dance with the vacuum cleaner. It is a Godsend, isn't it? Stand easily erect, abdomen in, of course, work cleaner back, pulling hard, forth, pushing easily. Breathe deeply in and out to a count of four or five in, five out. Fine for arms, upper back and chest. To clean the dust bag, you'll have to bend and stretch forward with arms and shoulders. Feel that streetch? Fine. Now up. Take a full, deep breath. This straightening up compensates for the bending forward.

Our next lesson is for laundry day and even if you have a laundry do it, there will be hints for you.

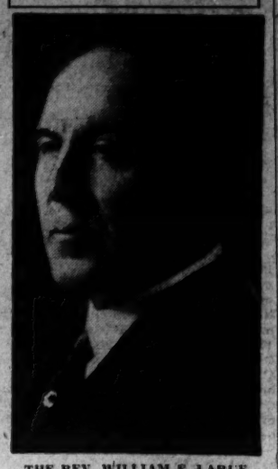
PASTOR 11 YEARS



THE REV. WILLIAM E. LARUE, who this week has completed the eleventh anniversary of his pastorate of Takoma Park Baptist Church.

Christian Science Churches

"Soul and Body" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The Golden Text is from Psalms 130:5—"I wait for the Lord, my soul doth wait, and in his word do I hope." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible:

"I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable, unto God, which is your reasonable service. And be not conformed to this world: but be ye tranformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God." (Romans 12:1, 2.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science Text Book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If we look to the body for pleasure, we find pain; for Life, we find death; for Truth, we find error; for Spirit, we find its opposite, matter. Now reverse this action. Look away from the body into Truth and Love, the Principle of all happiness, harmony, and immortality. Hold thought steadfastly to the enduring, the good, and the true, and you will bring these into your experience proportionably to their occupancy of your thoughts." (Page 260.)

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

TWINKLE, twinkle, little toes—how we wonder where she goes! And how have Miladi's pretty feet been sung in song down the ages! Clever lady—with feet actually no more romantic nor smaller nor anything than a man's—but how she can doll them up and bemuse him into rhapsodying over them!

Shoes make the feet, I do guess so. And feet make the lady—no joking. And what shoes she wears when—and how those "what shoes" are fashioned and trimmed, have everything to do with this story. For the wrong shoe at the wrong time—my deahs, is as bad, oh quite as bad, as the wrong shoe on the wrong foot—and you know what that would mean!

Yes, the proper type of a shoe for the ensemble and the occasion, the time of day and even the mood—all go to prove that Miladi still knows what she is about—when it comes to being adorable!

Haven't you $6 or $60 to spend for shoe buckles? Well, if you haven't—'twill be hard for you to live it down, indeed—but what would you say if Dah-ray came to your rescue with a perfect solution. She has—and the solution is to send her a stamped, self-addressed envelope in care of The Washington Post, and thusly to be informed how you can make shoe buckles your very own self out of a couple of dabs of buckram, satin, wire and—sh-h-h-h, well, send for the leaflet and see! Yes, and a buckle for every shoe you may well have—if you promise that you will only put buckles on the shoes that rate them! Not to mention how the girl friend would adore a pair of shoe buckles like these for a Christmas gift. You can make them, too—I'll promise you!

* * * *

Now it's really time to think of your Christmas presents. Oh, I know that you think you aren't going to give any Christmas gifts this year and all that—but that's just this moment—not later, that you think that. And then the last minute you are going to relent and scram around and spend ten times as much money as you should—and wish you had listened to me!

So listen now and start in this very day to make out your list of Christmas gifts—the ones you are going to send—and another list of your Christmas cards. And then see how many of the gifts you are going to give you already have—no fooling. Next, which ones you are going to make and then let's put aside one whole closet shelf or dresser drawer or cedar chest for finished Christmas presents.

Into this space goes twine and paper and sealing wax and last year's stickers and all the things you will need for the gifts—starting today, and then being all unhurriedly and lovely ladyishly ready for Christmas when it comes—in less than eight weeks.

Trinity Methodist To Be Rededicated

Church Tomorrow Begins 130th Anniversary Ceremonies.

The 130th anniversary of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, Pennsylvania avenue and Fifth street southeast, will be celebrated tomorrow and continued until the following Sunday, November 27. Trinity is the oldest Methodist Episcopal organization in the District.

Dumbarton Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church in Georgetown precedes it by a few years, but at the time of its organization in 1802 Georgetown was not a part of the District. The National Capital was moved to Washington in 1800. Trinity began its career two years after in a tobacco warehouse that was converted into a church; then moved to Fourth street near G. That building was sold to the Methodist Protestants and the present structure erected in 1896.

Bishop Edwin H. Hughes, of Washington, will preach and rededicate the church at 11 a. m., and Dr. John R. Shannon at 8 p. m. Home-coming will be on Tuesday at 8 p. m., with Dr. Benjamin W. Meeks, District superintendent, presiding. All present and former members are expected. Union Thanksgiving Day service will be November 24, with Bishop John W. Hamilton preaching. Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes will give a lecture entitled "The Biography of a Boy," Friday, November 25. On November 27 at 11 a. m. Dr. William J. Thompson, of the faculty of Drew Theological Seminary, will preach, and at 8 p. m. the Naval Lodge of Masons will attend in a body to hear an address by the minister, the Rev. Daniel L. Ennis.

Dr. Perkins to Speak Upon Thanksgiving

"Thankful for What?" is the sermon theme of Dr. F. W. Perkins, of the Universalist National Memorial Church tomorrow. At the Church School service at 10:15, Miss Eunice Smith will speak on personal experiences in China. At 12:15 the adult Bible class will meet with Dr. Perkins in the Romaine-Van Schaick room.

Red Cross sewing will be done by women of the parish on Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Mrs. R. A. Evarts is in charge of the work. At 1:30 there will be a business meeting of the Ladies Aid Association followed by a card party and further Red Cross work. Tea will be served at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Schaff to Address Presbyterian Clerics

The furless wrap is a fashion to be reckoned with! This is a copy of Chanel's recent success, in black stiffened velvet, with a very simple high, round neck, a perky bow under your left ear, big sleeves—and that's all—except that it can't be dismissed as easily as that! This wrap is disturbingly smart, with a serene sophistication a hundred others couldn't possibly have. Only

HINDENBURG MEETS HITLER AGAIN TODAY

Nazi Leader Is Expected to Urge Change in Attitude of President.

Berlin, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The political spotlight shifted once again today to Adolf Hitler, leader of the national Socialist party, who came to Berlin by airplane for a conference with President von Hindenburg tomorrow at which he will set forth the course he purposes to follow in dealing with Germany's cabinet problem.

The Nazi leader kept his own counsel. At his party headquarters, it was said that even his closest advisers did not know what line he would follow when he faced the venerable field marshal.

But all commentators were agreed that Hitler would do his utmost to overcome the president's personal misgivings about him.

For the first time the president today took personal charge of the negotiations with party leaders looking toward the creation of a cabinet which would have the toleration if not the active support of the stalemated Reichstag.

This series of consultations brought no surprises, as it was known in advance that the Nationalists and Populists were ready to support any conservative cabinet, and Dr. Kass promised to cooperate with the provision that Franz von Papen, who resigned as chancellor yesterday, be permanently eliminated.

Hitler's demand for recognition for his National Socialists, by far the strongest party in the Reichstag, was strengthened today by the Rhensh-Westphalian Gazette, which, speaking for certain groups of heavy industry interests in the Rhine area, indorsed him for chancellor.

Berlin Is Seen Making Bid for Colonial Trade

(Associated Press.)

An indication that Germany may be planning a vigorous bid for colonial markets was seen yesterday by international observers here in reports mentioning Dr. Heinrich Schnee as a possible successor to Franz von Papen at the head of the Berlin cabinet.

Dr. Schnee is primarily a colonial expert. He is not a pronounced party man and Washington diplomats believe his absence in the Far East as a member of the Lytton Manchurian commission during most of the past year of political upheaval led by Hitler may be favorable to his selection.

If President von Hindenburg selects Dr. Schnee to head a new government, political experts will watch, if not for a pronounced effort to regain some of her former colonial possessions, at least for great insistance upon concessions in foreign markets where she may better her economic conditions.

Retired Capital Druggist Will Be Buried in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Funeral services for Edward Green, 72, retired Washington druggist, who died at Hudson, N. Y., on Thursday, after a protracted illness, will be held at 3 p. m. today at Gawler's funeral parlors. The Rev. Dr. Herbert Scott Smith will officiate at the rites and burial will follow in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Green was in the druggist trade for more than 30 years, a considerable portion of which he maintained a pharmacy at Tenth street and Virginia avenue southwest. He had lived here more than half a century.

A member of the New Jerusalem Lodge, No. 9, F. A. A. M., Mr. Green also was affiliated with the Knights Templar and the Shrine. He is survived by his wife, Lillian Green; two daughters, Miss Lillian Green and Mrs. Mary G. Lowrie, and a son, Elliot E. Green, all of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Green resided at 1860 Mintwood place northwest until several years ago, when he went to New York for his health.

Residing here until two years ago, Mrs. Edwards went to live at the home of her daughter in California. She was fatally injured while crossing a downtown street in Beverly Hills. Also surviving her is another daughter, Mrs. M. E. L'Hommedieu, of 1818 Harvard street northwest.

Libby Holman Will Return To Stage After Child Comes

$2,000 Per Week Is Reported Offered by One Broadway Producer; May Co-Star With George Jessel; Dark Glasses Hide Identity on Trip.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The American says Libby Holman was on Broadway in disguise today and arranged to return to the stage next spring.

The paper says the young torch singer will costar with George Jessel in a musical play to be produced by Max Gordon and the Erlanger firm.

She wore sun glasses, the American says, and escaped notice in the Broadway crowds when she visited the Gordon offices to discuss contracts and related matters.

Ward Morehouse, writing in the New York Sun, also says Miss Holman will return to Broadway and that she will return as she left—a torch singer.

After telling of his visits with Miss Holman and of her movements from the time she was indicted for the slaying of her young husband, Smith Reynolds, until the case was nolle prossed at Winston-Salem last Tuesday, Morehouse writes of her plans.

"Two things are definite," he says, "(a) She is to be a mother. (b) She is to return to the stage. Her thoughts now are upon her expected child, the baby which will be known as Smith, and which will be born as one of the world's most celebrated infants. * * *

"Libby has not decided where she wants to be when she gives birth to her child. Certainly not Cincinnati, her home town. Too much curiosity. Certainly not North Carolina, which brought dark tragedy into her life. In France, perhaps. * * *

"When Libby returns to the stage she will return, if you take Walter Batchelor's (her manager's) word for it, as she left it—as a blues singer, as a husky-voiced torch singer with a sob and a throb in her voice, and who can moan ever so low. What she needs—what she'll want, I'm sure—are numbers like those numbers in 'The First Little Show' and its swagger successor, 'Three's a Crowd,' and a production of the quality of those revues.

"It'll be up to the gentlemen of Broadway who go in for these revues to step up and make their bids. For this Holman girl, who came out of the corn belt with a husky voice, and a B. A. degree, will be hot. Whether she'll stay 'hot' will depend upon her own desires and her own merits."

Morehouse said that offers had already begun to come in and that he had forwarded one in which she was offered "a thousand a week, two thousand, it won't matter," for one song a night in a current Shubert revue.

"Libby laughed," he continued. "Not that she wasn't pleased. She's a working girl and there's a child to support and she'll be needing of a job." But—well, there's the trifling matter of having to become a mother. And then, after Smith greets a curious world, Libby Holman Reynolds * * * will be ready to talk business."

Morehouse said Miss Holman was at Oakington, Md., when she and Ab Walker were indicted. He said she then spent three months in a bungalow on the estate of Mrs. John Jenney at Montchanin, Del., a few miles out of Wilmington. Last Tuesday he said she and Mrs. Jenney "fled from Montchanin," going first to see a baby specialist and then driving "to Maryland."

POTOMAC PARKWAY WORK IS POSTPONED

Excavation in Rock Creek Will Not Begin Until Next Summer.

Excavation work in Rock Creek on the Potomac Parkway project, between Q street and Pennsylvania avenue, will not be started until next summer, according to an announcement made yesterday by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

It is not definitely known yet how much will be available for the highway project, and until Congress makes the appropriation Col. Grant has decided that it would be impractical to proceed with the small amount of money now on hand.

Also it was pointed out that it would be impossible to go ahead with the highway work until the proposed bridge over the creek at P street is completed and the clearance and other engineering features of the two associated projects are determined.

Monument Grounds Discussed.

Yesterday afternoon members of the Fine Arts Commission and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission met and discussed the architectural plan to be adopted in planning the Washington Monument Grounds.

The Fine Arts Commission's executive secretary, H. P. Caemmerer, gave the report.

Water Front Report Submitted.

The War Department, through Maj. Joseph D. Arthur, engineer for this district, has presented an extensive plan for the development of the water front to the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, it was learned yesterday. The report will not be made public until after Congress convenes, December 5.

The National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday felicitated their chairman, Frederic A. Delano, upon the election of his nephew, Gov. Franklin Delano Roosevelt, to the Presidency.

Other officers elected include Henry W. Samson, second vice president; James F. Duhamel, historian; Frederick Umhau, treasurer; Miss Emma Bright, recording secretary, and Mrs. Watson V. Shelton, corresponding secretary. Mrs. Roscoe L. Oatley and Mrs. Ella C. Robinson were named chairmen of the membership and entertainment committees, respectively. Fred A. Emery and William S. The party will be held December 16. Discussion of the erection of a bird sanctuary along the Potomac occupied a portion of the meeting.

Red-Light Robber Gets $10.

James C. Cayle, 628 Maryland avenue northeast, reported to police last night that he was held up by a "red-light" robber at Twelfth and N streets, and robbed of $10. When he stopped for the light, he said, a colored man leaped onto the running board of his car, flashed a gun and told him to "hand over his money."

Mail Bag Found In Montgomery

Contents Partially Burned and Scattered; Probe Is Started.

A bag of United States mail, its contents partially burned and scattered about the ground, presented a mystery to postal authorities and officials of Montgomery County, Md., yesterday when it was discovered near the B. & O. Railroad tracks near Woodside, Md.

An immediate investigation was launched. Paul Coughlan, postmaster at Silver Spring, Md., disclosed that last Tuesday he failed to receive his regular sack of mail, which is usually thrown from the baggage car of an east-bound afternoon train.

He told authorities that he dismissed the incident, thinking the baggage master had either forgotten to throw off the sack or that there was nothing for delivery at Silver Spring. Examination of the bag showed it was meant for the Silver Spring Postoffice. Value of its contents was not disclosed. Detective Sergeant Earl H. Burdine, of the Montgomery County police, expressed belief that vandals stood near the station on Tuesday and when the sack was tossed from the train they picked it up and made off.

PLEA OF NOT GUILTY IS ENTERED BY BALL

Former Arlington Treasurer Is Arraigned on Three Indictments.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Former County Treasurer E. Wade Ball yesterday pleaded not guilty when arraigned in the Circuit Court before Judge Walter T. McCarthy on three indictments charging him with misuse of $515,959 of county funds. The indictments were returned at the October term of court.

Defense attorneys Frank L. Ball, brother of the defendant, and Capt. Crandal Mackey, failed to file any demurrers or motion to quash, as had been expected.

In view of the indecision of the prosecution as to which of the three indictments it will use in the forthcoming trial the case was continued until the December term of court, which convenes on December 12.

The court refused to hear argument on motion of the Commonwealth for a jury from another county.

Ethan Allen Jones Dies in Alexandria

Funeral Is Set Today for Retired Lumber and Railroad Man.

Ethan Allen Jones died yesterday at his home in the Brawner Apartments, Alexandria, after an illness of several weeks. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Vera Jones, and a daughter, Mrs. William P. Herring. The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the family burying ground near Hyattsville, Md., and will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Clyde Brown, rector of St. Matthews Episcopal Church, Hyattsville.

Mr. Jones was born at Sportland, Prince Georges County, Md., on September 14, 1851. He was educated at Charlotte Hall School, and the Maryland Agricultural College.

He was graduated in civil engineering and went with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in November, 1869, leaving that road in 1880 for the Union Pacific Railroad in Colorado. He left that company in 1885 and located in Norfolk, Va., with the Tunis Lumber Co. From 1888 to 1890 he was chief engineer of the Norfolk & Carolina Railroad. In 1895, with W. W. and Theophilus Tunis, he organized the Virginia Sawmill Co. in 1902, selling out to the Schuette Co., and after that year continuing in the lumber business with John L. Roper. He retired about fifteen years ago, shortly after that moving to Alexandria.

Post's Rick-Rack Game Wins Youth

Latest Sport of Keeping Ball in Air Takes Capital's Fancy.

"Can you Rick-Rack?" is a question that is interesting all of juvenile Washington, following The Washington Post's introduction of this fascinating game to the Nation's Capital. While it appears to be the simplest sport imaginable, attempts to hit the little ball with the paddle, to which it is attached by an elastic cord, inevitably result in wild and hopeless swings, unless the player has mastered the art of Rick-Racking and has both a quick eye and hand.

The idea of the game is to keep the ball in the air without allowing it to touch the ground and an expert can knock the ball 20 or 30 feet and have it return to the bat with unerring accuracy for countless successive times. Many who have attempted the game can not understand why the ball persists in eluding their paddles until they learn one of the little secrets of the game which may be explained as follows:

It is necessary to hit the ball slightly upward with a twist of the wrist, because at the end of its flight the elastic cord stops it momentarily and the force of gravity causes it to drop slightly before starting its return course. Until this fact is realized and compensated for, either by directing the ball upward or by a quick twist of the wrist to lower the position of the paddle, the player finds it almost a hopeless task to hit the ball more than twice in succession.

Aid to Local Charities Being Urged in Fairfax

The charitable organizations of Fairfax County, Va., are urging all citizens of the county to make their contributions to local relief organizations instead of the Washington Community Chest, so that the money may be used to aid the needy of the county. Last year the Chest, through the Government collection agencies in the departments, collected for suburban relief as well as for Washington relief, and the money was turned over to the various welfare organizations, but this year no such provision has been made.

A petition addressed to all the citizens of the town of Falls Church is being distributed in a house-to-house canvass by local agencies asking those working in Washington to give their donations to town charitable organizations. Similar drives are being made by county Red Cross Chapter and the county welfare board.

Alumni Cadet Corps Formed.

LEE OUTLINES ROAD PLANS OF MARYLAND

Widening of Defense Highway Among Projects of Interest Here.

Two Maryland road construction plans of interest to Washington were outlined by Maj. E. Brooke Lee, of the Maryland State Roads Commission yesterday before a meting of Maryland county commissioners in Annapolis. He also advised that Maryland adopt a modification of the Virginia Byrd road system.

The widening of the Defense highway and provision of a good through road from Northwest Washington to Baltimore were two of the 1933 projects Maj. Lee outlined. Others include widening of the road from Baltimore to the Pennsylvania line and the Baltimore-Annapolis road; a better arterial road approach to Salisbury, and a bridge over the Choptank, near Cambridge.

The roads commission will support legislation giving it control of all or part of the present county roads and will keep them up without any increase in present taxes, Maj. Lee said. He agreed with the movement to divert part of the gas-tax fund to county roads, he said, but believed that the money should be spent under direction of the State. This belief, he said, is based on a conviction that the roads commission can get more for its money than the individual counties.

Maj. Lee said he also believed in a heavier tax on freight trucks. He pointed out that the gas tax has saved the counties about $8,000,000 since its inauguration in Maryland.

Touching briefly on schools, Maj. Lee made a strong plea that school efficiency should not be lowered to save expense. "You can't cut the schools much or safely," he said. The money for these institutions can be raised by indirect taxes, he said, mentioning a 2-cent tax on cigarettes.

Firemen to Split Alexandria Funds

Committee Handed Treasurer's Report Which Shows $717 Balance.

The Alexandria Fire Department executive committee, at its first meeting held since the State convention in August, received the financial report of Charles W. King, treasurer, which showed $7,500 has been spent since 1927. A cash balance of $717 is to be divided between the four fire companies, or $150 to each company, the remainder to be kept in the committee treasury for emergencies.

This committee includes James M. Duncan, jr., fire chief, chairman; Charles W. King, treasurer, and E. E. Lawler, jr., secretary. The presidents and captains of the companies are committee members. Mayor Edmund F. Ticer and City Manager Wallace Lawrence are ex officio members.

Chief Duncan explained the new State compensation act. It provides for one-half of 1 per cent of the premiums paid by residents of the State. Funds will be used for aiding volunteer firemen hurt while in action. In case of death a certain sum to be paid the fireman's family.

Local Charity Urged in Arlington.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, meeting last night at the home of the chairman, William C. Hull, at Leeway, went on record urging all residents of Arlington County to make their charitable contributions to the local board of public welfare.

Brenner to Rest in Arlington.

The funeral of Arthur T. Brenner, who died on Wednesday at his home at Groveton, south of Alexandria, will be held at 9:30 o'clock this morning from St. Mary's Catholic Church. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery. He was a Spanish-American War veteran.

Fire Destroys Home Near Ballston.

Fire of unknown origin early yesterday morning partly destroyed the home of Arthur C. Strickler on Glebe road, near Ballston. The damage was estimated at $2,000. Fire departments from Clarendon, Ballston and Cherrydale responded to the call.

MARYLAND COUNTIES ASK GAS TAX SHARE

Annapolis Meeting Votes 16 to 1 for Program Despite Lee's Opposition.

Resolutions calling for a part of the Maryland gas tax fund to be spent on county roads under direction of the county commissioners; increased State aid to schools, and setting up of a committee to draw legislation for these purposes were adopted by a meeting of Maryland county commissioners in Annapolis yesterday.

The gas tax recommendation was carried by a vote of 16 to 1, with four counties not voting, although Maj. E. Brooke Lee, of the State Roads Commission, argued strongly against it. Commissioners were present, 103 of them, from all Maryland counties except Harford and Charles. Gov. Albert C. Ritchie welcomed the commissioners, pointing out that they had never met before in his administration.

Counties Want Tax Funds.

The gas tax resolution provides not only that the counties share in the gas tax, but that they also get a part of the auto license fees. The commissioners were definitely in favor of having these funds spent under direction of the county boards, although Maj. Lee had offered to have the roads commission take responsibility.

Four counties, Prince Georges, Baltimore, Allegheny and Cecil, declined to vote on the resolution, while Montgomery, Major Lee's home county, was the only one to follow his lead and oppose the measure.

The school aid resolution asks a law providing that counties whose school tax is over 30 cents per $100 may share in the equalization fund paid by the State. Figures from the office of the State superintendent of schools estimated that this would cost the State $5,726,000 more than the equalization system costs now.

Committee to Be Named.

The county commissioners were called upon to appoint one man from each county to form a legislative committee to draw up the bills in conformity with the resolutions. Elmer E. Parkinson, president of the Anne Arundel County Commissioners, was appointed temporary chairman and called the next meeting for November 28, in Annapolis. Ridgely P. Melvin, State senator from Anne Arundel County, presided over yesterday's session.

Commissioners from nearby Maryland present included Lacy Shaw, Downey Williams, Sherwood Duvall, Clagett G. Hilton, William Frank Ricketts, Robert D. Hagner and Charles Y. Latimer from Montgomery County; Ormond W. Phair, George N. Bowen and James S. Heal from Prince Georges County; and Benjamin F. Redman, John R. Abell, Thomas C. Harrison, C. B. Greenwell, jr., and J. Franklin Adams from St. Mary's. Charles County had declined the invitation to attend.

Montague's House Seniority Is High

(Associated Press.)

Representative Andrew Jackson Montague of Richmond, Va., will rank high in point of service in the new Congress which commences service March 4.

A check of the unofficial list of members issued yesterday by the clerk of the House shows only six members senior in service to Montague were returned to their seats. Montague's service started March 4, 1913, and has been continuous.

S. Otis Bland, of Newport News, is second ranking in the Virginia delegation in point of service. He entered Congress July 2, 1918. Patrick H. Drewry, of Petersburg, is third. His service started April 27, 1920.

TAXES OR ECONOMY?

Congressional leaders are casting about for new sources of taxation. Present indications are that the fiscal year will end with a deficit, although the yield of the taxes enacted last June is steadily increasing. A revenue measure of some kind will be necessary because the gasoline tax, which is the most productive of the recent levies, was approved for one year only.

Sentiment in favor of legalizing beer so that it may be taxed is steadily growing, but this proposal may not be enacted at the short session, and if it should be approved the revenue would not be sufficient to balance the budget. Leaders in the House are waiting for President Hoover to suggest a means of bringing the budget definitely into balance.

What has become of the economy programs about which so much was heard during the campaign? It is strange to hear Representative Collier, chairman of the ways and means committee, where fiscal legislation originates, speculating on new taxes when his party has promised to reduce Federal expenditures by $1,000,000,000. There will be no better time to put this program into operation than at present. The Government is in greater need of economy than it has been for many years. Any new taxes that may be imposed will be disappointing because of the drastically reduced purchasing power of the people. Congress may find it more practicable to reduce expenditures than to tap new sources of revenue.

Both parties promised extensive economies during the campaign. The indications are that President Hoover is prepared to carry out his pledge in his budget message, even though he was defeated at the polls. But the actual machinery for initiating economies is in the hands of the Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives. There is no reason why fulfillment of their economy plank should be postponed until the new Congress assembles. Speaker Garner will be in a position to put it into effect immediately.

At the last session Congress made several pitiful attempts at cutting down expenditures. But nearly every saving was made at the expense of Government employes. All other attempts to pare down extravagant outlays were frustrated by politics. With the next congressional election two years away, politics should be less rampant at the coming session, and some real economies should be effected. Discrimination against Government workers should be corrected along with vigorous reduction of the budget in other quarters. In view of the glowing promises of both parties during the campaign, new taxes will be a farce unless stringent economies are effected.

NOVEL RAILROAD RELIEF.

A unique proposal to aid New England railroads urges the abandonment of some 2,000 miles of unprofitable lines and their transformation into toll highways for motorized traffic. This suggestion comes from the Rhode Island Commission of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, following a comprehensive survey of the entire rail situation in the northeastern States, and has the approval of various authorities as offering relief from operating losses and affording the opportunity to reduce capital structures.

There are about 8,000 miles of railway in New England with a valuation, as of 1929, of $120,000 per mile. The Rhode Island report estimates that one-fourth of this mileage has already been rendered unprofitable, largely by truck competition. If a present-day valuation of $100,000 a mile be placed on this obsolete trackage it represents a $200,000,000 capital charge that is being carried in the statements of the railroads. Since the roads are supposed to earn 5 per cent on this investment the commission points out that the result is to add $10,000,000 a year to freight charges in New England for the support of lines whose earnings are practically nil.

Because of this added charge which burdens the tariffs of productive roads it is claimed that they find it impossible to compete with trucks in many instances, and are faced with the loss of still further business from the growing competition of motorized traffic. The commission report estimates that the 2,000 miles of dead and dying railway rights of way could be taken over and converted into motor highways at a cost of $70,000 per mile, and that toll charges could readily be collected from motor traffic that would assure a revenue sufficient for upkeep and amortization and even possible profits.

On the other hand the railroads would find immediate relief in the reduction of their valuation to approximately $700,000,000. On this basis of capitalization they could reduce freight rates and still show better returns on the investment. The Rhode Island plan contemplates the consolidation of the remaining 6,000 miles in a general transportation system for New England, to become an integral part of the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for four eastern systems with necessary connections with the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Nickel Plate, New York Central, and Baltimore & Ohio. It is naturally expected that this proposal will be placed before Chairman Coolidge's National Transportation Commission for its consideration.

AVIATION'S BIRTHPLACE.

A monument will be dedicated today to Wilbur and Orville Wright on the spot where they made the first successful flight in a heavier than air machine under its own power. A 60-foot granite pylon has been erected on the summit of Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, N. C., to mark the birthplace of modern aviation, which occurred on December 17, 1903. It seems incredible, considering the important part which aerial navigation plays in the world today, that the practicability of human flight was demonstrated less than three decades ago.

There were few who anticipated favorable results when the Wright brothers departed from their bicycle shop in Dayton, Ohio, to try out the machine which was the result of many hours of patient labor. Their earlier tests upon the prairie near their home town were laughed at by most of the community, and their shop was pointed out to strangers as that of the boys "who thought they could fly." It did not discourage them.

Wilbur Wright is dead, but Orville, who guided that first flight, is to attend the ceremonies dedicating the memorial. The monument has a foundation in the form of a star. The granite shaft is triangular, facing northward, the direction in which the first flight was made. The shaft resembles a pylon with a folded wings motif. Stairs lead to the top, where a revolving light will be a beacon for shipping. The massive steel entrance doors bear eight panels portraying man's earlier efforts to fly.

The Wright monument was built under authorization of Congress by the War Department at a cost of $275,000. Around the base is this inscription: "In commemoration of the conquest of the air by the brothers, Wilbur and Orville Wright. Conceived by genius, achieved by dauntless resolution and unconquerable faith." The shaft will be unveiled by Miss Ruth Nichols, of New York, and the principal address will be made by the Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley.

A BUSY BUREAU.

The ramified activities of the Coast and Geodetic Survey are as comparatively unknown to various citizens as they are important to many others. The annual report of the director of this valuable work, Capt. R. S. Patton, to the Secretary of Commerce, has just been released. It records in detail a year of unusual activity in chart making, geodetic control surveys, tide and current work and earthquake studies.

Extensive marine surveys during the fiscal year included those made of continental coastlines, intracoastal waterways, and harbors, both of the United States and its dependencies, depth soundings taken, obstructions to navigation charted, and observations made of tides and currents. The requirements of modern navigation constantly demand that charts be extended seaward. Much additional work was done in Alaskan waters. In the Hawaiian group surveys were concentrated largely along the chain of islands and reefs extending 1,200 miles westward from the main group to Midway Island. Included in extensive work in the Philippines was a detailed survey of Manila Harbor.

Statistics in this report show a total of over 767,000 soundings taken during the year, distributed along lines totaling a distance of 72,186 miles, and covering an area of over 61,000 square miles. Twelve new nautical maps and eight airway maps were published during the year, while revised editions and reprintings ran into large figures. The great demand for the work of the Survey is shown by the fact that 277,034 nautical charts and 19,692 airway maps were disposed of during the year. The magnetic survey comprises information of inestimable value. Without complete information thus furnished for the United States and the regions under its jurisdiction, and the periodic redetermination of the changes in magnetism at some 5,000 places, it would be impossible to navigate a vessel in safety, and today this information is just as important for the airplane pilot overtaken by fog or darkness.

STATE JOB INSURANCE.

Unemployment insurance is receiving a good deal of attention by State legislatures. Nearly every agency that has investigated the subject has recommended action by the States rather than by the Federal Government. The experience of Great Britain and Germany in mixing unemployment insurance with national politics has turned public opinion in this country definitely away from any tinkering with the subject by Congress.

A commission in Ohio has submitted a report to Gov. White, recommending a system of State unemployment insurance to be financed by employers and employes. Organized labor, industry and taxpayers were represented on the commission. Presumably its report will be acted upon by the legislature this year as a means of easing the burden of relief upon taxpayers and charitable organizations in future periods of depression.

Under the plan outlined by this group an individual who loses his job would be paid 50 per cent of his wage up to $15 per week. For the first three weeks after losing his job he would receive nothing. That would encourage him to look for work immediately. After three weeks if he should be still unemployed he would be entitled to an allowance for 16 weeks. A fund for payment of these benefits would be accumulated by assessments on the basis of total payrolls. Employers would be required to pay 2 per cent of their payrolls, and employes 1 per cent of their wages. If strictly administered, there seems to be no reason why a system of this kind should not redound to the general welfare of any State.

The question of unemployment insurance is of special interest just now because of the annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor next week. Officials of that body have been studying the subject and are expected to make recommendations to guide organized labor in its efforts to obtain a larger degree of economic security. It is to be hoped that the federation will confine its program in this respect to State legislation. The movement is already under way in the States. It is distinctly a State problem with which Congress can not safely deal. Early action may be expected in some of the chief industrial States, but no action whatever can be expected from Congress. Under careful State supervision unemployment insurance might become an important factor in relieving distress and stabilizing industry, but as a football of national politics it would certainly descend into a dole.

THE GERMAN UPSET.

The government of Chancellor von Papen has finally succumbed to the pressure of nine-to-one opposition in the Reichstag. This result has seemed inevitable since the last election. While the strength of the Hitler National Socialists declined it still remains the largest political party in Germany and the gain made by the Nationalists, the only supporters of the Von Papen regime, was negligible. With the support of the Populists the cabinet could only count upon 10 per cent of the Reichstag, and since the election sentiment has steadily crystallized around the belief that the popular vote constituted a verdict of lack of confidence which could not be ignored.

With President von Hindenburg's acceptance of the cabinet resignations speculation as to Von Papen's successor centers around the name of Dr. Heinrich Schnee. He recently resigned from the People's Party, urging that the Hitler element be given proportionate representation in the government. This leads to the belief that if Dr. Schnee is called upon to form a cabinet he will endeavor to install a coalition government. This action seems even more likely with the issuance of an official communique following the cabinet resignation which said the cabinet had retired because "it wished to clear the way for the president so that he, as the leader of the nation and with the high authority of his office, may bring about the consolidation of all truly national forces which alone can assure Germany's future."

Dr. Schnee's recent conciliatory attitude indicates that he might accomplish what was impossible under the Junker leadership of the Von Papen cabinet. Germany must realize that a coalition government in the present situation offers the best chance of saving the republic.

Nick Butler makes a rather belated call for reorganization of the Republican party. He carried two States in 1912 as a candidate for Vice President.

Debt cancellation economists have just taken six columns in failing to show how cancellation would help American taxpayers.

HUNGER MARCHERS

From the Boston Transcript.

Washington lives in the expectation that it will soon be called upon to deal with "hunger marchers" who propose to gather on the eve of the opening of the congressional session. The District of Columbia Commissioners are appealing to governors and mayors to discourage as far as they can this movement on the Capital. Promises of cooperation have been secured. But if large numbers of men and women are determined to go on a "hunger march," go they will.

Chairman Luther H. Reichelderfer, of the District Commission, announces that no effort will be made to stop the marchers at the borders of the city nor to interfere with them as long as they feed and house themselves, and are orderly. He also lets it be known that there are no funds available for their care and support. They are thus told in advance that they can not expect to be treated as wards of the District. Perhaps the news will discourage some now bent on joining the march.

This "hunger march" has been sponsored by the national committee of unemployed councils. It maintains an office in New York, and, while denying that it is a Communist organization, admits that Communists are influential among its members. It has a program. It wants a payment of $50 from the national Treasury to every unemployed person plus $10 for each dependent, these payments to be in addition to local relief. It also "demands" immediate establishment of a system of unemployment insurance to be paid for by the Government and the employers.

The men at the head of the movement presumably regard the program merely as a pretext for mustering another body of the nomadic among the unemployed. Probably many who join in the march will do so knowing that there will be no $50 bills at the end of it. Such demonstrations are an accompaniment of the times. America has had its Bonus Expeditionary Force. London has been invaded by the demonstrators against the means test. Now this movement on Washington is about to begin. It is a hopeless mission. Its members are likely to suffer in the winter weather. They would be far better off in the localities from which they take their departure. But the misery of their followers does not deter the leaders of such undertakings. They live by stirring up trouble. It is to be hoped that any among them who violate the law will be promptly brought to justice.

POST HASTE

At the executive debt conference Secretary Mills and Prof. Moley can properly be considered the tin foils.

It takes clever beer boosters to demonstrate how an extra billion or two spent for the poor man's drink is going to yank prosperity around the corner and balance the budget.

European nations have seldom been so united. They agreed to forgive German payments they couldn't collect and are unanimous in the desire to dump on the U. S. A. the debts they don't want to pay.

Some opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway seems based on the fear that it is merely a substitute for prohibition.

Possibly the bonus boys are only holding out on Secretary Hurley's capricorn until St. Patrick's Day.

President von Hindenburg finds junking the Junkers easier than finding something just as distasteful to the Reichstag.

It is suggested that Gov. Roosevelt will begin to exert influence on Congress during the short session. Not a big stick, exactly, but a fishing pole.

With blizzards on every side, Washington continues to rival Florida and California as the Nation's winter resort.

The Aviation Corporation, after airing its dirty spark plugs in public, has found a compromise muffler for future exhausts.

The non-peace peace of the non-war war in the Gran Chaco is just as effective as it is in China.

There may be some sour-grape comfort for lame ducks and remaining Republicans in watching Democratic colleagues struggle with a million new office-seekers.

What the congressional group that is to meet the President next Wednesday would like to know is whether they will get a stenographic report of the executive session of the day before.

American citizens can scarcely be barred from entering the Capital to present a petition to Congress, even if they arrive in considerable numbers. But if they become a menace to peace they can be handled.

JUDGMENT.

Each to his mood so oft gives way!
Some tricksy whim commands.
Man quits the post where he should stay,
Another bravely stands.
And countless critics, passing by,
Shout praise or blame, scarce knowing why.

Some madcap notion leads a man
To walk on danger's brink,
And fortunate is he who can
Stop long enough to think.
For few of those Charybdis charmed
Ever returned to life unharmed.

Like as the compass needle swings
Forever to the pole
So man must have some lasting things
To which he binds his soul.
Or, prey to any passing whim,
Folly at last may conquer him.

One manages where many fail
To reach the higher lands.
How difficult life is for all,
I'm sure God understands!
Nor will He judge our faithlessness
By man's poor standard of success.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

My dear Louise: Yesterday, while window shopping with a much-schooled young woman who knows her way about, I met a bachelor acquaintance who stopped for a moment's talk.

When he had gone his way, I said to the young woman: "Fine young fellow! And smart, too."

"But," she objected, "he hasn't any beard."

She didn't mean that his face was smooth because of a recent shave. She meant that his face was entirely hairless and would so remain if he never shaved. And this oddity, which had escaped my notice, made him so unmasculine in the eyes of my companion that no other quality could redeem him.

Some time ago one of England's celebrities wrote an article to explain the modern woman's loss of femininity.

Men began it, he said, when they sheared their whiskers. And when, in addition to this shame, they began to powder and paint and wear silk undies and flowered pajamas, an outraged Nature endeavored to keep the sex balance by prompting women to become more mannish.

If men continued their folly, said he, women would, quite without intention or design, make themselves more and more masculine; while if men reformed and let their whiskers wave wildly in the wind, women would as unconsciously resume their natural role and become shy and coy in lace and crepe de chine.

I don't vouch for his theory, but this I do know. Neither nature nor sex have changed since the world was young, and the natural peculiarities of one sex are still the qualities that lure the other sex.

As a "sissy" man registers zero in the sight of a feminine woman, so a mannish woman appears a total loss to the kind of male called a "he-man."

If you wish to attract the kind of men who think this or that "perfectly darling" and coo with delight when women call them "cute," it might be advisable to swear like a trooper, smoke and drink, and dress as much like a male as custom will allow.

But if you have any desire to seem attractive to the kind of blue-shaving male persons called "regular guys," I advise you to reconcile yourself to your sex and be as unaffectedly feminine as a kindly Providence equipped you to be.

Whether gentlemen prefer blondes I do not know, but I do know that they prefer girls. Love,

DAD.

WHAT IS TO COME?

Press Surmises as to Probable Developments in Politics as a Result of the Election.

Next Month's Hunger March.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The urgent request by District of Columbia officials to State and local authorities throughout the country for cooperation in discouraging the proposed "hunger march" on Washington, set for the opening of Congress on December 5, should bring a prompt and practical response. They point out that the District treasury is without funds to relieve the necessities of the marchers, who will undoubtedly incur serious hardships at this season of the year if they persist in their purpose.

All American citizens have the right of petition, but no good and much harm can come from spectacular "marches" on Washington. Local authorities everywhere should use all the influence at their command to prevent this movement from attaining serious proportions.

New Regime Faces Hard Task.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The struggle is over. For well-nigh a year it has absorbed the attention of a great part of the American people. It has hindered the processes of recovery and disturbed the currents of our national life. Regardless, however, of who sits in the White House or who dominates Capitol Hill, final recovery is sure. The help of every American, Republican or Democrat, is vital if this recovery is to be even reasonably swift and complete.

The new regime that will assume the responsibilities of power on next March 4 should have the good wishes and the good will of every American when and as it works for the general welfare. Its road will not be easy, nor will its burdens be light.

Foreign Hopes.

New York Herald Tribune.

French wine growers, German brewers and Canadian distillers seem to think that a huge free market will be thrown open to them as soon as Gov. Roosevelt moves into the White House. They do not appreciate that as soon as a legitimate market exists for such wares in this country tremendous pressure will be exerted on Congress to make it yield the Treasury the highest possible revenue and to protect it for the American farmer and fruit grower.

In the matter of war debt revision, a Democratic administration must simply repudiate its campaign platform to be more sympathetic than President Hoover has been.

The Liquor Change.

Kansas City Times.

In view of the outcome of the election, of the platforms of both parties, of the positions of the presidential candidates and an increasingly obvious shift in public sentiment, a change with respect to prohibition is ahead. But it ought to be a safe kind of change. Until it is made, after the most thorough deliberation and in accordance with constitutional methods, the laws should be enforced. Temporary expedients of nonenforcement or release of offenders are indefensible and tend to encourage the identical lawlessness that has been urged as an objection to the prohibition system.

Credits Ought to Be Easy.

That school for brewers in Chicago ought to get away to a grand educational start. So many had been doing the home work before it was ever thought of.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Colored Contributors to the Community Chest—Plea From Prof. Kelly Miller.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to beg a few lines of your valuable space to emphasize the importance of the Community Chest, especially to the colored contributors and beneficiaries. Unemployment and underemployment bear heaviest upon them. By reason of well-understood conditions they constitute the most needy element of the community and are least competent to help themselves. The Community Chest operates as far as feasible without regard to race, nationality or religion. Pity and need make all men kin.

The Negroes of Washington receive from the Chest ten times as much as they are able to contribute to it. But the amount which they contribute out of their comparative poverty redounds doubly to their advantage. When they show a disposition to help themselves to the fullest extent of their ability the whole city is encouraged to supplement the deficiency.

In past years the colored contingent of Washington has contributed far in excess of any other colored group in the country. This year as we approach the winter and as we envisage the misery and want resulting from unemployment, the appeal is irresistible to all who would help their fellow men in distress.

The alibi of reduction of wage or salary is frequently encountered, but those who have left 91 1-3 per cent of their previous income are a thousand times better off than the poor fellow who has lost all.

As chairman of the second corps of the metropolitan area, I am hereby earnestly appealing to every colored citizen to contribute to his or her utmost ability when the solicitor comes around.

KELLY MILLER.

Government Should Regulate Hunger Marches and Not Temporize With Reds.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The local authorities are worrying about how to deal with hunger marchers. I think the marchers should be halted at the District line by the strong arm of Federal authority. At least if they enter the District it should be under Federal regulation. Otherwise the painful scenes of last summer's so-called invasion by the so-called army of bonus marchers will be repeated. In fact, that is what the red agitators of this winter's "hunger" movement have in view. The economic crisis of the country pleases the reds, and they have the approval of Moscow in thinking this a good time to cause all the trouble they can in this country's capital. You can be sure that they will go in with satisfaction if, in the "war against capitalism," they can force a riotous skirmish lively enough to interest the country at large. It seems to me that with the important issues it has at stake, the Government can not afford to temporize with red agitators at this time.

Ingenious French Plan to Retain War System Under League of Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The ingenious feature of the French delegation's device for keeping the peace of Europe is this: Old-fashioned military alliances, limited to the few powers leagued together, would be expanded by permutations and combinations.

France's new proposals not only aim to retain the war system—they would establish a continental war board controlled by a majority of the Council of the League of Nations. By providing the grounds of action against those whom the majority would deem aggressors, the new plan would intrench the legality of war.

We who are working for peace must be wary of the illusory. The legalization of special kinds of war has been afforded by the covenant, Locarno and Kellogg pact. The French plan for a League of Nations army to enforce peace stipulates the safeguard of those agreements. There will be an international professional soldiery, an international air force, an international aggregation of offensive weapons, all at the disposal of a permanent commission.

"Forgotten Man" Insists That Newton D. Baker Should Be Secretary of State.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems to be the special privilege of the editor of our great and small newspapers, as well as 'Democracy's forgotten men," to select President Roosevelt's Cabinet. As a member of the latter class, I would speak a word in behalf of Newton D. Baker as Secretary of State.

Mr. Baker is the deepest student of international law and the best authority on foreign relations in our country today. The cloak of Woodrow Wilson has indeed fallen on his shoulders. This has been fully demonstrated by Mr. Baker's recent speeches, particularly the one delivered at the last armistice celebration at Washington.

Surely the success of the Democratic party and the welfare of our country will depend upon harmonious relations with the rest of the world, particularly with the English-speaking people.

In the opinion of the writer, the demand for Mr. Baker's leadership, both here and abroad, will be so great that he will not decline the honor. We, of course, also expect Gov. Ritchie to be in the Cabinet, as a matter of simple justice, of party sagacity and political righteousness.

TAXES OR ECONOMY?

Congressional leaders are casting about for new sources of taxation. Present indications are that the fiscal year will end with a deficit, although the yield of the taxes enacted last June is steadily increasing. A revenue measure of some kind will be necessary because the gasoline tax, which is the most productive of the recent levies, was approved for one year only.

Sentiment in favor of legalizing beer so that it may be taxed is steadily growing, but this proposal may not be enacted at the short session, and if it should be approved the revenue would not be sufficient to balance the budget. Leaders in the House are waiting for President Hoover to suggest a means of bringing the budget definitely into balance.

What has become of the economy programs about which so much was heard during the campaign? It is strange to hear Representative Collier, chairman of the ways and means committee, where fiscal legislation originates, speculating on new taxes when his party has promised to reduce Federal expenditures by $1,000,000,000. There will be no better time to put this program into operation than at present. The Government is in greater need of economy than it has been for many years. Any new taxes that may be imposed will be disappointing because of the drastically reduced purchasing power of the people. Congress may find it more practicable to reduce expenditures than to tap new sources of revenue.

Both parties promised extensive economies during the campaign. The indications are that President Hoover is prepared to carry out his pledge in his budget message, even though he was defeated at the polls. But the actual machinery for initiating economies is in the hands of the Democratic leaders in the House of Representatives. There is no reason why fulfillment of their economy plank should be postponed until the new Congress assembles. Speaker Garner will be in a position to put it into effect immediately.

At the last session Congress made several pitiful attempts at cutting down expenditures. But nearly every saving was made at the expense of Government employes. All other attempts to pare down extravagant outlays were frustrated by politics. With the next congressional election two years away, politics should be less rampant at the coming session, and some real economies should be effected. Discrimination against Government workers should be corrected along with vigorous reduction of the budget in other quarters. In view of the glowing promises of both parties during the campaign, new taxes will be a farce unless stringent economies are effected.

NOVEL RAILROAD RELIEF.

A unique proposal to aid New England railroads urges the abandonment of some 2,000 miles of unprofitable lines and their transformation into toll highways for motorized traffic. This suggestion comes from the Rhode Island Commission of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, following a comprehensive survey of the entire rail situation in the northeastern States, and has the approval of various authorities as offering relief from operating losses and affording the opportunity to reduce capital structures.

There are about 8,000 miles of railway in New England with a valuation, as of 1929, of $120,000 per mile. The Rhode Island report estimates that one-fourth of this mileage has already been rendered unprofitable, largely by truck competition. If a present-day valuation of $100,000 a mile be placed on this obsolete trackage it represents a $200,000,000 capital charge that is being carried in the statements of the railroads. Since the roads are supposed to earn 5 per cent on this investment the commission points out that the result is to add $10,000,000 a year to freight charges in New England for the support of lines whose earnings are practically nil.

Because of this added charge which burdens the tariffs of productive roads it is claimed that they find it impossible to compete with trucks in many instances, and are faced with the loss of still further business from the growing competition of motorized traffic. The commission report estimates that the 2,000 miles of dead and dying railway rights of way could be taken over and converted into motor highways at a cost of $70,000 per mile, and that toll charges could readily be collected from motor traffic that would assure a revenue sufficient for upkeep and amortization and even possible profits.

On the other hand the railroads would find immediate relief in the reduction of their valuation to approximately $700,000,000. On this basis of capitalization they could reduce freight rates and still show better returns on the investment. The Rhode Island plan contemplates the consolidation of the remaining 6,000 miles in a general transportation system for New England, to become an integral part of the Interstate Commerce Commission's plan for four eastern systems with necessary connections with the Chesapeake & Ohio, Pennsylvania, Nickel Plate, New York Central, and Baltimore & Ohio. It is naturally expected that this proposal will be placed before Chairman Coolidge's National Transportation Commission for its consideration.

AVIATION'S BIRTHPLACE.

A monument will be dedicated today to Wilbur and Orville Wright on the spot where they made the first successful flight in a heavier than air machine under its own power. A 60-foot granite pylon has been erected on the summit of Kill Devil Hill at Kitty Hawk, N. C., to mark the birthplace of modern aviation, which occurred on December 17, 1903. It seems incredible, considering the important part which aerial navigation plays in the world today, that the practicability of human flight was demonstrated less than three decades ago.

There were few who anticipated favorable results when the Wright brothers departed from their bicycle shop in Dayton, Ohio, to try out the machine which was the result of many hours of patient labor. Their earlier tests upon the prairie near their home town were laughed at by most of the community, and their shop was pointed out to strangers as that of the boys "who thought they could fly." It did not discourage them.

Wilbur Wright is dead, but Orville, who guided that first flight, is to attend the ceremonies dedicating the memorial. The monument has a foundation in the form of a star. The granite shaft is triangular, facing northward, the direction in which the first flight was made. The shaft resembles a pylon with a folded wings motif. Stairs lead to the top, where a revolving light will be a beacon for shipping. The massive steel entrance doors bear eight panels portraying man's earlier efforts to fly.

The Wright monument was built under authorization of Congress by the War Department at a cost of $275,000. Around the base is this inscription: "In commemoration of the conquest of the air by the brothers, Wilbur and Orville Wright. Conceived by genius, achieved by dauntless resolution and unconquerable faith." The shaft will be unveiled by Miss Ruth Nichols, of New York, and the principal address will be made by the Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley.

A BUSY BUREAU.

The ramified activities of the Coast and Geodetic Survey are as comparatively unknown to various citizens as they are important to many others. The annual report of the director of this valuable work, Capt. R. S. Patton, to the Secretary of Commerce, has just been released. It records in detail a year of unusual activity in chart making, geodetic control surveys, tide and current work and earthquake studies.

Extensive marine surveys during the fiscal year included those made of continental coastlines, intracoastal waterways, and harbors, both of the United States and its dependencies, depth soundings taken, obstructions to navigation charted, and observations made of tides and currents. The requirements of modern navigation constantly demand that charts be extended seaward. Much additional work was done in Alaskan waters. In the Hawaiian group surveys were concentrated largely along the chain of islands and reefs extending 1,200 miles westward from the main group to Midway Island. Included in extensive work in the Philippines was a detailed survey of Manila Harbor.

Statistics in this report show a total of over 767,000 soundings taken during the year, distributed along lines totaling a distance of 72,186 miles, and covering an area of over 61,000 square miles. Twelve new nautical maps and eight airway maps were published during the year, while revised editions and reprintings ran into large figures. The great demand for the work of the Survey is shown by the fact that 277,034 nautical charts and 19,692 airway maps were disposed of during the year. The magnetic survey comprises information of inestimable value. Without complete information thus furnished for the United States and the regions under its jurisdiction, and the periodic redetermination of the changes in magnetism at some 5,000 places, it would be impossible to navigate a vessel in safety, and today this information is just as important for the airplane pilot overtaken by fog or darkness.

STATE JOB INSURANCE.

Unemployment insurance is receiving a good deal of attention by State legislatures. Nearly every agency that has investigated the subject has recommended action by the States rather than by the Federal Government. The experience of Great Britain and Germany in mixing unemployment insurance with national politics has turned public opinion in this country definitely away from any tinkering with the subject by Congress.

A commission in Ohio has submitted a report to Gov. White, recommending a system of State unemployment insurance to be financed by employers and employes. Organized labor, industry and taxpayers were represented on the commission. Presumably its report will be acted upon by the legislature this year as a means of easing the burden of relief upon taxpayers and charitable organizations in future periods of depression.

Under the plan outlined by this group an individual who loses his job would be paid 50 per cent of his wage up to $15 per week. For the first three weeks after losing his job he would receive nothing. That would encourage him to look for work immediately. After three weeks if he should be still unemployed he would be entitled to an allowance for 16 weeks. A fund for payment of these benefits would be accumulated by assessments on the basis of total payrolls. Employers would be required to pay 2 per cent of their payrolls, and employes 1 per cent of their wages. If strictly administered, there seems to be no reason why a system of this kind should not redound to the general welfare of any State.

The question of unemployment insurance is of special interest just now because of the annual meeting of the American Federation of Labor next week. Officials of that body have been studying the subject and are expected to make recommendations to guide organized labor in its efforts to obtain a larger degree of economic security. It is to be hoped that the federation will confine its program in this respect to State legislation. The movement is already under way in the States. It is distinctly a State problem with which Congress can not safely deal. Early action may be expected in some of the chief industrial States, but no action whatever can be expected from Congress. Under careful State supervision unemployment insurance might become an important factor in relieving distress and stabilizing industry, but as a football of national politics it would certainly descend into a dole.

THE GERMAN UPSET.

The government of Chancellor von Papen has finally succumbed to the pressure of nine-to-one opposition in the Reichstag. This result has seemed inevitable since the last election. While the strength of the Hitler National Socialists declined it still remains the largest political party in Germany and the gain made by the Nationalists, the only supporters of the Von Papen regime, was negligible. With the support of the Populists the cabinet could only count upon 10 per cent of the Reichstag, and since the election sentiment has steadily crystallized around the belief that the popular vote constituted a verdict of lack of confidence which could not be ignored.

With President von Hindenburg's acceptance of the cabinet resignations speculation as to Von Papen's successor centers around the name of Dr. Heinrich Schnee. He recently resigned from the People's Party, urging that the Hitler element be given proportionate representation in the government. This leads to the belief that if Dr. Schnee is called upon to form a cabinet he will endeavor to install a coalition government. This action seems even more likely with the issuance of an official communique following the cabinet resignation which said the cabinet had retired because "it wished to clear the way for the president so that he, as the leader of the nation and with the high authority of his office, may bring about the consolidation of all truly national forces which alone can assure Germany's future."

Dr. Schnee's recent conciliatory attitude indicates that he might accomplish what was impossible under the Junker leadership of the Von Papen cabinet. Germany must realize that a coalition government in the present situation offers the best chance of saving the republic.

Nick Butler makes a rather belated call for reorganization of the Republican party. He carried two States in 1912 as a candidate for Vice President.

HUNGER MARCHERS

From the Boston Transcript.

Washington lives in the expectation that it will soon be called upon to deal with "hunger marchers" who propose to gather on the eve of the opening of the congressional session. The District of Columbia Commissioners are appealing to governors and mayors to discourage as far as they can this movement on the Capital. Promises of cooperation have been secured. But if large numbers of men and women are determined to go on a "hunger march," go they will.

Chairman Luther H. Reichelderfer, of the District Commission, announces that no effort will be made to stop the marchers at the borders of the city nor to interfere with them as long as they feed and house themselves, and are orderly. He also lets it be known that there are no funds available for their care and support. They are thus told in advance that they can not expect to be treated as wards of the District. Perhaps the news will discourage some now bent on joining the march.

This "hunger march" has been sponsored by the national committee of unemployed councils. It maintains an office in New York, and, while denying that it is a Communist organization, admits that Communists are influential among its members. It has a program. It wants a payment of $50 from the national Treasury to every unemployed person plus $10 for each dependent, these payments to be in addition to local relief. It also "demands" immediate establishment of a system of unemployment insurance to be paid for by the Government and the employers.

The men at the head of the movement presumably regard the program merely as a pretext for mustering another body of the nomadic among the unemployed. Probably many who join in the march will do so knowing that there will be no $50 bills at the end of it. Such demonstrations are an accompaniment of the times. America has had its Bonus Expeditionary Force. London has been invaded by the demonstrators against the means test. Now this movement on Washington is about to begin. It is a hopeless mission. Its members are likely to suffer in the winter weather. They would be far better off in the localities from which they take their departure. But the misery of their followers does not deter the leaders of such undertakings. They live by stirring up trouble. It is to be hoped that any among them who violate the law will be promptly brought to justice.

From Different Ends of the Telescope.

POST HASTE

At the executive debt conference Secretary Mills and Prof. Moley can properly be considered the tin foils.

It takes clever beer boosters to demonstrate how an extra billion or two spent for the poor man's drink is going to yank prosperity around the corner and balance the budget.

European nations have seldom been so united. They agreed to forgive German payments they couldn't collect and are unanimous in the desire to dump on the U. S. A. the debts they don't want to pay.

Some opposition to the St. Lawrence waterway seems based on the fear that it is merely a substitute for prohibition.

President von Hindenburg finds junking the Junkers easier than finding something just as distasteful to the Reichstag.

It is suggested that Gov. Roosevelt will begin to exert influence on Congress during the short session. Not a big stick, exactly, but a fishing pole.

With blizzards on every side, Washington continues to rival Florida and California as the Nation's winter resort.

The Aviation Corporation, after airing its dirty spark plugs in public, has found a compromise muffler for future exhausts.

The non-peace peace of the non-war war in the Gran Chaco is just as effective as it is in China.

There may be some sour-grape comfort for lame ducks and remaining Republicans in watching Democratic colleagues struggle with a million new office-seekers.

What the congressional group that is to meet the President next Wednesday would like to know is whether they will get a stenographic report of the executive session of the day before.

American citizens can scarcely be barred from entering the Capital to present a petition to Congress, even if they arrive in considerable numbers. But if they become a menace to peace they can be handled.

JUDGMENT.

Each to his mood so oft gives way!
Some tricksy whim commands.
Man quits the post where he should stay,
Another bravely stands.
And countless critics, passing by,
Shout praise or blame, scarce knowing why.

Some madcap notion leads a man
To walk on danger's brink,
And fortunate is he who can
Stop long enough to think.
For few of those Charybdis charmed
Ever returned to life unharmed.

Like as the compass needle swings
Forever to the pole
So man must have some lasting things
To which he binds his soul.
Or, prey to any passing whim,
Folly at last may conquer him.

One manages where many fall
To reach the higher lands.
How difficult life is for all,
I'm sure God understands!
Nor will He judge our faithlessness
By man's poor standard of success.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: Yesterday, while window shopping with a much-schooled young woman who knows her way about, I met a bachelor acquaintance who stopped for a moment's talk.

When he had gone his way, I said to the young woman: "Fine young fellow! And smart, too."

"But," she objected, "he hasn't any beard."

She didn't mean that his face was smooth because of a recent shave. She meant that his face was entirely hairless and would so remain if he never shaved. And this oddity, which had escaped my notice, made him so unmasculine in the eyes of my companion that no other quality could redeem him.

Some time ago one of England's celebrities wrote an article to explain the modern woman's loss of femininity.

Men began it, he said, when they sheared their whiskers. And when, in addition to this shame, they began to powder and paint and wear silk undies and flowered pajamas, an outraged Nature endeavored to keep the sex balance by prompting women to become more mannish.

If men continued their folly, said he, women would, quite without intention or design, make themselves more and more masculine; while if men reformed and let their whiskers wave wildly in the wind, women would as unconsciously resume their natural role and become shy and coy in lace and crepe de chine.

I don't vouch for his theory, but this I do know. Neither nature nor sex have changed since the world was young, and the natural peculiarities of one sex are still the qualities that lure the other sex.

As a "sissy" man registers zero in the sight of a feminine woman, so a mannish woman appears a total loss to the kind of male called a "he-man."

If you wish to attract the kind of men who think this or that "perfectly darling" and coo with delight when women call them "cute," it might be advisable to swear like a trooper, smoke and drink, and dress as much like a male as custom will allow.

But if you have any desire to seem attractive to the kind of blue-shaving male persons called "regular guys," I advise you to reconcile yourself to your sex and be as unaffectedly feminine as a kindly Providence equipped you to be.

Whether gentlemen prefer blondes I do not know, but I do know that they prefer girls. Love,

DAD.

WHAT IS TO COME?

Press Surmises as to Probable Developments in Politics as a Result of the Election.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The urgent request by District of Columbia officials to State and local authorities throughout the country for cooperation in discouraging the proposed "hunger march" on Washington, set for the opening of Congress on December 5, should bring a prompt and practical response. They point out that the District treasury is without funds to relieve the necessities of the marchers, who will undoubtedly incur serious hardships at this season of the year if they persist in their purpose.

All American citizens have the right of petition, but no good and much harm can come from spectacular "marches" on Washington. Local authorities everywhere should use all the influence at their command to prevent this movement from attaining serious proportions.

New Regime Faces Hard Task.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The struggle is over. For well-nigh a year it has absorbed the attention of a great part of the American people. It has hindered the processes of recovery and disturbed the currents of our national life. Regardless, however, of who sits in the White House or who dominates Capitol Hill, final recovery is sure. The help of every American, Republican or Democrat, is vital if this recovery is to be even reasonably swift and complete.

The new regime that will assume the responsibilities of power on next March 4 should have the good wishes and the good will of every American when and as it works for the general welfare. Its road will not be easy, nor will its burdens be light.

Foreign Hopes.

New York Herald Tribune.

French wine growers, German brewers and Canadian distillers seem to think that a huge free market will be thrown open to them as soon as Gov. Roosevelt moves into the White House. They do not appreciate that as soon as a legitimate market exists for such wares in this country tremendous pressure will be exerted on Congress to make it yield the Treasury the highest possible revenue and to protect it for the American farmer and fruit grower.

In the matter of war debt revision, a Democratic administration must simply repudiate its campaign platform to be more sympathetic than President Hoover has been.

The Liquor Change.

Kansas City Times.

In view of the outcome of the election, of the platforms of both parties, of the positions of the presidential candidates and an increasingly obvious shift in public sentiment, a change with respect to prohibition is ahead. But it ought to be a safe kind of change. Until it is made, after the most thorough deliberation and in accordance with constitutional methods, the laws should be enforced. Temporary expedients of nonenforcement or release of offenders are indefensible and tend to encourage the identical lawlessness that has been urged as an objection to the prohibition system.

Credits Ought to Be Easy.

Boston Herald.

That school for brewers in Chicago ought to get away to a grand educational start. So many had been doing the home work before it was ever thought of.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I wish to beg a few lines of your valuable space to emphasize the importance of the Community Chest, especially to the colored contributors and beneficiaries. Unemployment and underemployment bear heaviest upon them. By reason of well-understood conditions they constitute the most needy element of the community and are least competent to help themselves. The Community Chest operates as far as feasible without regard to race, nationality or religion. Pity and need make all men kin.

The Negroes of Washington receive from the Chest ten times as much as they are able to contribute to it. But the amount which they contribute out of their comparative poverty redounds doubly to their advantage. When they show a disposition to help themselves to the fullest extent of their ability the whole city is encouraged to supplement the deficiency.

In past years the colored contingent of Washington has contributed far in excess of any other colored group in the country. This year as we approach the winter and as we envisage the misery and want resulting from unemployment, the appeal is irresistible to all who would help their fellow men in distress.

The alibi of reduction of wage or salary is frequently encountered, but those who have left 91 1-3 per cent of their previous income are a thousand times better off than the poor fellow who has lost all.

As chairman of the second corps of the metropolitan area, I am hereby earnestly appealing to every colored citizen to contribute to his or her utmost ability when the solicitor comes around.

KELLY MILLER.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The local authorities are worrying about how to deal with hunger marchers. I think the marchers should be halted at the District line by the strong arm of Federal authority. At least if they enter the District it should be under Federal regulation. Otherwise the painful scenes of last summer's so-called invasion by the so-called army of bonus marchers will be repeated. In fact, that is what the red agitators of this winter's "hunger" movement have in view. The economic crisis of the country pleases the reds, and they have the approval of Moscow in thinking this a good time to cause all the trouble they can in this country's capital. You can be sure that they will go in with satisfaction if, in the "war against capitalism," they can force a riotous skirmish lively enough to interest the country at large. It seems to me that with the important issues it has at stake, the Government can not afford to temporize with red agitators at this time.

A. P. JEROME.

Ingenious French Plan to Retain War System Under League of Nations.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The ingenious feature of the French delegation's device for keeping the peace of Europe is this: Old-fashioned military alliances, limited to the few powers leagued together, would be expanded by permutations and combinations.

France's new proposals not only aim to retain the war system—they would establish a continental war board controlled by a majority of the Council of the League of Nations. By providing the grounds of action against those whom the majority would deem aggressors, the new plan would intrench the legality of war.

We who are working for peace must be wary of the illusory. The legalization of special kinds of war has been afforded by the covenant, Locarno and Kellogg pact. The French plan for a League of Nations army to enforce peace stipulates the safeguard of those agreements. There will be an international professional soldiery, an international air force, an international aggregation of offensive weapons, all at the disposal of a permanent commission.

"Forgotten Man" Insists That Newton D. Baker Should Be Secretary of State.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems to be the special privilege of the editor of our great and small newspapers, as well as 'Democracy's forgotten men," to select President Roosevelt's Cabinet. As a member of the latter class, I would speak a word in behalf of Newton D. Baker as Secretary of State.

Mr. Baker is the deepest student of international law and the best authority on foreign relations in our country today. The cloak of Woodrow Wilson has indeed fallen on his shoulders. This has been fully demonstrated by Mr. Baker's recent speeches, particularly the one delivered at the last armistice celebration at Washington.

Surely the success of the Democratic party and the welfare of our country will depend upon harmonious relations with the rest of the world, particularly with the English-speaking people.

In the opinion of the writer, the demand for Mr. Baker's leadership, both here and abroad, will be so great that he will not decline the honor. We, of course, also expect Gov. Ritchie to be in the Cabinet, as a matter of simple justice, of party sagacity and political righteousness.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

INSTEAD of getting scalped by the National Association of Broadcasters at its St. Louis convention, as had been predicted, Oswald F. Schuette, Washingtonian, received the indorsement of the association in his handling of the fight with the American Society of Composers for a revision of the contract governing payment of royalties to composers and song writers.

Mr. Schuette, who will return to the Capital on Monday, was authorized to go so far as to institute legal proceedings, if necessary. Furthermore, he will not have to deal through a committee of the Broadcasters' Association hereafter, but will be allowed to act on his own initiative.

Entrances to local broadcasting station offices have been widened so as to make it possible for the boys returning from the broadcasters' convention at St. Louis to drag their expense accounts in with them.

JUDGING from a notice sent by the National Press Club, the N. B. C. will have a corner on the entertainment at the dinner given by the club to President-elect Roosevelt next Tuesday night. Whether or not the party will be broadcast will be settled definitely later.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will make her first radio appearance since Gov. Roosevelt became President-elect on Monday night, November 28. She will talk on a program arranged as a part of the annual drive for sale of Christmas seals by the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association.

The Harvard-Yale and Notre Dame-Navy football games occupy the air for most of the afternoon over WJSV and WRC, respectively.

The Rock Creek Sunshine Girl will make her debut in a series of programs over WRC tonight at 7 o'clock. She will sing a group of numbers, accompanied by Moe Baer's Orchestra.

OLIN DOWNES, music critic of the New York Times, and John Erskine, president of the Juilliard School of Music, will appear with Ernest Schelling as piano soloists in the first of the advanced series of children's and young people's concerts by the New York Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra (WJSV, 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m.).

The concert will be devoted to explanation and illustration of the development of the concerto, one of the most fundamental of musical forms. Beginning with the eighteenth century concerto compositions of Bach, the series will trace the changing conceptions of the form to the present day.

Featured in the concert will be Bach's Concerto in D Minor for three pianos, with Downes, Erskine and Schelling as soloists. Other selections to be performed by the orchestra will be the Bach Brandenburg Concerto No. 4 in G Major, for solo violin, two flutes and strings; the Beethoven Fugue from the String Quartet, Opus 59, No. 3, and, as a contrast to the serious study of the concerto form, the joyous Netherlands air, "Prayer of Thanksgiving."

HOW long does it take to write an average-length radio script?

"Two days in bed!" answers Edith Meiser, whose radio adaptations of the Conan Doyle stories have set a high standard in broadcast drama. "I mean it. I do write most of my productions before I get up. There's something of a formula, a ritual and a rite about my writing. I don't seem to be able to get at it unless I start right off after breadfast in bed."

Miss Meiser says she wouldn't even dare to start the routine of housekeeping or answer the door while a script is in ferment.

"Why, I'd get sidetracked in a minute if I so much as touched a dust mop or paused to read the morning paper. So as soon as I have had my coffee I start to write. That's at about 11 o'clock, and I keep at it without interruption until almost 6 o'clock in the evening."

In this fashion Miss Meiser writes a half-hour program in two days' time and spends, she says, a total of fourteen hours upon it. She writes in long hand with a blunt pencil and has all of her work typed out by a secretary before it goes to rehearsal for production on the air.

Although Miss Meiser was formerly an actress with the Theater Guild, she did a great deal of writing for vaudeville before coming to radio. Her only companion and confidant during her long and concentrated writing sessions is Dr. Watson—her Scottish terrier.

ALFRED P. SLOAN, JR., president of General Motors, will be the speaker over WJSV at 10:15 o'clock tonight during the regular Public Affairs Institute. His subject will be "Intergovernmental Debts."

A special transatlantic program in honor of the tenth anniversary of the founding of the British Broadcasting Corporation will be short-waved to England at 6 o'clock today. The broadcast will be directed by Paul Whiteman.

Hitherto unexposed talents of the announcers of the N. B. C. will be brought to light in a surprise program, "Announcers' Revel," to be heard over the WJZ network at 11:15 p. m. George Hicks is in charge of the radio parade of his colleagues, who include Graham McNamee, Edward Thorgersen, Neel Enslen, Alwyn Bach, Howard Petrie, John Holbrook, Kelvin Keech, Milton Cross, Ted Jewett, James Wallington, Ford Bond, Alois Havrilla and Howard Claney. Patrick J. Kelly will be master of ceremonies.

LANNY ROSS, the young Show Boat tenor, has been invited to be among the guests of honor at the annual "win-lose-or-draw" barn party for the Yale football team to be held in Nick Roberts' Old Yale Barn in Montclair, N. J., after the football season. Lanny, an old Yale athlete himself, will oblige with several Yale tunes and sentimental ballads.

The Prince of Wales recently ordered by personal letter all of Don Bestor's recent records. The orchestra leader has the letter framed and hung in his office.

Mark Cassidy is the most recent addition to the C. B. S. announcing staff. He is 29, unmarried and hails from Amsterdam, N. Y. His first radio experience was gained with Columbia outlets in Boston, but he forsook broadcasting temporarily to engage in motion picture and recording work.

Civic Service Is Called Need of Business Now

The solution of problems now facing Washington will go a long way toward getting business back upon an even keel, President Thomas P. Littlepage said yesterday at the meeting of bureau and committee chairman of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting was for the consideration of the chamber's program of activities during 1933.

California and Stanford Alumni Gather Tonight

The alumni associations of Stanford University and the University of California will hold their joint annual dinner frolic tonight at 2400 Sixteenth street northwest. Dining will be interspersed with cheering as play-by-play items are wired from the stadium at Palo Alto, Calif., where the two universities represented will be contesting for gridiron honors.

Among those attending the dinner will be President and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, of Stanford University, and Dr. and Mrs. John C. Merriman, of the University of California. Alumni of the two universities from Norfolk, Baltimore, and adjacent cities are expected to attend.

Lutherans Present Play Tonight.

The Dramatic Club of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, 527 Kentucky avenue, will present "Auntie Up," a three-act comedy, tonight at 8 o'clock.

WATERWAY PROJECT HEARINGS RECESSED

St. Lawrence Treaty Likely to Get Caught in Senate's Short Session Jam.

(Associated Press.)

Senate hearings on the St. Lawrence Waterway Treaty were recessed yesterday until November 28, with sufficient opposition testimony on hand to make consideration of the pact at the coming short session of Congress a subject of concern among its friends.

Chairman Borah announced that supporters of the project for a connecting waterway between the Great Lakes and the sea for ocean vessels would be heard when the hearings are resumed week after next.

Four full days of opposition testimony this week, however, indicated that the treaty faces a contest in the Senate which some of its friends fear may prevent its consideration at the crowded short session.

Controversial matters of such importance are rarely acted upon at short sessions because of the jam of necessary legislation and the ease with which a small minority can conduct a successful filibuster.

Factor of Lake Michigan.

Some of those favoring the treaty, however, including Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, took the view yesterday that the opposition so far was only what had been expected and asserted the treaty would be considered this winter.

Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, said the chances of the pact at this session depended upon whether the opposition was general enough to be reflected in the Senate or was purely of a local nature.

Borah said yesterday that he considered one of the objections raised against the treaty, its limitation on water diversion from Lake Michigan, of some importance.

Vigorous Opposition Voiced.

Recalling a decision made by Elihu Root, as Secretary of War many years ago, that Lake Michigan was not a boundary water, Borah said that seemed to him "sound law."

"If Lake Michigan is truly an inland body of water the treaty would not have anything to do with it," Borah commented.

The committee chairman said the hearings had developed "strong political influence" against ratification of the treaty.

Vigorous opposition to the treaty has come from the railroads and investors in them, Eastern seaboard cities and Great Lake shippers.

They have based their opposition on the following arguments:

That the cost would be so much greater than estimated as to make the project economically unsound.

Called Subsidized Competition.

That there is no demand for the added transportation facilities. That rates are now so low that shippers' savings would be negligible, if any.

That the waterway would constitute a subsidized system of transportation in competition with the railroads.

That ocean-going ships could not reduce the cost of transportation because of the specially adapted type of ships now in use on the lakes.

That any power produced would be too expensive to sell on a commercial basis and would have no market.

Mrs. Maude Hibschman Succumbs at Annapolis

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 18.—Mrs. Maude M. Hibschman, a native of Washington State, but for the last several years executive secretary of the Annapolis Y. W. C. A., died suddenly today of a heart attack. She was a widow. Her only survivor is a son, Maurice W. Hibschman, a former midshipman, who graduated from the Naval Academy in the class of 1931, but resigned from the service and is now studying law in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Hibschman's funeral will be held from a local parlor at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and interment will be private.

Plasterers Hall Lecture Set.

The decisive shift in the entire educational system of the Soviet Union, recently announced as part of a plan to tighten up on the earlier "free development" classroom methods, is to be the theme of a talk tomorrow night at Plasterers Hall, 1024 New Jersey avenue, by Joseph Freeman, well-known author.

Wife Reports Nye Can Not Move Self

Senator Hurt in Car Crash to Have X-Rays Made at Navy Hospital.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, who was injured in an automobile wreck last week, was reported improving at his home here yesterday upon his arrival from a St. Paul, Minn., hospital.

Mrs. Nye said the senator would be removed to the Naval Hospital here as soon as his condition permits for a thorough X-ray examination.

"At no time since entering the hospital at St. Paul," said Mrs. Nye, "has Senator Nye been able to move himself, but it is believed his back weakness is occasioned by the broken ribs and badly bruised body and muscles. Close examination has failed to reveal any spinal injuries and rest should have him on his feet in a week or ten days."

VIOLATIONS OF PLANE REGULATIONS GROW

Col. Young's Fiscal Report Cites Effect of Slump on Industry.

(Associated Press.)

Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, said yesterday in his annual report that the development of airplanes, even in times of adverse economic conditions, has demonstrated that they are a "valuable and indispensable part of the transportation system of the Nation."

The report covering the fiscal year 1931, ended last June 30, said that in common with other industries aviation in general felt the results of the business dip of the last few years and found it necessay to revise its plans and ideas along economic lines suited to the times. As a result of changes, Young cintinued, aviation has made constant, normal and sound progress.

During the calendar year 1931, he said, aircraft, engines, parts and equipment were manufactured which had a total value of $54,520,627. Heavier-than-air aircraft and parts accounted for $33,348,451 of the total as compared with $34,545,728 in 1930. During the fiscal year 1932 the number of licensed pilots increased to 18,069, as compared with 16,268 the year before.

Young reported that during the year there had been an increased number of violations of air regulations and in the number of penalties. He said in all 1,264 violations had been noted with penalties assessed. Of these 386 aviators drew suspensions, 166 reprimands, 101 revocation of licenses while 345 cases had been dismissed.

The Assistant Secretary said the program of airway construction authorized by Congress had enabled the department to complete the three lighted transcontinental air routes. The transcontinental route operates from New York via Chicago to San Francisco, the midcontinental from Los Angeles via Kansas City to New York and the Southern transcontinental from San Diego via Atlanta to New York.

Young said there are 2,037 airports in the United States and that in the calendar year 1931 scheduled airlines flew 47,385,987 miles compared with 36,945,203 the previous year, while 522,345 passengers were carried in 1931 as compared with 417,505 in 1930.

Cotton Yarn Exports To Argentina Increase

(Associated Press.)

Commerce Department figures for the first nine months of the year, published yesterday, showed Argentina maintained its position as the leading export outlet for United States cotton yarns by increasing its purchases from 3,409,000 pounds in the first three quarters of 1931 to 4,295,000 during the same period of 1932.

Shipments of carded yarn, the most important type of cotton yarns, to Argentina increased from 1,729,000 to 2,787,000 pounds.

PORK CHOP SEASON NOW IN FULL SWING

Popular in American Homes; Suggestions Given How to Use Other Hog Products.

By MARTHA LOGAN

History does not tell of a person persevering enough to compute how many times one could encircle the globe with a line made of the number of pork chops usually eaten in one month in American homes. We will wager, however, that this string of pork chops would engulf the world several times.

Now that the leaves are well off the trees, and our walk has become a bit more brisk, and puddles have an ice crystal or two, pork chops and corn bread are more than ever popular. But how many times a good pork chop is toughened or ruined in the preparation! Brown your chops well in a preheated skillet. Turn down the heat, add a bit of moisture, cover the skillet well and allow the pork chops to cook slowly until done. Thirty to 40 minutes is not too long. Tart apple slices or orange slices cooked with the chops give a new zest to the dish.

But all pork does not grow as pork chops and there are some equally appealing—and might we add more economical—pork cuts. We use pork for so many occasions. Bacon, ham, salt pork and sausages are often found on breakfast tables. Ham, sliced or whole, tenderloin and chops are generally seen at the midday meal, while roast loin, fresh or smoked ham, and cuts from the shoulder grace the informal or festive family dinner menu. Pork fat has a decidedly good flavor so it is often used in seasoning otherwise bland dishes.

Pickled Feet in Jelly.

The ways of using cuts of pork are many. The feet are usually pickled and served with greens or sauerkraut. They also are jellied and served cold in slices. Try some boneless pickled feet rolled in egg and cracker crumbs and fried in deep hot fat. One delicatessen in our neighborhood is fairly stormed for hours when they have for sale this delicious morsel.

Ham, of course, needs very little introduction to many people. It may be either cooked in water (be sure the water does not boil or you will have a tough, stringy ham) or it may be baked whole. Thick slices, either from the center section or those very clever and inexpensive shank double cuts of ham are delicious broiled or panbroiled. Have you tried grilled bananas with your steak lately?

Bacon may be broiled or panbroiled, added for seasoning, or used to give extra fat to some fatless meat. In fact, people have a harder time showing me how you can not use bacon than how you can use bacon.

Spareribs may be roasted with dressing or cooked with mashed turnips (try adding apple sauce to the turnips, too), with sauerkraut, or with crushed pineapple. Neck bones are sometimes stripped out and sold as imitation spareribs and they aren't bad, either.

Smoked Shoulder Cheap.

The shoulder is sold either fresh as roast or shoulder chops, or smoked. The smoked cuts are used much the same as ham. And ah!—these cuts are not asked for so often in the butcher shop and are, therefore, generally less in price.

Sometimes, often lately, you see a "picnic shoulder" offered for sale. It looks a great deal like a small edition of the ham family. It really is the lower end of the shoulder and could almost be called the front leg ham. It is grand for the very small family who dotes on ham, but can't see a whole large ham.

The hock is the portion between the pig's foot and the knee joint and is sold fresh. It is best boiled in company with cabbage, sauerkraut, or greens. If you want a cheap meat dish, here is your answer.

The loin of pork is either sold "en toto" or cut up into your overly favorite pork chops. Sometimes it is made into that very regally festive dish—the crown roast of pork.

ORANGE CREAM.

4 oranges
1 cup sugar
1 pint milk
3 eggs
3 tablespoons cornstarch

Cut oranges in small pieces, cover with cup of sugar, set aside until custard is made. Scald one pint of milk, then pour over beaten yolks, add three tablespoons cornstarch dissolved in a little milk, cook in double boiler until thick and free from lumps. Pour this custard over oranges. Beat whites until stiff and put over custard. Serve cold with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

DEPRESSION DESSERT.

2 cups granulated sugar

1 cup Delicious apples
½ cup English walnuts and pecans; equal parts.

Whipped cream (M. B. Frazier & Co.).

Grind cranberries, apples and nuts in food chopper with medium knife. Use above measurements after ground. Mix thoroughly sugar, cranberries and apples. Let stand at least one hour before serving.

Combine and beat well, set in pan in other pan containing hot water. Bake 1½ hours in moderate oven. Serve hot or cold with catchup, chili sauce or tomato sauce.

Market Meanderings

By MILDRED REED BUNDY

How to Buy a Turkey Explained by Expert; Thanksgiving Bird Selling at 30 Cents a Pound; All About Fixings for Feast.

When its breast bone is not a bone—but gristle—a turkey is young and tender. This the Meanderer learned, among other things about turkeys, in a pre-Thanksgiving prowl among the hundreds, fast becoming thousands, of the big birs that were being made ready for Washington's annual Thanksgiving feast. A kindly poultry marketer with more than 30 years of experience in his trade, conducted the Meanderer through his plant and explained to her what she should know about the buying of turkeys. And surely this buyer is an authority worth listening to, when a purchase of 3,500 turkeys from one producer alone is only an incident in his Thanksgiving season.

"The skin on a young turkey will tear easily," the lecturer continued. "See, this is a young turkey," he demonstrated, forcing upward the wing of a fine-looking, big fowl, and easily breaking the skin. "And this is another not so young," he proved, as no amount of wing pulling seemed to break the skin of another equally fine-looking fowl.

That an over-size turkey is seldom a fine turkey, was another important point in the lesson. Ten or 12 pounds is average weight for the young birds, and the largest of the tender ones will not weigh more than 18 or 20 pounds.

The customer may choose a live turkey—with the help of the marketer if she is timid about examining the big, restless bird—and have it killed and dressed in a very few minutes, at the same price asked for the turkeys already on ice.

As pre-Thanksgiving market forecasts have shown, the cost of a turkey this year is less than it has been for more than 30 years. A large supply of the birds, due to the mild fall weather so favorable for fattening them, is ready for the demand which may be less this year than in other years when food budgets have not been watched so closely. At this particular poultry house the Meanderer visited, the proprietor said that 30 cents a pound probably would be his price for next week, though slight variations from that figure may occur from day to day. And in these days of swift handling of turkeys, Sunday is an important day. This poultry house—whose location the Meanderer can give you if you will call The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 52—is open on Sundays.

A Thanksgiving greeting for President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt that bears much weight—literally—is the 50-pound fruit cake sent this week to Albany from a certain well-known pastry shop on G street by the shop's expert cakemaker-manager, an ardent admirer of the President-to-be. Twenty years of fruit-cake making experience and the choicest of ingredients, including many pounds of candied fruits from Italy, went into this toothsome greeting. Washingtonians who order their holiday fruit cake at this shop may have exactly the same kind of fruit cake that the Roosevelt family has received, because the same care that went into his choice big greeting to Albany goes into the smaller cakes, of any size from 1 pound up. A long list of fruits and nuts is contained in the shop's fruit-cake recipe, as well as a generous amount of sherry wine. This satisfying cake costs 60 cents a pound.

Another fruit cake that the discriminating food buyer will like is a choice brand regularly sold by a department store's fancy food corner at 2 pounds for $2, but now offered at a special Thanksgiving value for $1.45.

An old English plum pudding, made according to a famous recipe by a well-known food house, is also ready for Thanksgiving shoppers in the department store just mentioned. The pudding may be used just as it comes from its tin, or it may be heated in the can for about an hour and served steaming as in the old times.

Cranberries are none too plentiful for the oncoming holiday, one marketer in southwest Washington advised. His price on choice cranberries from New Jersey is two pounds for 25 cents. Italian chestnuts for turkey stuffing are also two pounds for 25 cents alongside the cranberries at this fruit and vegetable stand. It was here the Meanderer found the very low price of 25 cents a pound for pecans, or two pounds for 45 cents. Here, too, were fancy, perfect Jonathan apples at 5 cents a pound.

Pumpkin and mince pies, large and plummy, fit for a king's table, sell for 50 cents each in a pastry shop in the heart of the shopping district. So popular are the pies from this shop that orders for 50 pies are nothing extraordinary. The Meanderer learned the secret of the fine, glazed, tempting surface of the pumpkin pies sold there, when she saw the finishing touch of egg-white dressing being applied. For a Thanksgiving dessert de luxe this shop offers a cake filled with almond paste and molded in the shape of turkeys.

Some of the turkey's trimmings surely will be fine Southern sweet potatoes, so plentiful about Washington. They have arrived by boatloads from the Eastern shores of Virginia and Maryland. On one boat that the Meanderer visited in the southwest market, the price per bushel for the best of sweet potatoes was absurdly low—only 30 cents! The bugeye carrying these good, cheap sweet potatoes—yes, including the Nancy Hall brand—in all a cargo of 825 barrels, came from near Bridgetown, Va., 150 miles from Washington by water. The boat and its cargo are berthed for about ten days at the waterfront. Call The Washington Post, National 4205, extension 52, to know the exact location of these desirable sweet potatoes.

Asparagus in two-pound bundles for only 20 cents is another turkey accompaniment within the average budget. Red cabbage, sweeter and more tender than white cabbage, is another of the Meanderer's discoveries. It sells for 5 cents a pound.

CRANBERRY SALAD.

4 cups cranberries
2 cups sugar
2 tablespoons Knox gelatine
1 cup chopped walnut meats
1 cup seeded grapes
1 cup diced pineapple and juice (No. 1 can)

Cook the cranberries in the pineapple juice, adding enough water to make three cups. When well cooked add gelatine which has been soaked in one-half cup of cold water, then add the sugar. Let this cool. When it is cold add the rest of the ingredients, mixing well. Pour into individual or large mold and put in a cold place until firm. Serve on lettuce leaves with either boiled or mayonnaise dressing to which has been added an equal amount of whipped cream. This amount is sufficient for ten generous servings. All the ingredients can be purchased at the Piggly Wiggly or Sanitary Stores.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

503.

THE BURDEN OF THE LEAD.

"IF you hadn't had to lead, Ely, we could have defeated the hand," remarked my partner, Mr. Oswald Jacoby, in a recent match game in which the Declarer was Mrs. Culbertson. It was a practice game played in preparation for the Vanderbilt Cup Contest.

Mr. Jacoby's analysis of the situation was absolutely correct. The burden of the lead automatically made it impossible for us to defeat the contract, which would otherwise have been defeated. The situation is not at all unusual in Contract Bridge. Ordinarily the right to move first, which in Contract is the right to make the lead, is an advantage, but hands are dealt at the Bridge table in which this right becomes a burden. Sometimes the way out is there if the player can find it, but in the hand in question, which is shown below, there was absolutely no way out, and the burden of the lead in itself made certain that Mrs. Culbertson would make her contract.

West—Dealer.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
	1♠(1)	Pass	1NT
Dbl.	2♠	Pass(2)	Pass
3♡(3)	Pass(4)	4♡(5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Technically not an Opening bid, but our opponents were vulnerable and we were not.

2—Mr. Huske should here have bid three diamonds. The pass was entirely too timid.

3—Mrs. Culbertson refused to be bluffed.

4—My partner's minimum response, coupled with the fact that I had already overbid my hand, suggested the wisdom of this course.

5—Mr. Huske now redeemed his previous error. He knew that Mrs. Culberson had a very strong hand and a good heart suit. It was therefore quite right to disregard the requirement for adequate trump support and give the Raise.

I chose as my Opening lead the diamond 5, but any other lead would have been equally as bad. The lead of a spade would not have served the full purpose, as then Mrs. Culbertson had 2 tricks in spades, upon one of which she may have discarded a loser from her hand. The lead of a trump, of course, prevented the loss of any trump tricks, while the lead of a club established the King of clubs as a trick winner.

In Bridge, as in life, if forced to attack, it is necessary to find a vulnerable spot in the opponent's armor; otherwise, you are likely to annihilate your inferior forces attacking an impregnable fortress.

WRIGHT MEMORIAL UNVEILING IS TODAY

Hurley to Deliver Principal Address in Ceremony at Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, will deliver the principal address today at the unveiling of the new Wright Memorial at Kill Devil Hill, Kitty Hawk, N. C.

Orville Wright, famous aviation pioneer, will be among the thousands journeying to the little sand spit off the North Carolina coast to dedicate the monument in tribute to man's first successful conquest of the air with a power-driven airplane. Together with his brother Wilbur, Orville Wright made that historic flight of less than a minute's duration.

The monument, erected by the United States Government in commemoration of the first flight, stands on the summit of Kill Devil Hill, a large sand dune used by the Wright brothers in their first attempts to conquer the air.

Miss Ruth Nichols, well-known aviatrix, will unveil the memorial. She flew here yesterday from New York and proceeded to Kitty Hawk last night by boat and auto.

Gov.-Elect John C. B. Eringhaus, Gov. O. Max Gardner, and Representative Lindsay C. Warren, of North Carolina, will also speak at the exercises. It is expected that President Hoover will send a message of felicitation. In addition to the general public there will be present a distinguished gathering of Cabinet officers, members of Congress, diplomatic representatives, high ranking Army and Navy officers and high officials of commercial aviation.

It has been planned to detail approximately 60 Army airplanes to conduct their regular flight training in the vicinity of Kitty Hawk today. However, at a late hour last night weather conditions for flying seemed uncertain and it was regarded as doubtful whether the planes, which were scheduled to fly from Langley Field, Va., would be able to participate.

The Navy had planned to send the Akron to the ceremony and Secretary of the Navy Adams planned to fly there, but both plans were canceled due to threatening weather.

Treating Steel Explained To Industrial Body Here

Latest developments in steel treating were outlined last night before the Washington Chapter of the American Society for Steel Treating by Dr. Vsevolod N. Krivobok, of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Various theories of why steel fails in some attempted uses and the means for minimizing such failures were discussed by Dr. Krivobok, who took as his subject "Heat Resisting Alloys—Success or Failure." The meeting was held in the auditorium of the new Interior Department Building, after a dinner at Sholl's Cafe. Lewis H. Fawcett presided.

DECIDING WINNER OF TRIP TO EUROPE

POST FILM CONTEST RESULT TOMORROW

Writer of Best Solution to "One-Way Passage" to Get Free Paris Trip.

Contestants in The Washington Post-Earle Theater contest, conducted recently in connection with the showing of the picture "One Way Passage," will know the result of their endeavors tomorrow, if the judges are able to complete their tasks in time.

Yesterday and last night the judges, Dean Henry Gratian Doyle, of George Washington University; William C. Ewing, of Warner Bros., and Nelson B. Bell, dramatic editor of The Post, pored over the huge stack of entries submitted by Washingtonians eager to have a free trip to Europe.

The prize and the intriguing nature of the contest brought thousands of interpretations for the peculiar finish of the film. The winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to Europe on the French Line's magnificent S. S. Paris.

Prior to the European trip the winner (and an escort whose expenses also will be paid) will be taken to New York in one of the Eastern Air Transport's big cabin planes and in New York will be entertained free for two days at the Hotel Edison.

With the deadline for entries set at Thursday midnight, The Post was swamped with last-minute solutions and the judges were forced into long hours going through the large stacks of mail. They hope to complete their task in time to announce the winner in The Post tomorrow.

IN THE CINEMA HOUSES

PALACE

"PROSPERITY." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of a story by Sylvia Thalberg and Frank Butler, addpted to the screen by Zelda Sears, starring Marie Dressler and Polly Moran, with Anita Page, Norman Foster and John Miljan. Directed by Sam Wood. Reviewed Friday afternoon.

By NELSON B. BELL.

Expounding the same sort of sound but homely banking philosophy as "American Madness," blending the most bald-faced and crassest of hokum with occasional flashes of honest emotion and punctuating a strong and almost continuous vein of comedy with rowdy touches that somehow seem conspicuously out of place, this latest round-by-round report of the friendly verbal brawls between two embattled women will no doubt be acclaimed one of the greatest of the Dressler-Moran collaborations. All visual and auricular evidence in the Palace Theater yesterday afternoon was to that effect.

"Prosperity" is made up of familiar ingredients. A wealthy mother of a petted son is enjoying a lifelong warfare with the socially ambitious and comfortably well-off mother of a charming daughter. The youngsters are married, the financial debacle of recent vintage strikes the town, their positions in the community are reversed, sacrificial mother and unscrupulous son struggle to preserve the solvency of the bank that has been in the family for years and attempted existence of two families under one roof becomes a perpetual barrage of recrimination, abuse, misunderstanding and deliberate affront.

That lusty grand dame of masculine and vigorous method, Marie Dressler, appears in the role of the banker's widow, Maggie Warren; the ribald and indelicate Polly Moran as Lizzie Praskins, above no breach of the social amenities. Miss Dressler's is infinitely the more sympathetic role of the two; Miss Moran's, the colossally irritating, thanks to the skill she is able to impart to such thankless tasks. Between them they account for a tremendous amount of rough-and-ready comedy, a superb indifference to the ordinary conventionalities and a hair-trigger and blasting command of vituperative invective.

These youngish old girls are in a class by themselves when it comes to imbuing feminine portrayals with all the gusty volubility and physical endurance of a pair of male knockabout comedians. If you like that sort of thing, this, most assuredly, is the sort of thing you will like!

Norman Foster and Anita Page, as the younger generation, are as oddly contrasted as their elders. Mr. Foster's role is that of an annoyingly eddie-pated young man with an unbelievable capacity for blundering; Miss Page's that of an average young woman, mother of two charming babies and daughter of a raging termagant. The others in the cast do not especially matter.

"Prosperity" has been directed by Sam Wood with a keen eye for comic effect, but not quite such admirable alertness for occasional outcroppings of sheer vulgarity. As a preachment on what to do about a panic, the picture comes so late as to be nothing more valuable than mildly sedative.

Among the auxiliary attractions, "Over the Counter," an M-G-M tabloid musical in natural colors, takes rank with the most diverting of this type of short-reels recently released. It employs the services of such veterans as Sidney Toler and Franklin Pangborn and a large group of clever juveniles who inject a decidedly new note into department store management. "Football Footwork" is one of Pete Smith's humorous gridiron subjects, and the Metrotone News completes a bill that will probably pack the house to the rafters throughout the week.

Reckless Driving Is Charged.

A charge of reckless driving was placed against Walter T. Downs, of Silver Hill, Md., who was said to have collided with the automobile of James Harmon, of 508 Tenth street southeast, while it was parked at Sixth and D streets northeast yesterday. Downs was released on $25 collateral.

LOEW'S FOX

"TOO BUSY TO WORK." Fox picturization of the story "Jubilo," by Ben Ames Williams, starring Will Rogers, supported by Marian Nixon, Dick Powell and Frederick Burton. Directed by John Blystone. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Mr. Rogers, of the Claremore, Okla., Rogerses, is in town—and if you don't believe it, just go get a down-front seat at Mr. Loew's Fox Theater to witness his inimitable portrayal of one Mr. Jubilo, "too busy to work." Just why he was too busy is not exactly clear, but with Mr. Rogers in a picture such details are decidedly trifling.

Somehow one gets the idea that Mr. Rogers was too busy getting out of work to perform any such plebeian service. In fact, Tom Sawyer's immortal strategy sort of pales before the demonstrations of eeling out of work that are here depicted. It's all great fun—and wait until you see the gum-chewer try to milk the cow! And from the wrong side, too!

Underneath the surface flow of homely humor runs a decided current of pathos that hinges on the desire of an ex-soldier to see his wife and daughter, in spite of the former's having deserted him during the war. A spirit of revenge motivates his return to his daughter (the wife having earlier died), but a bank robbery and murder, involving the girl's fiance, brings out the finer side of the man, and the picture closes with his walking out into the wide open spaces perfectly assured of his daughter's future happiness.

It seems increasingly evident that the further behind him Mr. Rogers places that era of injecting comments on current events into his pictures (especially when there is no apparent reason for them) the better actor he becomes.

Ably in his support are Marian Nixon, as the daughter; Dick Powell, as her fiance; Frederick Burton, as the other man; Constantine Romanoff, as Axel, the hired man.

Sitting indisputably on top of the stage bill, judging from audience reaction, is Will Osborne and his recording orchestra in a cycle of popular jazz numbers between which are sandwiched imitations of the Mills Brothers and Cab Calloway. The Andreaens, in a demonstration of balancing and human juggling, open the bill, followed by Les Reis and Artie Dunn, radio's minstrels.

Valentine Vox and his charming partner, together with their three dummies, present as well done a ventriloquist skit as you would want to see. Joe and Pete Michon, comedy tumblers, show that they can not only dish it up but can take it, too.

"Broadway Gossip," a release of the Columbia Newsreel series, an issue of the Fox Movietone News and an overture, the ballet music from Ponchielli's "La Gioconda" (an abbreviated "Dance of the Hours"), complete the entertainment.

COLUMBIA

"PAYMENTS DEFERRED." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer filmization of the successful London and New York stage play, featuring Charles Laughton, Dorothy Petersen and Maureen O'Sullivan, with Verree Teasdale, Ray Milland and Billy Bevan. Directed by Lothar Mendes. Reviewed Friday night by M. A. McAuliff.

Well, here's a film offering that many of you must have been waiting to see. It is not common and glittering, light and unconvincing, or permeated with impossible scenes of terror. It is different. It is unusual. It is good drama.

Those movie patrons who did not see the famous English actor, Charles Laughton, in the original stage play that made such a hit, or when he played a lead with Tallulah Bankhead in "Devil and the Deep," or a minor role in "The Old Dark House," now have an opportunity to watch a man who possesses a personality that is difficult to describe. We have seen no one quite like him. Whether you like his type or not, he is an actor.

When you see this picture you will be witnessing the star of the original stage bit. Charles Laughton, as William Marble, a bank clerk who is about to lose his job because he can not meet his debts, poisons his sister's son, robs him, buries him in his yard, makes a small fortune by speculating with the money, sends his wife and daughter away for a vacation and is entertained by a clever French blonde, drinks plenty of whisky to forget his crime, and begins to forget, although each knock at the door startles him. Finally the sight of the mound in the yard transforms him into an hysterical and fear-ridden personality. His wife and daughter fear insanity.

His fear increases. Finally his wife guesses his secret. She notices that he can not keep his eyes off the mound in the yard. His daughter knows of his affair with the French siren and in an outburst of temper discloses the fact to the mother. Up to this time not a suspicion exists of Marble's crime. But payment is only deferred! How the half-crazed man pays the price of his ugly deed provides an amazing and a stunning climax.

We wish especially to commend the work of Dorothy Petersen. Maureen O'Sullivan plays her part with her usual verve and charm. Verree Teasdale is particularly good as the other woman.

A "Flip the Frog" cartoon, a rather funny Lloyd Hamilton comedy and an interesting Paramount News release complete the bill.

Benefit Bridge Is Announced.

A benefit bridge party will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Thomas Circle Club by the Daughters of the American Colonists.

EARLE

"TROUBLE IN PARADISE." Paramount's production of Lazlo Adalar's play, adapted to the screen by Samuel Raphaelson, featuring Miriam Hopkins, Herbert Marshall, Kay Francis, Charles Ruggles and Edward Everett Horton. Directed by Ernst Lubitsch. Reviewed Friday night by Dorothea Lewis.

Halt, gaze and lend an ear!

Here's Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis, Herbert Marshall, Charlie Ruggles, Edward Everett Horton and C. Aubrey Smith, all wrapped up in chuckles, giggles, drollery and fun and presented to you by Master Lubitsch. Thank the gentleman prettily. It's an elegant present.

"Baron" Gaston—who steals vases from royal palaces to make lamps for the bed-side table of his Lily, and who walked out of the Bank of Constantinople with the Bank of Constantinople—and his Lily—who can, when she wants, take Gaston's loot from him if she's careful not to tickle while picking his pocket of his pickings—choose Mme. Collette, lovely, wealthy, French widow, as their current victim. Gaston insists her sex appeal is entirely in her safe. Lily is not so sure, and eventually, neither is Gaston.

However, being a crass ingrate, we're going to assert that nothing is perfect and complain that for just a little while, after the clever beginning of the picture is passed, the story seems to limp and sag along through considerable pointless film. The dialogue, however, is slick.

Somewhat reminiscent of "Jewel Robbery" and some of the Chevalier vehicle, "Trouble in Paradise," is less frothy, more possible, and therefore more trenchant entertainment.

Carlton Emmy's "mad wags" romp off with the stage show, with their uncanny canine antics. Barney Rapp leads his New Englanders through some nice band arrangements, while members of his organization demonstrate the apparently universal and determined versatility of band-members by doing everything but pulling taffy. Jane Allen and Kay Picture dance, and Claire Lewis sings with the band. Ray Mayer proves that he could be amusing with better material, and Bob Hall returns with his familiar, though extemporaneous, rhyming. We prefer Ogden Nash. Maxine Doyle looks very swank this week, while doing her introducing.

A Ted Husing sport-slant and a newsreel complete the bill. As we said when we started, though we tried to fool you with synonyms, stop, look, and listen at the Earle this week for elegant screen amusement.

JUBILO AND AN ACE CROONER

The cartoonist records fleeting impressions of Will Rogers and Marian Nixon, in "Too Busy to Work," and Will Osborne, the bandman who told Rudy about crooning, all being featured on the program currently presented at Loew's Fox Theater.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Two of the most influential factors in this complicated sporting life, tradition and the weather, dominate the Nation's college football outlook for tomorrow for the first time this season.

The feverish chase for championship honors will be confined almost exclusively to the South and Middle West, where such teams as Auburn, Michigan, Nebraska and Texas Christian seek to consolidate their positions in the front line.

Meanwhile, close to 70,000 customers, a new "high" for the year, will enjoy summer weather and the California-Stanford annual at Berkeley; probably 75,000 will brave an impending snowstorm to see Notre Dame ramble against the Navy at Cleveland; and 60,000 will bundle themselves up against the threat of chilling rain to see the consolation duel between Harvard and Yale at New Haven.

Only Notre Dame Is Title Contender.

These three games furnish a rebuttal to the contention that it takes an all-winning combination nowadays to stimulate box-office appeal. None of the teams involved except Notre Dame has anything left to say about sectional or national honors, yet they will attract more customers and cash tomorrow than a dozen other leading contests combined. The top price is $5.50 for the California-Stanford classic and $4.40, a dollar less than usual, exclusive of tax, for the Yale-Harvard affair.

Particular interest attaches to the Notre Dame-Navy game as the first of the season's series among a new and highly popular triumvirate to which Army also belongs. Soldier scouts will watch the proceedings intently in preparation, not only for West Point's battle with the Ramblers before an anticipated sell-out crowd of 75,000 in the Yankee Stadium next Saturday, but also for the Army-Navy classic, due to attract close to 80,000 to Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on December 3.

Navy's Best Showing Of Year Expected.

Notre Dame is the favorite in the opener of this three-cornered big-money series, but it will not be surprising to see the Navy make its best showing of the year.

Yale and California rank as slight favorites in the other two traditional headliners, on the basis of comparative scores, but that doesn't happen to mean much to the wagering fraternity.

SANTA LOSES TO CARNERA IN SIXTH

Italian Wins "Battle of Beef" on Technical Knockout.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A quarter ton of human beef collided tonight in a unique spectacle of the ring, and Primo Carnera won himself the Percheron title of the heavyweight division with a six-round technical knockout over Jose Santa.

The mammoth Italian, contributing 279½ pounds to the entertainment, and the 247-pound Portuguese, giving away weight but not height to his gargantuan foe, stamped and thundered until they raised clouds of resin dust, the ring creaked and boards seemed about to collapse under their feet, and Santa finally retired from sheer exhaustion and punishment.

Once in the second round, again in the third, and, finally, in the sixth, the blackheaded Santa tumbled to the canvas with the crash of a falling oak, the first two times for counts of eight, the last time for nine.

And when he convulsed and heaved his great bulk the last time onto a pair of feet that looked as if he had pulled shoes on over a pair of skis, Referee Jed Gahan, somewhat less than half the size of either, hauled on an elbow the size of a railroad tie and took Santa away from there.

The sixth round lasted 1 minute and 10 seconds, somewhat longer than the experts had expected the entire fight to go, but Santa put up a courageous and, at times, powerful battle.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 18.—Maryland University's chances of scoring a victory in tomorrow's grid game against Washington and Lee took on greater surety here tonight when Coach DeHart of the Generals announced that seven of his regulars will watch the game from the bench.

DeHart announced that he would shift Grove from center to tackle; Glynn to center; Martin to guard, and Todd to the back field. These four sophs have seen little or no varsity competition.

About the only two Washington and Lee players who rate with Poppelman, Nelson, Woods et al. in the matter of experience are Henthorne, full back, who played well against G. W. early in the year, and Bolen, candidate for all-State guard.

Maryland in Good Shape.

Maryland, on the other hand, is in fine shape for the battle, and eager to get back into its winning ways, which were rudely shaken in the last two games, by Vanderbilt and Navy.

The virtually last-minute decision of DeHart to keep his banged up regulars on the bench against the Terps, have installed the Old Liners as distinct favorites to win, but Maryland nevertheless is going to play 60 full minutes of alert football tomorrow—taking no chances against the possibility of an inspired sophomoric attack on the part of the Generals.

Father Sues School For Son's Grid Injury

Los Angeles, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Damages of $25,000 were sought from the Los Angeles City High School district in a suit filed today by George D. Alford for football injuries he says were received by his son, Robert, Eagle Rock High School student.

Alford charged that when his son was sent to school it was understood he was not to take any physical exercise. Despite this, he said the boy was ordered out to play football and his leg injured. He was ordered to play again two days later, and two more times within the next three weeks, with the result the boy was forced to remain in a hospital for eight days, Alford alleged.

LAST HURDLE TODAY FOR MICHIGAN

Can Clinch Big Ten's Title by Beating Minnesota.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Big Ten football curtain falls tomorrow with the youngest master mind of the conference fighting for the undisputed championship and the grand patriarch of them all in a sad valedictory.

Up in the Northland of Minneapolis Coach Harry Kipke will send his undefeated Michigan eleven against Minnesota, the last barrier between the Wolverines and the prized crown. On Chicago's Midway Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg will send his forty-first and last Maroon team against the bristling Badgers from Wisconsin. Three other conference games, involving Iowa at Northwestern, Ohio State at Illinois and Indiana at Purdue, were on the final card, but paled into insignificance as compared with Michigan's title drive at Stagg's last stand.

Michigan Expected To Use Passes.

Michigan was expected to pass its way to victory over the physically shattered Gophers, but a great battle was expected from start to finish. Possessing probably a stronger running attack, the Gophers were ready to stage the fight of their football lives to beat the Wolverines out of the championship and hand it to Purdue, which was expected to defeat its traditional rival, Indiana, and finish the season with only the Northwestern tie on the wrong side of the ledger. Michigan's passing attack was keyed up for quick operations, however, and it was a pass that toppled the Gophers at Wisconsin, last week. Between 25,000 and 35,000 spectators were expected to watch the duel.

Coach Stagg's farewell, enforced by the university's 70-year retirement rule, was expected to be a sad one. Riding high with a surprising record behind them, the Badgers planned to defeat the Maroons by two or three touchdowns with the irresistible Mickey McGuire playing the leading role, Coach Stagg figured on a "close" game while his players, equipped with new plays, were aroused to an emotional pitch capable of promoting an upset.

2 U. S. Doubles Teams Reach Australia Final

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The two American doubles teams competing in the New South Wales tennis championships advanced today to the finals with straight set victories over Australian opponents. Ellsworth Vines, jr., and Wilmer Allison previously had won to the finals of the singles.

In the semifinals of doubles today Vines and Keith Gledhill defeated Ray Dunlop and C. Donohoe, 6—3, 6—2, 6—4, and Allison and John Van Ryn won from Jack Crawford and Cliff Sproule, Australia's strongest doubles pair, 6—4, 6—3, 6—1.

LEN SHIRES TRADED.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Len Shires, younger brother of Arthur (the Great) Shires, of the Boston Braves, has been acquired by the Nashville Club of the Southern Association from Durham in the Piedmont League. He will report for spring training in March. He will be given a trial either at shortstop or second base.

AUBURN FRAY AWAITED IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Winter's frosty sweep into Dixie tonight forecast cold weather for Saturday's Southern Conference gridiron battles headed by Auburn's title bout with Georgia at Columbus, Ga.

The conference championship will be almost ready for presentation if Auburn wins, but a defeat for the unbeaten Plainsmen would throw the football race into a badly scrambled affair.

Auburn was a favorite tonight, but by no means an odds-on choice. While Georgia's defense has been jagged at times, especially against passes, the Bulldog's attack has grown more powerful each week.

Most of Auburn's success has been due to perfect timing, the unusual speed of its backs and its aerial barrages. It is doubtful if the Plainsmen have yet faced a line as heavy as that Georgia will offer.

Georgia's Passes Polished.

Georgia's pass defense has been thoroughly polished this week, and even such an excellent air threat as Auburn admittedly possesses may be nullified by the alert Georgia backs. However, Georgia must show great improvement in this department to batter down the Auburn bombs.

Statistics show Georgia to be a slow starter. Three-fourths of the Bulldog touchdowns this season have come through devastating last-half attacks.

Auburn enters the game with the knowledge it has not beaten Georgia for ten years. Auburn also remembers that on three previous occasions—in 1920, 1921 and 1923—their perfect slate was marred by defeats from Georgia.

Rain in Columbus today promised a somewhat soggy field and there also was a slight possibility of wet conditions tomorrow. Auburn's advantage will be greatly diminished if the game is played in the rain or on very wet gridiron. Its light backs would be hampered and its game less dangerous, while Georgia's heavier forwards and backs would profit by such conditions.

Four other conference games are arranged. Georgia Tech plays Florida at Gainesville, Fla.; Duke meets North Carolina at Chapel Hill, N. C.; Maryland plays Washington and Lee at Lexington, Va., and Tulane entertains Sewanee at New Orleans, La.

Duke is a slight favorite to win its first game in modern gridiron history over North Carolina, while Georgia Tech is figured too strong for a sophomore Florida team. Maryland has a slight edge on Washington and Lee and Tulane is far too strong for Sewanee.

Several S. I. A. A. games are booked, with Centre's clash with Georgetown looming as the most important.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

RARIN' to go, in a great effort to break a five-game losing streak, one of the worst succession of losses ever suffered by a Georgetown team, the embattled Hoyas match their brand new Warner plays against Bucknell this afternoon at Griffith Stadium at 2 o'clock, with only an outside chance of achieving their heart's desire.

Imbued with more competitive lather than you could shake a lineman's stick at, the revamped and improved Hilltoppers find themselves faced with a big, burly crew of experienced gridmen, who had their own definite ideas on who should win today's ball game, for it is Bucknell's final game of the season, and since they have won four and lost four this season—well, that's easy enough to dope out.

Georgetown, which must be accorded the underdog title once again, is in great physical shape for today's game. Every regular on the squad, except Wally Walacavage, 190-pound guard, are in tip top condition, including even the brittle and dynamic Al Kelly, perhaps the fastest back in America.

What is perhaps as important in college football as physical condition, the team has shown unprecedented "spirit" in workouts this wek. Hilltop coaches point out that their charges have shown an utter lack of interest in whether they win or lose lately. The Hoyas have not scored a point in nearly a month—since Al Kelly's touchdown in the Western Maryland game.

Kelly Looms a Threat.

Kelly looms as a threat again today, although his speed will be cut down by the uncertainty of the underfooting. But so will the speed of his opponents. Kelly has been figuring prominently all week in the new passing plays the Hoyas have been stressing, and his improvement at receiving aerials gives Georgetown three outstanding ball receivers—Capt. Ray Hudson and Tommy Carolan being the others.

Paul Kennedy, rated the smartest of the Hilltop quarterbacks, won a place in the opening line-up yesterday at the conclusion of a tough week of practice.

Bucknell bristles with good players, despite the fact that four regulars are on the blink. Of these four Capt. Nied, tackle, and George Vetter, half back, probably will play most of the game, but Jack Dempsey (no, they haven't proselyted the Manassa Mauler), will not see his tackle position, and Ed Wood is in the same fix.

It has been a rather sorry year for Bucknell, coming so close upon the heels of the unbeaten 1931 season, but the team nevertheless has turned in some darn good wins, as can be seen from a cursory glance at the fine type ahead of this story. This Fighting Irish sextet of starters—Delaney, Bergkamp, Furiell, Zanarina, Rhubright and Reznichak are all sophomores, and improving every day. Seiss, Dempsey's substitute, is the only senior on the squad.

The game goes on at 2 o'clock. Seats have been reduced a bit for the occasion, ranging from 55 cents to $1.10.

THE GRID CONTEST

Just as soon as the results of the big football games come in over the wires late this afternoon, The Post's football contest editor will begin the minute examination of hundreds of clippings sent in by local and nearby fans in an effort to win choice seats to the George Washington University-Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving Day.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Two husky squads of football warriors representing Notre Dame and the Navy arrived today and scampered through a last workout preparatory to their annual clash tomorrow.

The two teams, meeting in the first "big time" football game ever played in Cleveland, may draw a season's record crowd to the Municipal Stadium if the weather man's prediction of snow turns out to be unfounded. Approximately 65,000 reservations have already been sold and 10,000 to 15,000 more customers are expected providing the weather is not too severe.

Notre Dame, victorious five times this year and trampled by only Pittsburgh, is again a big favorite to win, but Navy supporters point to the improved form the Midshipmen have shown in their last few games and argue the Sailors are just reaching top form.

Expect to Win, Says Miller.

Coach Rip Miller, of the Navy, announced "we expect to win." Miller, who was one of the "seven mules" in the famous Notre Dame team of 1924 when the "Four Horsemen" were cavorting, would rather beat his alma mater than any other team except the Army.

Coach ("Hunk") Anderson, warning his players against overconfidence and thinking of the coming Army and Southern California games, has said "we're taking the Navy strictly in stride."

9,000 Watch Place Kick Failures

Scoring Threats by Both Teams Fade in Final Quarter.

Oliver and Zaninelli Thrill Night Crowd With Punting.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

MUD-CAKED football teams of Catholic University and Duquesne skidded and slithered, slipped and slewed through 60 minutes of play to a stalemate last night under the arc lights of Griffith Stadium with scoring threats that gained expression only by medium of attempted field goals which, on two occasions, were wide of the posts, leaving the two embattled foes locked in a scoreless tie.

Catholic U. and Duquesne put the foot back in football last night as the treacherous turf precluded any spectacular open play, and 9,000 Capital fans were treated to the most superb punting in years as Oliver, of C. U., and Zaninelli, of Duquesne, booted a wet and sodden ball for distances as long as 70 yards, in prayerful attempts to force a "break."

But there was no "break of the game" forthcoming as both teams fingered the ball with a sure-handedness that was remarkable under the unfavorable conditions, with only one fumble marking the game. And it was fitting to such a kicking exhibition that the lone two scoring gestures culminated, albeit unsuccessfully in attempted field goals.

C. U. Outplays Foes.

The statistics show nine first downs for Duquesne to five for C. U., but these figures belie the trend of the game, for Bergman's doughty Cardinals outplayed the Dukes for the three quarters that preceded the fourth quarter which produced a thrill a minute as both teams struck mightily in an effort to solve the deadlock.

Only once in the first half, a minute before the half ended, were the Dukes able to penetrate Catholic U. territory, and then only to the extent of a yard, but in the waning moments of the third quarter Zaninelli and Delucs, in successive smashes at the C. U. line and around end, toted the ball 30 yards in the most sustained advance of the game. Then the Dukes varied their attack and Delucs tossed a long pass to Krankota, end, that netted 22 yards and deposited the ball on the C. U. 32-yard line.

Art Strutt, a newcomer in the Duquesne back field, then electrified the 9,000 with a dazzling 18-yard gallop through tackle on the last play of the third quarter.

The diminutive Sullivan, who had the hearts of C. U. supporters in their collective mouths with his threats to break away on long runs, made 8 yards more through the line, and the Dukes' threat, which some moments before had taken on serious proportions, had now become downright dangerous.

Sullivan Thrown For Loss.

On the mud-smeared shoulders of Flynn and White, C. U. linemen, belongs the glory of delivering C. U. from a precarious situation, for on third downs they broke through to throw Sullivan for a 4-yard loss.

ACAUTAW LEADS FROM START TO CAPTURE BOWIE FEATURE

Labrot Entry Disappoints Backers

By WALTER HAIGHT.

ACAUTAW, which graduated from the maiden ranks at Bowie last spring, came back yesterday to lead a group of 2, 3 and 4 year olds home in the Inverness Handicap, the day's feature at the nearby course. The Maryland-bred son of Trojan and The Squaw, is the property of Howard Bruce and is trained by Elmer Trueman, of Washington.

Albert Robertson was given charge of the riding of the heavily played second choice and wasted no time in taking Acautaw to the front. He held the lead throughout and had a margin of three lengths over Fair Jack, despite the fact that Robertson was easing up as they crossed the line. Third money went to Happy Anne, half of the Labrot entry, which closed the favorite.

Happy Anne chased Acautaw most of the way, but the ultimate winner kept drawing away. In the last sixteenth, Fair Jack, a long shot, came up to split the top pair. Acautaw paid a $6.40 mutuel.

Another crowd in the neighborhood of 12,000 turned out despite a chilly and damp day, which had overcoat collars turned up and furs tightly clasped.

The track had improved somewhat over Thursday's sloppy condition, but remained heavy and times were slow.

Major Jackson Witness.

The fifth race was run in honor of Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, who witnessed the contest from the judges' stand. Along with the others in the crowd, Mayor Jackson saw the defeat of the favorite, Merry Fox, by Moe Lowenstein's Move Faster, ridden by Callahan. The public choice was second and Action, a hot paddock tip, was third.

Merry Fox, which ran away before his race the other day, was led to the post yesterday.

Home Shore, the property of Admiral Cary T. Grayson, defeated the 3-year-old maidens which sought to graduate in the opener. Jockey Callahan brought this fellow from far back in the field to take the decision by a length from Epidawn, which in turn had a six-length advantage over Light Breeze, a field horse. High Socks and Ingle Nook battled for the lead for six furlongs and then folded.

Bellizzi Wins With Idle Stefan.

The B. B. Stable's Idle Stefan, with the Apprentice Bellizzi in the saddle, came out of a bunched field in the stretch to take the second race. Rally Round took the place from Liqueur. The latter set most of the pace.

Filter, the Howe Stable's juvenile which has been a consistent Maryland winner, added another purse to his string in the third race, defeating, among others, Cruising and the favored Character. Bellizzi, trying to make it two in a row for the B. B. Stable, had a hard time reaching the contention. He finally got near the leaders and finished with a rush on the dryest part of the track.

Crusing set the most of the pace, followed by Filter. The latter had the most left for the finish. Filter was the medium of some heavy play in the closing minutes and paid a $7.50 mutuel.

Arrowswift Wins at 16-1 Odds.

With the favorite, Polar Brush, caught in a tangle of the tape at the start and hopelessly out of the race, Arrowswift, a 16-to-1 shot, ran away with the sixth, to win by seven lengths from Helen Bab. Third money went to another long one—Energetic Boy. Danger Zone ran away and circled the track before the start.

Syriac won the final in a blanket finish with Wrackell second and Totem third.

SKEET CLUB COMPETES.

A handicap shoot with four plump turkeys as prizes will be staged today at the club grounds by the Montgomery Skeet Club. The match has been moved up a week, as it was originally scheduled for next Saturday. Miss Winifred Hanley, of Connecticut, showed the way in the shoot held Wednesday afternoon, scoring a 23 and a pair of 24's.

AT THE POST

DEAR AL: BOWIE RACE TRACK.

While Hank Mills is under suspension, Johnny Gilbert is slowly but surely cutting down the Wheatley Stable's rider's margin as the country's leading 1932 jockey. Yesterday, Gilbert piloted three winners—Filter, Arrowswift and Syriac—to bring his total to 178. Mills has 182 and, with Hank out for the Bowie meeting, Gilbert appears to have clear sailing.

Forced to give "Mutuel" Mahoney a break. There has been much to do at this track because horses closing at 4-1 are paying $5.10 mutuels. There also has been some surprise as in the case of Drombo, which paid $40, after much smaller figure had appeared on the approximate odds board. The answer is that there is no telephone from the mutuel plant to the odds board. A messenger has to carry the figures across the track. Bowie tried closing the machines as the field marched past the judges' stand, but this did not prove popular. Those who follow figures closely can get the exact odds by watching the totals board under the stand.

The world's longest race (from yesterday's program): "Commencing on Thursday, November 24 (Thanksgiving Day), the first race will start at 12:45 p. m. and continue for the remainder of the meeting." BILL.

FIRST RACE—EVERFAIR will have to move out of the also eligible list to even see action here, and there are few scratches these days in maiden races. However, this one has a fine chance here. Has broken sluggishly the last few times, but has a world of speed once in motion. I expect things to be right today. LADY LEGEND and BLACK SHEEP for the rest.

SECOND RACE—I'm sticking to NITUMA here despite that recent losing race. May have needed that effort and I don't believe it was her true race. Has never shown a tendency to quit before. POPPYMAN and PROJECTILE for the place and show.

THIRD RACE—PILATE doesn't look like he will toss this over his shoulder. Fully capable of carrying top weight and beating these. GOLD STEP was a full-of-run third the other day and may cause the trouble. MORSEL to show.

FOURTH RACE—It's hard to chase ST. BRIDEAUX off the top after seeing him in the last out. Practically left, this fellow made up a world of ground. Uncertain, however, now that he has dwelt twice in three races. KINCSEN'S last was a beaut. BLENHEIM to show.

FIFTH RACE—LARRANGA is my long shot special in the Autumn Handicap. This one was the speed champion in New York and although troubled the last time, put up a rousing finish. MICROPHONE and MAD PURSUIT for the rest.

SIXTH RACE—FRIGATE BIRD, a bad post actor with a smackering of class gets my call here. TRY IT will hardly like the track, but that last will not find him far out of it. AEGIS for the show.

SEVENTH RACE—The ancient TAZEWELL to beat SOLACE in the final. FAYLIN for the rest.

HOME SHORE, outpaced for the first six furlongs, was placed to punishment when leaving the back stretch and wearing the leaders down gradually, was up in the final sixteenth mile. EPIDAWN, kept close to the early leaders, sprinted into a clear lead rounding the final turn, but weakened when challenged. LIGHT BREEZE improved his position on the outside and outfinished HIGH SOCKS. Latter, rated in front, tired in the last five-sixteenths. INGLE NOOK was done after six furlongs. FLAG MAIDEN tired early. DAINTY STEP and WELSH BETTY had no chance with the start.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:39. Off at 1:43. Winner, B. B. Stable's gr. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—IDLE STEFAN, $11.60, $5.20, $3.70; RALLY ROUND, $5.40, $4.30; LIQUEUR, $3.20.

IDLE STEFAN, outrun for the first half mile, circled the leaders when moving into contention, came strongly in the closing furlong and got up in the last strides. RALLY ROUND, hard ridden the entire journey, wore LIQUEUR, hard urged to stall off BROAD LIGHTS early, continued gamely when placed to punishment. CODETTA showed a good effort throughout. GOLDEN SHIP made up ground fast after being outrun early. SWEET CHARIOT weakened when the real issue came. BROAD LIGHTS and CHATTERFOL quit.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FILTER, $7.50, $4.80, $2.90; CRUISING, $8.30, $4.30; CHARACTER, $2.80.

FILTER, at home in the going, followed CRUISING closely, displaced the latter when midway of the home stretch and was drawing clear under pressure. CRUISING, showing good speed, saved ground while setting the pace and held on gamely. CHARACTER, outrun for the inside when leaving the back stretch, came to the outside for the final drive and closed full of run. ROCK COVENTRY, forced to race on the outside, made up ground steadily. MR. KHAYYAM went along under severe urging and had no excuses. ROYAL BLUNDER suffered early interference after, breaking slowly, he closed a good gap. BLESSED EVENT tired.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ACAUTAW, $6.40, $4.20, $2.50; FAIR JACK, $12.00, $4.00; HAPPY ANNE (S. W. Labrot entry), $2.10.

ACAUTAW, smoothly handled and hustled into a brief lead, withstood keen contention from HAPPY ANNE in the first five furlongs, was not punished and drew out smartly. FAIR JACK, ridden hard the entire journey, responded stoutly when shaken up and outfinished the tiring HAPPY ANNE. Latter, rushed hard for five furlongs, weakened suddenly in the closing furlong. MONEL was unable to improve her position while saving ground. TARQUIN and the others were outrun.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOVE FASTER (M. Lowenstein entry), $12.80, $3.70, $2.40; MERRY FOX, $3.10, $2.20; ACTION, $2.50.

MOVE FASTER, allowed to settle in his stride after being outrun into the back stretch, gained rapidly when taken around on the outside, finished in determined fashion and wore MERRY FOX down nearing the finish. MERRY FOX moved up stoutly to displace the leaders, drew clear but could not stall off the winner. ACTION, fractious at the post, reared into the air with the break and Cruz made excessive use of him by whipping him into a forward position. He was used up racing with ENGLISH KNIGHT and TUG O' WAR and tired from his abuse.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ARROWSWIFT, $35.80, $13.20, $9.40; HELEN BAB, $5.50, $4.40; ENERGETIC BOY, $26.40.

ARROWSWIFT, having the best of the start, went into an easy lead, shook off COURT MARTIAL and drew out at will in the last half mile. HELEN BAB, messed about in the early stages and allowed to drop far out of contention, came strongly when put to a drive. ENERGETIC BOY, prominent the entire trip, held on well at the end. PRETTY WISE finished gamely when going wide. GADAROUND was done after seven furlongs. POST BRIGADE was in the air before the break came, reared over in front of POLAR BRUSH and then showed a good effort.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SYRIAC, $8.50, $4.60, $3.10; WRACKELL, $5.40, $3.30; TOTEM, $2.60.

SYRIAC, away quickly and outrunning his field to the first turn, was steadied along, responded willingly after being displaced and was up in the last strides. WRACKELL, dwelt slightly when the break came, was steered very wide thereafter and closed fastest of all when vigorously urged. TOTEM, a strong factor, weakened suddenly after gaining command. ENGLEWOOD finished with good speed.

TECH VICTOR, 20-0 OVER SWAVELY

Pisano Scores Twice to Lead D. C. Team to Victory.

Special to The Washington Post.

MANASSAS, Va., Nov. 18.—Handicapped by the absence of its two star backs, Mowrey and Kohler, Swavely Prep bowed in defeat to the champion Tech High School eleven of Washington, D. C., 20-0, in a game here today.

Swavely was unable to stem the tide of Tech's unceasing advance. Tech scored in the second period on a long run by Pisano, and it added another in the third and one in the fourth to clinch the victory. Pisano crossed the goal line a second time and Colner went over for the third after receiving a pass.

Long passes and brilliant broken field runs by its elusive ball carriers featured Tech's victory, the first a District team has scored over Swavely in two years.

Hawks Prepare For Celtic Game

It may be that the Mohawks are deemphasizing football, or it may be the depression, but the fact remains that only fifteen Indians gather around the wigwam when the tomtoms beat, sounding the call to arms.

The skeleton squad, however, failed to daunt Mr. Arthur Wondrack, the "Flying Dutchman," who is piloting the good ship Mohawk along its stormy course to another of those so-called District championships. Wondrack, who has never subscribed to the old axiom about the strength in numbers, has been busy all week concocting magic potions and a few trick plays for use against St. Mary's Celtics Sunday.

A 12-to-6 defeat the Celtics inflicted on the Hawks several Sundays back irks Wondrack no end. He keeps mumbling over and over again something about "they never should have done it; they shouldn't have done it."

Not that there's any law against it, but Wondrack believes his team outplayed Buck Grier's collection of stray grid stars.

But tomorrow's another Sunday, and it brings another game, and Wondrack gets his chance to prove that his is the best team. The seven indefatigable "iron men" comprising the Mohawk line, for whom not a single substitution has been made these last three games, will be in there again tomorrow.

McCarver and Mulvey May Miss G. W. Game

George Washington University, which meets Oklahoma Thanksgiving Day in one of the biggest intersectional games ever staged here, may be without the services on that day of Nig McCarver, star back and one of the East's leading scorers, and Fred Mulvey, regular end.

McCarver and Mulvey, hurt in the William and Mary game, have recuperated very slowly, and show no immediate signs of being in good enough shape to play on Thanksgiving. Mulvey's place can be ably filled by Bob Galloway, but McCarver is believed to be irreplaceable in the line-up.

ST. JOHN 26-0 VICTIM OF G. U. PREP

Garrett Park Eleven Wins 5th Straight as Passes Aid.

AMASSING a 20-point lead in the first two periods, Georgetown Prep breezed through to a 26-0 victory over St. John's yesterday in a game played at Garrett Park. It was Georgetown's sixth consecutive triumph.

St. John's failed to make a single scoring threat for three periods and was held for downs on the 20-yard mark in the final quarter when it made its only gesture in the direction of the Georgetown goal line.

McCann presented the home team with the lead early in the first period, running 30 yards to score after taking a 15-yard pass from McNamara. Two touchdowns followed in quick succession in the second stanza, both on passes from Tom Keating to Mike Scatuorchio.

St. John's was outplayed by a comfortable margin. The Prepmen registered 13 first downs to 4 for the Cadets.

Playing Floor Is Sought By Government League

A committee of two, Ty Rauber and Tom Connor, was appointed to obtain a suitable playing floor for teams in the Government Basket Ball League by President Vic Gauzza at the initial meeting of the league last night. The loop used the Bolling Field Gym last season, but found the site too inconvenient for the fans.

The league will meet again Friday night to adopt rules for the coming campaign.

TRADITIONAL RIVALS IN CLASHES TODAY

ternity. On the gold or silver standard they are even money.

The battles involving major conference championships feature Michigan's invasion of Minnesota's stronghold. The Wolverines are favorites to win and clinch the Big Ten title outright, but they will have to withstand freezing weather as well as a rugged Gopher defense. Experts look for the resourcefulness of Harry Newman, Michigan's sensational quarter back, to be a deciding factor.

Auburn Favorite Over Georgia.

The biting grip of the cold wave as well as the Georgia Bulldogs menace Auburn's unbeaten team, pace-setter in the Southern Conference. Auburn is the favorite, but the outcome likely will depend on which team gets the jump.

Texas Christian and Nebraska have other hurdles to clear, but if they negotiate Rice and Oklahoma, respectively, they will be hard to dislodge from the leadership of the Southwest and

Stocks Decline Fractionally In Quieter Market Trading

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—During most of today's market buying of stocks was a little more than sufficient to absorb offerings, but real material for a rally was lacking and final prices were almost unchanged.

Again the market merely idled. Both speculative camps huddled on the sidelines, leaving the day's very light business largely to floor traders who have been keeping things going all this week. Repurchases for short accounts seemed to have contributed liberally to the firmer early tone, although this demand was satisfied by the last hour and advances of a point or so disappeared in thin trading. Sales totaled 729,090 shares.

Extreme gains of around a point in U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Du Pont, International Harvester, Southern Pacific, Union Carbide, Lackawanna, American Can, Du Pont, Loew's New York Central and Sears Roebuck either faded into insignificance or were exchanged for minor losses. The fact that wheat rubbed elbows with the old lows seemed a likely reason for the late sag, although the market at no time was very robust. Several preferred stocks were heavy, including U. S. Steel, Commonwealth & Southern, Endicott Johnson, Associated Dry Goods, Safeway Stores and Commercial Investment Trust, their losses running from 1 to 6 points.

Brokers assumed that the familiar influences of the international debt uncertainty, the Treasury deficit, possible new taxes and the mottled complexion of business, were still dominant in the market. Foreign copper prices were again shaded coincident with reports that an international conference to deal, undoubtedly, with curtailment, had been called for later this month.

Sterling touched a new low for the year at London, but then rallied and the recovery extended to New York quotations. Official support was probably provided on the early dip abroad. The pound's performance this week has been closely associated with the debt question and its possible effects on British currency. The general belief here is that England's balances here are currently more than enough to meet the December 15 payment of $95,500,000, one estimate placing the probable total at $120,000,000. It was pointed out, however, that Great Britain normally requires cash balances of around $100,000,000 for commercial needs and that the margin remaining, if next month's installment is paid, would be very small.

Wall street is prepared for a substantial drop in tomorrow's carloadings report which will be for the week ended November 12. Preliminary guesses have placed the decline as large as 50,000 cars, or more than seasonal. Normally, the downward direction of traffic would continue for several weeks.

THE MARKETS AT A GLANCE

What the Stock Market Did

	Friday.	Thursday.
Advances	148	118
Declines	179	241
Unchanged	140	120
Total issues traded	467	479

Stocks.

Market buying was a little more than sufficient to absorb offerings, as prices dropped one-tenth of a point. Idle trading prevailed throughout the sessions. Speculative dealers remained on the sidelines. The turnover climbed slightly, to 729,000 shares. Some leaders made extreme gains of one point.

Bonds.

Traders and investors neglected bonds, and prices drifted one-tenth of a point lower. The turnover increased slightly, to $7,493,000, but still remained far below normal. Speculative rails fluctuated. Federal issues lost buoyancy.

Curb.

The curb failed to make headway with a rally. Moderate gains were reduced in late trading, and several issues finished lower. Sales dwindled to 120,000 shares. Aluminums were weak spots in industrials, Acme Wire advanced 1 point. Utilities closed lower.

Wheat.

Settling December accounts long before time for the operation was largely responsible for a drop in wheat to within ¼ cent of the all-time bottom price. Other grains followed the decline. The market was said to have had a sold-out appearance. December wheat closed at 42¼ to 42¼ cents.

Cotton.

December evening-up caused prices to ease 5 to 7 points in quiet dealing. March sold at 6.38. Southern realizing and selling were in small volume. A slow demand for spot cotton was noted. Liverpool attributed price changes there to fluctuations in exchange.

BOND MARKET SAGS IN DULLER TRADING

One-Tenth Loss Recorded as Sales Volume Rises to $7,493,000.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—With most traders and investors "sitting on the fence," the bond market struggled along in a dull and uneven fashion today.

While trading volume was somewhat greater than that of yesterday, it was still far below normal. Sales totaled $7,493,000, par value, and the Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate bonds sagged one-tenth of a point.

The market apparently ignored bits of moderately good and bad news. Little attention was paid to the hunt for a new German cabinet, a rally of the British pound sterling, the Washington foreign debt problem, an estimated more than seasonal decline in freight car loadings and a substantial drop in wheat prices. Trade reviews reported business was about holding its own, although trends were slightly mixed in various sections.

The secondary rails jumped about with their usual indecision. Losses of a point or more were recorded by some liens of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake & Ohio, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Erie, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, New Haven, Pere Marquette and Southern. Union Pacific issues were steady, as were those of Santa Fe.

There were few important changes in the utilities and industrials. Bonds of International Telephone rallied, while those of Western Union were soft. American Telephones and Postal Telegraphs were steady. Some of the oils improved. Texas Corporation 5s were rather heavily traded for a gain of ⅛ of a point. Several Shell Union and Sinclair issues were in demand.

The foreign department was relatively inactive. While German Government 5½s were up ⅛ of a point, other Reich loans eased. Japanese bonds were a trifle heavy, as were some issues of Canada, Finland and Argentina. British 5½s were unchanged, but French 7½s advanced.

United States Government obligations lost their recent buoyancy and fractional declines outnumbered the gains in this division. The heaviest turnover was in Treasury 3¼s, which were unchanged, and Treasury 4¼s, which lost 3-32 of a point.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for November 16 were $78,559,026.77; expenditures, $86,569,438.33; balance, $832,640,781.29. Customs duties for 16 days of November were $14,317,674.91.

Advertising Increase Points To Trade Gain, Expert Says

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—A general forward trade and market movement by early December was foreseen today by Samuel P. Weston, expert on newspaper operations, based on a percentage increase of classified advertising lineage used in 52 major cities last month.

He said the increase of October lineage over September of this year virtually doubled the lineage increase of the corresponding period of 1928. The rate of increase over 1931, however, was not so great, he said.

Regarding classified advertising as a definite barometer of changing trade conditions, Weston declared that "if these barometric gains function in the future as they have in the past, I can set an approximate date for a general forward trade and market movement by early December.

"Indices show that so far as classified advertising is concerned the bottom has been reached and justify a very definite belief in a steady upward trend."

Contrasting lineage totals for October, 1932, with those of October, 1928, Weston said that the "striking point with October of this year, when compared with October, 1928, is that this year shows a relative gain of 89 per cent, and compared with October, 1931, a gain of 41 per cent."

"In making these comparisons," he said, "it is important to keep in mind the difference in general business conditions in 1928 and 1932. In 1928 the country was enjoying maximum prosperity in all lines, and it was naturally expected there would be an increase in the seasonal trend of September and October.

"In 1932, despite unsatisfactory business conditions, the increase in classified advertising in October over September was almost double the increase for the same period of 1928.

"The movement will undoubtedly occur unless actions of the forthcoming Congress are such to upset normal general business conditions."

Paramount Films Plan Subsidiaries

Four Companies to Be Formed in Quest for Economy.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Four new subsidiaries will be formed by the Paramount Publix Corporation in connection with its program for reorganizing departmental activities for greater efficiency and economy, it was announced today.

The plan, said President Adolph Zukor, will affect some theater chains under the company's control, and is a part of the decentralization policy which Paramount Publix is working out following the recent changes in management. The new subsidiaries will be qualified in certain States and the parent company will withdraw. The program also calls for elimination of certain companies formed in some States for local purposes.

E. F. Richards, formerly one of the principal owners of the Saenger Theater Circuit in the South, has reacquired an interest in the circuit and will immediately assume its general management, Zukor said.

Business Outlook Still Encouraging

Slowing Down in Some Lines Met by Price Gains.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Despite a seasonal slowing down in some lines, the business and trade situation shows many encouraging aspects, the weekly mercantile reviews reported today. "The sharp rally of commodity prices in the last two weeks," said Bradstreet's, "is a welcome harbinger for the business world. Our food index moved up 4 cents during the past week following hard upon a previous rise of 3 cents. The importance of the price situation can not be overemphasized. The integrity of the entire debt structure and to a large extent the soundness of our monetary and credit system is at stake. Unless prices are stabilized or some improvement takes place which can not be consolidated it will be impossible for the farmer to continue the service charges on his obligations."

This agency also refers to a more favorable sentiment in business circles on the prospect of early legislation toward prohibition modification. Dun's reported that "further evidence of a greater degree of stability in general business is reported for the current week."

"While many of the recent gains have been seasonal," it said, "operations and price levels in many lines seem to strengthen the movement of trade with many indications of a stronger upward trend with the gradual increase in employment. On the wave of postelection enthusiasm commodity markets have turned firmer, while retail trade has expanded in several directions. Industrial operations are holding most of the substantial improvement which has thus far been recorded."

CURB FAILS TO GAIN HEADWAY IN RALLY

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Curb Market tried to get into forward gear for a time today, but with little success.

A few moderate gains were largely reduced in the late trading and several issues finished lower. Trading continued in small volume, with a turnover of 120,000 shares.

In the utilities, Electric Bond & Share rose a point, then slipped back to close a shade lower, while American Gas & Electric, up 1½ at the best, had only a ½-point net gain at the finish. Bond & Share preferred lost 3, and Commonwealth Edison dipped 5 in a few transactions.

The Aluminum Co. issues were weak features in the industrials, with the preferred running into considerable selling and losing nearly 5 points, while the common lost almost as much. Ford of Canada "B" lost a couple of points.

Acme Wire advanced a point. Great Atlantic & Pacific gained 6 in a thin market, and Newmont Mining was up a fraction.

Oils were quiet and about steady.

Closing of Irish Ford Plant Officially Denied

London, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Sir Percival Perry, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., Ltd., today denied reports which circulated earlier this week that the Ford plant at Cork, Ireland, would close down.

He said the question of complete closing never had been under consideration at any time. He issued the statement after a telephone conversation with Detroit. Some machinery at the Cork plant was transferred recently to Dagenham, England, but the Irish plant is still operating.

British Duty Hits Large U. S. Trade

29 Per Cent of Exports Affected by Preference, Treasury Says.

(Associated Press.)

Using 1931 as a measuring stick, 29 per cent of United States' exports to the United Kingdom will be affected by the Ottawa trade agreements as shown yesterday by Commerce Department figuring.

Value of the exports hit will be $131,000,000, but the extent of effect is a matter that Treasury experts who have studied the empire trade preferences refuse to estimate. Time alone will tell.

The preferences are in effect now on canned fruits, fresh fruits, mostly apples; citrus fruits, pears and wheat, dried fruits, mainly raisins, prunes; evaporated milk, lumber, leather, barley and many other products.

The schedules which favor Britain and the dominions are temporarily inoperative on copper, rice, chilled and frozen salmon and quotas are yet to be fixed on a third group composed chiefly of hams, shoulders and bacon.

Farmers Urged to Find New Uses for All Grains

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—If the chemist would help the farmer he must find new uses for grain aside from food, said Dr. W. B. Newkirk in addressing the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society tonight.

It is the capacity of the stomach that limits profitable production of cereals, and "we are now eating about all the cereals we can," he said. Dr. Newkirk, chief technologist of the Corn Products Refining Co., advocated producing beers and seeking other uses than foods for grains.

"There has been no work of any value by either Government or State institutions which had for its purpose any industrial use for these cereal products," he said. "The greatest assistance governments or research institutions can give to the farmer is methods by which starch products are changed into industrial products, not foods, to be used and consumed in such lines as foundry supplies, adhesives, binders, organic chemicals, organic solvents and similar products."

Five Closed Banks Reopened in Week

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The American Banker announced today that five suspended banks had reopened and one newly chartered institution began business during the past week.

In the same period, 17 other banks, including a chain of five in Oklahoma, went into liquidation with deposit liabilities of $22,045,000. In the previous week there were suspensions of 18 banks having deposit liabilities of $4,854,000 while in the week ended November 3, 30 banks, with deposit liabilities of $5,636,000, closed their doors. The heavier deposit liabilities involved in the past week's suspensions were attributed to the closing of some Pittsburgh institutions.

Suspensions for the year total 1,285 with combined deposit liabilities of $612,952,000. In the same period there were 230 reopenings.

Copper Producers Plan New Yield Curb Parley

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Dow, Jones & Co. today said that a conference of copper producers would be held here on November 28. Leading producers said there had been informal exchanges of ideas on the question of curtailment, but they declined to comment on the reported conference.

Export copper was down a shade further. Offerings were reported at 5.50 cents a pound, Hamburg delivery, against 5.55 to 5.70 cents in various European markets yesterday. The larger producers were not selling, it was stated.

COTTON PRICES CUT IN EVENING-UP SALE

March Closes at 6.38 as General Market Drops 5 to 7 Points.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Except for further evening-up of December contracts trading in cotton was quiet today and prices fluctuated within a range of 9 to 10 points.

Slight early declines were followed by rallies on trade buying and covering; but after selling up from 6.40 to 6.48, March contracts eased off to 6.38 in the late trading and closed at that level. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 5 to 7 points.

The opening was 3 to 4 points lower on easier Liverpool cables and some Southern selling. The market steadied after the call on covering combined with some trade and commission house buying. This again included some buying of January and later months through brokers who sometimes operated for Japanese interests, but the demand was far from aggressive and after showing net gains of about 3 to 4 points, prices turned easier. December contracts sold off from 6.31 to 6.21 and May from 6.58 to 6.49 and closed at these figures.

Liquidation in Decembers.

The December liquidation was again largely in the form of switching into later months without much change in the differences. December closed 28 points under May compared with 26 points at the previous close.

Southern selling here was in small volume although it increased somewhat toward the close, a slow demand was reported for spot cotton with a continued firm basis in the South.

Liverpool cables attributed the price movement in that market largely to the fluctuations in exchange and said a good business in cotton goods was pending. Exports today 23,423 making 2,677,918 so far this season. Port receipts 102,465. United States port stock 4,689,203.

RAIL INCOMES GAIN AS 1932 NEARS END

Roads Expect Earnings to Be Three-Quarters of Net Fixed Charges.

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Helped by a breathing spell in the form of a better-than-average rise in autumn earnings, the Nation's railroads are entering the final months of 1932 with fairly good prospects that collectively they will be able this year to earn three-quarters of their year's fixed charges.

The roads so far have done better in the second half of the year than in the first half—nothing, their executives say, to cheer about—but nevertheless the performance has been accepted as encouraging.

For the full year, the Fitch Financial Service estimates, class 1 roads will show gross revenues of $3,170,000,000, or 23 per cent under the 1931 figure of $4,237,000,000.

Year's Gross Income.

Gross income, consisting of net operating income after ordinary operating expenses and income apart from railroad operation, is estimated at $517,500,000 against $829,078,000 a year ago. Annual fixed charges, consisting of interest on bonds and rentals paid, amount to about $700,000,000.

The roads now face the winter months when, with snow falling in much of the country, expenses normally rise and traffic movement is slowed down. Moreover, they have been handicapped considerably because of comparatively light grain shipments. With wheat and other commodities selling at present low levels, the farm belt has not received as large a portion of money as in normal years and has not been able to buy goods as freely as in the past.

Railroad authorities state that the carriers have reduced operating expenses to about as low a level as can be accomplished without sacrificing maintenance.

International Nickel Co. had net loss of $292,352 in the first nine months of 1932 compared with profit of $4,005,857 in the same 1931 interval. Loss for the September quarter was $199,097, contrasting with loss of $629,327 in the previous quarter and profit of $645,970 a year ago.

Warner-Quinlan Co. today reported consolidated net loss of $1,218,129 for the nine months ended September 30 against loss of $120,162 in the 1931 period. Loss in the September quarter was $439,274 against loss of $347,459 in the preceding quarter and a deficiency of $23,540 a year ago.

AUSTRALIA BOOSTS GRAIN GROWER AID

$10,000,000 Is Set Aside for Relieving Difficulties of Wheat Farmers.

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 18 (A.P.). The Commonwealth government today amended terms of its proposed grant to wheat farmers and decided to set aside $10,000,000 for direct assistance to growers in financial difficulties.

It was announced also that about $625,000 will be appropriated to help primary producers other than wheat growers to purchase fertilizer.

A plan announced last week called for expenditure of about $6,000,000 to aid wheat growers but did not specify how the money was to be spent. It set aside also $5,000,000 to aid producers of superphosphate fertilizers so that they might reduce their prices by about $5 a ton.

Today's amended plan made no mention of tax reductions outlined in the previous scheme, which would cost the government about $5,000,000 annually in lost revenue.

Sugar Futures Hit Again By Liquidating and Sales

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Early steadiness in sugar futures attracted renewed liquidation and commission house selling today, after partial advances, of 1 point lower.

Volume was moderate, comprised principally of December liquidation or exchanging from that month to later deliveries.

Buick Motor Recalls Many Former Workers

Detroit, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—The Buick Motor Co. announced today that more than 10,000 employes are at work in its Flint plant and the affiliated Fisher Body Corporation on new automobile models.

Present production schedules, the company said, call for the services of 50,000 workers, either actually engaged in the manufacture of Buick cars or in supplying materials and parts. Former employes are being rehired in all cases, the company said.

WHEAT AGAIN DROPS NEAR LOWEST LEVEL

Settling December Accounts Largely Responsible for Further Decline.

Chicago, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Wheat came within ¼ of a cent late today of smashing the all-time bottom price record, established November 3 last, 41⅞ cents a bushel.

Unusual pressure to settle December accounts long ahead of the time allowed by contract requirements was largely responsible. Much of the pressure appeared to come from United States Government agencies that were disposing of their holdings of December wheat and replacing with May.

With recent rallies of more than 5 cents a bushel practically wiped out, wheat closed nervous at the day's low point, ⅝ to 1 cent under yesterday's finish; corn, ⅛ to ⅜ cent down; oats, ¼ to ⅜ cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5 cents.

Offerings Are Increased.

Taking advantage of a moderate early advance in wheat values, traders seeking to liquidate December contracts became increasingly persistent with offerings, whereas purchase orders dwindled. The weakness of the market was intensified when Eastern interests became sellers of December and the trade generally abandoned the bull side, earlier buyers hastening to unload. Pit speculators, as a rule, acted on opinions that it would be difficult to advance prices until December liquidation had spent its force.

Some observers expressed belief at the close that the wheat market had a sold-out appearance. Late downturns in price, however, were in the face of Liverpool reports that Argentine crop estimates were being reduced, and notwithstanding rumors of crop damage in Argentina by untimely excessive rains. Early advances in wheat today were ascribed in considerable degree to comparative strength shown by the New York stock market, and to bullish reports about domestic winter wheat prospects Southwest, with Liverpool wheat quotations higher than expected.

Provisions reflected downturns of hog values and of grain.

Business Holds Firm, Editors Say

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Inquiring editors of 115 trade and industrial magazines throughout the United States reported that business, in mid-November, was just about holding its own. The Associated Business Papers of New York, which received the reports from various parts of the country, noted today that:

"Electric power consumption indicates a continuing slight increase in manufacturing, especially of textiles, leather and steel. Energy production is now only 6.5 under a year ago, a gain of 0.7 per cent in two weeks. Coal production is tapering off after an active October.

"The oil industry is further stabilized by stronger control of production, particularly by the new Texas 'market demand' bill which has just become law. Strengthening of commodity prices, particularly on ingredients, has reduced destructive price wars in the bakery industry. Purchase of materials and equipment are on the upgrade."

Southwest Power Receivers Named

Ancillary Members Added to Body Appointed on November 9.

Houston, Tex., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Ancillary receivers for the Southwest Telephone Co., which operates exchanges in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, were appointed today by Federal Judge T. M. Kennerly. The action was based upon the receivership of the Western Continental Utilities Corporation, holding company, which was granted November 9 by Federal Judge John P. Fields, of Delaware.

Lewis Heisler Ball, of Delaware, and Chester H. Loveland, of California, the two receivers appointed by Judge Fields for the holding company, also were appointed as ancillary receivers for that company and the telephone company here.

The petition was filed by G. H. Penland, attorney, of Dallas. The Southwest Telephone Co. is in no wise related to or connected with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Rankin Urges Limited Expansion of Currency

(Associated Press.)

Representative Rankin, of Mississippi, a Democratic candidate for the Speakership, at a press conference yesterday advocated "a sane, reasonable and controlled expansion of the currency" not to exceed $2,000,000,000.

Rankin said he favored balancing the Federal budget by issuing new money through the Federal Reserve System on the present gold basis; rigid economy in Federal expenditures and that he opposed the imposition of a general sales tax.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 18 (A.P.).—F. W. Dodge Corporation reports that construction contracts awarded in the 37 States east of the Rockies from November 1 through November 15 totaled $50,990,300. During the same period of October, 1932, volume was $54,339,300. Total construction last month was valued at $107,473,900, contrasting with $127,526,700 for September and $242,094,200 for October, 1931. Building construction dropped 4 per cent from September nonresidential building about 25 per cent and public works 22 per cent. However, public utilities contracts were almost double the September volume.

Virginian-Carolina Chemical Co. has decided to purchase "as an investment" 40 per cent of its outstanding 7 per cent prior preference stock at $75 a share. Each holder will have the right to require the company to take that percentage of his shares at the price mentioned.

Daily Bond Buyer estimates next week's municipal financing by 31 communities at $9,215,523, compared with $13,131,937 this week.

Loadings of Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad this week have shown virtually no decline from a week ago, it was said today. Losses occurred at this time in both 1931 and 1930.

The analyst index of business activity for October is 60.1 on a preliminary basis, compared with a revised figure of 60.3 in September. The rise in car loadings during the first half of last month was the chief support of the index. Bituminous coal production and steel ingot and pig iron indices were also higher, but declines occurred in adjusted indices of cotton consumption, boot and shoe output, electric power production and manufacture of automobiles.

Engineering News-Record says heavy construction contracts awarded in the past week totaled $19,690,000, somewhat under the weekly average for the year to date, but proportionately higher than the usual November average.

CARDS, DUKES BATTLE TO 0-0 DRAW

Scoring Threats Are Turned Back on Muddy Field.

Then it was that Sullivan dropped back to attempt a field goal from his 20-yard line and duplicate the feat that brought the Dukes' victory over West Virginia a few weeks ago, but the kick was wide of the posts.

Boldly attempting to pass in his own territory despite the wet ball and the muddy field, little Sullivan was smothered by a C. U. lineman and Contor intercepted the heave that was partially blocked to give the Cardinals the ball in midfield, whence they launched a counter scoring attempt.

Whelan and Jankowski ripped off two first downs through the line and a penalty gave the Cards the ball within 10 yards of the goal. Whelan made only 6 yards in two smashes at the line and Kakowski lost a yard at left end, but he succeeded in bringing the ball to the middle of the field where Oliver could attempt a game-winning placement with 8 minutes remaining to play.

But the threat evaporated even as the hot breath of the players in the muggy air when Oliver's boot from the 20-yard line fell short of the posts.

C. U. Makes New Attack.

C. U. was attacking again a moment later when Whelan uncoiled a 15-yard pass to Oliver that deposited the ball on Duquesne's 28-yard line, but three more of Whelan's passes were knocked down and the last threat of the game fizzled.

That is, the last legitimate threat fizzled, for with Duquesne passing desperately in the last two minutes of play, Whelan galloped in to intercept one of Deluca's heaves on the Dukes' 20-yard line only to drop the ball with a clear field and seeming touchdown ahead.

The first three quarters of the battle were occupied chiefly by a masterful punting exchange on the part of Oliver and Zaninelli, with honors equal in distance, but with Oliver the more deadly in accuracy. Twice he punted the ball outside cleverly within the 10-yard line and on another occasion a 50-yard boot sailed outside on the Dukes' 15-yard line.

The Dukes' opening threat failed to materialize after Sullivan had dashed back 23 yards with the kickoff and Deluca had ripped through tackle for 10 yards on the succeeding play, for C. U. braced, took the ball and marched into scoring territory on the impetus of a 30-yard return of a punt by Whelan in a dazzling side-line gallop.

A penalty put C. U. back on its own 35-yard line, but Sheary and Fraatz completed a pass that gained 8 yards before Deluca brought the advance to a halt by intercepting Whelan's second pass of the game on his own 10-yard line.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL TICKETS THEN AND NOW.

SCENE—The college ticket office. Time—1928.

Old Friend (on phone)—All I'm asking, Wilbur, is one.

Ticket Manager—I know, Charlie, but it's out of the question. I'd be glad to help you, but you're too late. I couldn't get an extra ticket for my own mother. Good-by!

* * * *

Scene—The same. Time—1932.

Ticket Manager (to an assistant)—How's the demand for the big game?

Assistant—Terrible.

Manager—Hasn't anybody bought any today?

Assistant (a little ashamed)—I nearly had a customer this morning, but he backed out at the last minute.

Manager (harshly)—What was the trouble? Did you show him the best tickets?

Assistant—I even let him feel them!

Manager—Did you let him study the diagram and see just where they were?

Assistant—Absolutely. I explained that they were in the cheering section, and offered to throw in a megaphone if he bought two tickets.

Manager—What happened?

Assistant—Just when I thought I had him sold he said he guessed he'd talk it over first with his wife!

* * * *

Manager (dejectedly)—We've got to have more salesmanship in this office. When a man comes in about football tickets we can't let him out.

Assistant—I was thinking it might be a good idea to take prospective ticket buyers to lunch. It sort of breaks down sales resistance, don't you think?

Assistant—About 45,000.

(The phone rings.)

Manager (hopefully)—Maybe that's a customer.

Assistant (after answering)—No such luck. He wanted a press badge.

* * * *

(A stranger enters.)

Manager (very brightly)—Good morning, my good man. Is it something about tickets?

Stranger. Yes, big game tickets.

Manager (very optimistically). Splendid! What can we do for you?

Stranger (pulling out two on the 50-yard line). I bought these last week and I want to turn them in and get my money back!

FREEZING WEATHER SLATED TOMORROW

Rains Are Promised Today Prior to Scheduled Dip of Mercury.

Possible freezing weather with clearer and bright skies were forecast by the Weather Bureau last night for tomorrow. Last night's rainy spell was scheduled to continue through today, abating tonight.

A minimum temperature of 38 degrees was forecast by Weather Bureau experts for this morning, thus probably eliminating the chance of snow. Tonight the thermometer is expected to begin a gradual drop to a winter temperature tomorrow.

"Rain Saturday; Sunday, fair and much colder. Moderate to fresh easterly winds, shifting to northwest Saturday afternoon."

Winter conditions prevail elsewhere throughout the Nation, telegraphic advices indicate. Snow has fallen all along the Great Lakes and the northern plateau areas in the past 24 to 36 hours and the Mississippi Valley was in the grip of temperatures from 20 to 30 degrees.

Zoo Animals' Fur Thick As Cold Winter Is Due

However, Dr. Mann would not concur in the opinions of the old-timers who believe the coming of extraordinarily cold weather has the effect of increasing the weight and quality of the animals' coats.

Herbert Janvrin Browne, internationally known unofficial weather forecaster, declares that this winter will be much more severe than last year.

WOMAN IS KILLED BY HIT-RUN DRIVER OUTSIDE LEGATION

Witnesses Tell Police Three Cars Ran Over Body in Massachusetts Ave.

Conflicting stories and a general air of mystery tended to hinder police last night as they sought to unravel the true story behind a brutal hit-and-run accident which cost the life of Mrs. Matilda King, 60 years old, in front of the Hungarian Legation, 2929 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

With the possibility that three automobiles struck Mrs. King before her crumpled and mutilated body was found lying in the rain-drenched street, police at an early hour this morning were attempting to locate witnesses, who during the height of excitement after the accident, declared they had seen what happened.

First news of the accident came when a telephone call from the Hungarian Legation summoned an ambulance. As the story was reconstructed to police, a well-dressed man, his hand and clothes stained with blood, appeared at the legation door and asked permission to use the telephone.

Phone Caller Nervous.

"A woman has just been struck by an automobile," he told Douglas Griffin, a legation attache. "I want to call a doctor."

Griffin said the man appeared to be highly nervous, and after fumbling a few moments with the phone, made his call and hurried from the house.

Following him to the street, Griffin said the man went to the opposite sidewalk, about a half block from the legation. There, Griffin said, was the woman's body, lying crumpled near the curb.

Sergt. Raymond Carroll, of the Second Police Precinct, who happened to pass at the time, assisted in carrying the woman into the legation. She was pronounced dead by a physician from Emergency Hospital.

Hit by Three Cars.

Meanwhile the man who made the phone call had disappeared. It is believed he sped away in a waiting automobile. Police, however, are of the opinion he had nothing to do with the accident, but was merely a witness. No one obtained the license numbers on his machine.

John J. Hallaran, a taxidriver, of 723 Eleventh street northwest, told police that although he did not see the woman struck, he turned after hearing her scream and saw two other cars pass over her prostrate form.

The machine which struck Mrs. King, and the other cars which passed over her body, did not stop, police aver. Griffin, however, was uncertain whether the man who telephoned from the legation was the driver of one of the cars, or just happened to see the accident.

Pool of Blood Found.

One theory was advanced that Mrs. King had alighted from a bus before the legation and was attempting to cross the street when struck. An uprooted sign post on the curbing and tire marks along the sidewalk, ending about 40 yards away at a pool of blood, indicated that the woman even may have been walking along the sidewalk and an automobile hurtled over the curb to strike her.

That the impact threw her into the street, where the other cars ran over her body, was another theory advanced by police.

Mrs. King was employed at the home of Mrs. Sherman Flint, 3041 W street northwest. She had served there as a cook for about two weeks, advices at the house reported.

She is believed to have been a lifelong resident of Washington. Her only known relative is a sister, Mrs. May Campbell, of Portland, Me.

Falling Slab of Concrete Injures Federal Doctor

A slab of concrete falling from a building which is being torn down at 1350 B street southwest, struck Dr. Victor K. Chestnut, 35, of Hyattsville, Md., as he walked past the building yesterday morning. A taxicab operated by Louis Fineberg, of 1531 Wisconsin avenue northwest, which was passing the building at the same time, was also struck by the flying concrete.

Dr. Chestnut, who is employed at the Department of Agriculture, was treated at the Emergency Hospital and later removed to his home for further treatment. The cab was slightly damaged.

Manchukuo Pictured As Buffer for Japan

British Colonel Tells National Geographic Society Tokyo Is Devoid of Territorial Aspirations in Manchuria; Oriental Scenes Given.

Belief that although Japan has a distinctly "forward policy" in Manchuria, it has no actual territorial ambitions in the country, was expressed last evening by Lieut. Col. H. St. Clair Smallwood, in an address before members of the National Geographic Society at the Washington Auditorium. The speaker, a former British officer, who has served for many years in official capacities in the Far East, was introduced by Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society. Dr. Grosvenor recalled that last evening's address opened the forty-sixth season of the society's lectures in Washington.

Col. Smallwood declared that in his opinion Japan looks upon Manchuria as a desirable buffer between the Japanese Empire and Russia. Actual incorporation of the region into Japan would destroy the buffer effect, and would give Japan a very troublesome new frontier, he said.

Manchuria was described by the speaker as "a busy, bustling place, still in the making." A few years ago, he pointed out, the vast land—an area of 360,000 square miles—was sparsely peopled, but now one finds crowds everywhere. This transformation has resulted from the amazing mass immigration of Chinese, chiefly from Shantung. The influx has gone on in recent years at the rate of more than a million a year.

Although Japan may not wish to make Manchuria a part of her country, she does wish to build up there a great trade, Col. Smallwood declared. To this end the railroads have been kept in excellent repair, harbors have been improved, and industries built up. Of vital importance to Japan are the coal and iron deposits. The great open cut coal pits of Fusan, shown in lantern slides, are probably the largest of the sort in the world.

Other illustrations, many of them motion pictures, exhibited by Col. Smallwood showed both the Japanese and Russian railways, the movement of the tremendous annual crop of soy beans, lumbering near the Korean border, and life along the Mongolian fringe of Manchuria in the west. Among the most recent views shown were ceremonies concerning Pu Yi, head of the new state of Manchukuo, and flood scenes in Harbin. One of the photographs showed two daughters of Dr. Grosvenor in the flooded streets of the city.

OUTBREAK AT C. U. RALLY INVESTIGATED

Two Policemen and Firemen Hurt After Responding to Fire Alarm.

University officials and police are conducting an investigation of the disorder which followed the "pep rally" Thursday night at Catholic University, during which two policemen and a fireman were injured and the overhead wires of a nearby street car line were dismantled.

Police of the Fifth Precinct, who responded to the alarm of a fire at the school campus, will submit a report of the disturbance to Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, today. Maj. Brown said that no police action was contemplated, as the school authorities will take disciplinary measures against student participants in the melee.

According to police reports, students set fire to a large pile of wood and later fired two shacks. Fifth Precinct police, who accompanied the fire apparatus to the scene, were ignored by the campus celebrants, who claimed that the police assaulted them with night sticks and released tear gas. The celebration was preparatory to the football game with Duquesne University last night. None of the injured was considered to be in serious condition.

JUSTICE LETTS GETS BRIEFS IN WARDMAN PROPERTY CONTEST

Minority Group Say Holdings Worth Far More Than $2,800,000.

Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District Supreme Court, last night took under advisement the controvery between minority and majority bondholders of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, over the ratification of the properties to the majority group for $2,800,000 over and above the encumbrances of approximately $4,000,000 existing on them.

The taking of testimony ended yesterday morning, and the remainder of the session was taken up by attorneys for both sides in summing up their cases. Each of the attorneys filed with Justice Letts voluminous briefs, which will be gone through in chambers.

The minority bondholders claim the price of $2,800,000 is so low as "to shock the conscience of the court." In retaliation, the majority group, operating through the bondholders protective committee, said that at the present condition of the market the price should be considered fair.

Leslie C. Garnett, representing some of the minority persons, told Justice Letts that with the return of "light wines and beer these properties will pay enough in one year to return the purchase price." He said that each of the properties was admirably located to become dispensaries, and he cited the possible return of the purchase price within one year as attesting the inadequacy of it.

Policeman Crashes Two Cars, Ending Wild Chase

Seeing a car going like mad, weaving and wobbling through the heavy traffic on Connecticut avenue yesterday afternoon, Policeman R. M. Kirby gave chase in a patrol car. Through the traffic the wild driver went, plowing his way, with the policeman in pursuit.

Realizing he could not stop the man in any other manner, Policeman Kirby managed to pull alongside the car at Chesapeake street and swerved into its side, sending both cars against the curb in collision. The driver, who described himself as William H. Smith, 42, 6318 Connecticut avenue, was arrested for driving while drunk.

Suspect Snatches Policeman's Pistol

Man Escapes After Struggle With Park Officer; Companion Held.

A Negro whom Private F. D. Bendure, of the Park Police, sought to arrest yesterday afternoon for investigation, wrenched away the policeman's service pistol and escaped after a chase during which he twice leveled the weapon at his pursuer.

Garnett Strother, 24, colored, 1642 Covington place northwest, companion of the escaped man, was arrested by Bendure and booked for investigation.

Bendure, off duty and in plain clothes, had stopped the man, who was driving a car said to have been borrowed by Strother, and occupied by the latter. Unable to display a registration card or permit, he was seized for arrest by the park policeman. At this point the scuffle began and Bendure reached for his baton, underneath his coat. The man also reached and grabbed the pistol, wrenching it away. Bendure was held at gun point for a moment, and then the man fled. Chasing him to an alley, Bendure was again confronted with the gun. After this the man got away.
